BREAKING NEWS:
PCI Education is now part of the PRO-ED family of products.

PRO-ED is proud to announce that it has acquired PCI Education.

Over its 20 year history, PCI produced an extensive collection of high quality special education materials and curricula for struggling learners at the elementary and secondary levels, and for English language learners.

PRO-ED is pleased to incorporate PCI’s strong lines of textbooks, interventions, and materials designed specifically for students with intellectual and developmental disabilities.

Since its inception in 1922, the Council for Exceptional Children (CEC) has played a leading role in advancing the education of children and youth with exceptionalities—students with disabilities and/or gifts and talents—and providing educational opportunities for its members and the field.

Core Values

CEC values:

- Dignity and worth of all individuals.
- Diversity and inclusiveness.
- Advocacy and social justice.
- Professional excellence, integrity, and accountability.
- Full participation in society.
- Effective individualized education.
- Family engagement.
- Collaboration and community.
- Responsibility to members.

Mission

The Council for Exceptional Children is an international community of professionals who are the voice and vision of special and gifted education. CEC’s mission is to improve, through excellence and advocacy, the education and quality of life for children and youth with exceptionalities and to enhance the engagement of their families.

Vision

The Council for Exceptional Children is a premier education organization, internationally renowned for its expertise and leadership, working collaboratively with strategic partners to ensure that children and youth with exceptionalities are valued and full participating members of society. As a diverse and vibrant professional community, CEC is a trusted voice in shaping education practice and policy.
WELCOME

The Council for Exceptional Children and San Antonio, Texas, welcome you to the 89th CEC Annual Convention and Expo—the world’s largest professional development event focused solely on the education of children and youth with exceptionalities. All of you who have contributed to the education of children and youth, as well as to this current convention program, should have an exciting and rewarding experience the next few days.

At the last convention, we celebrated CEC’s 90th anniversary as a professional association. We are thrilled that you are here with us for CEC’s 89th convention as we explore the possibilities of what we can achieve together for the children, youth, and families we serve. The annual convention & expo gives all of us a time to reflect on the meaning and potential that belonging to CEC can provide.

If you’re joining us in San Antonio on Tuesday, April 2, it’s not too late to register for one of Wednesday’s Preconvention Workshops or the Institute on Physical Restraint and Seclusion. Later on Wednesday, you will not want to miss our Opening General Session from 5:00-6:30 p.m., featuring Amy Brenneman, a strong proponent of inclusive education practices as well as an accomplished actress (“NYPD Blue,” “Private Practice”).

Thursday morning you begin your journey by making the hard decisions on which session or strand to attend. Your program will guide you through endless opportunities for learning about critical innovations, evidence-based practices, and policy affecting our field. Check out the depth of expertise from our invited speakers, add your voice at the Town Hall meeting, or participate in a day-long strand and explore timely topics in interrelated sessions. CEC Divisions offer terrific sessions on issues and practices relating to their specific mission and interests; each Division has a Showcase Session that may be just what you are looking for to enhance your practice in the classroom. Members of the 2013 Program Advisory Committee have carefully selected all the sessions in the program and we trust that you will find this to be one of the best of CEC’s convention programs.

Many of you can’t wait for the Expo to open as you know that it is always full of company-sponsored exhibits of specialized educational materials and cutting edge technology. The exhibit hall opens on Thursday at 9:00 a.m. and will be open until Saturday at 1:00 p.m. On Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, we have built “exclusive” time in the Expo Hall that does not compete with any convention sessions.

If you have never attended the Yes I Can! Awards Ceremony, you have really missed out on something special. Plan on attending this celebration of children and youth who have inspired their peers, teachers, and families by their accomplishments. This moving ceremony, scheduled on Friday, April 5, from 5:30 – 7:00 p.m., reminds us of the importance of the role we all play in improving the quality of life of children and youth with exceptionalities. And, don’t forget the Teacher of the Year Brunch on Saturday, April 6 at 10:30 a.m.

We hope you save a little time to take in the wonderful sights and sounds of San Antonio. The River Walk is world famous for its pleasant atmosphere and is a great setting to enjoy time with your friends and colleagues. Our local events coordinators can assist you at any time in helping you learn more about San Antonio.

Finally, we wish to recognize and thank the CEC staff, the 2013 Program Advisory and Local Arrangements Committees, San Antonio ISD, and all of our CEC member leaders participating in CEC governance meetings this week. We thank them for volunteering their time and talents to making CEC’s 89th Convention and Expo a huge success.

Christy A. Chambers
CEC President

Douglas Cheney
CEC Convention Program Chairperson
San Antonio 2013
Dear Friends and Colleagues,

On behalf of the 2013 Local Arrangements Committee (LAC) and the Council for Exceptional Children – Texas, it is my honor as LAC Chair to welcome you to San Antonio and the CEC 2013 Convention & Expo. During this exciting week, we are here to assist you in every way as you enjoy this year’s Convention program.

Today, we are fortunate that there are so many knowledgeable, scholarly professionals in our field. The amazing 2013 CEC Program Advisory Committee has selected an array of professional development opportunities addressing a variety of educational topics. You may choose to follow sessions around a single theme, or attend presentations on diverse subjects. With more than 800 sessions, there is something for everyone! Visit the Expo to meet vendors and experts who will assist you in finding helpful products and services. I invite you to take the time to explore the Expo and to participate in the meetings, receptions, and other social events held this week including the Student Forum on Thursday, April 4, the Yes I Can! Awards Ceremony on Friday, April 5, and the Teacher of the Year Brunch on Saturday, April 6. And, you will not want to miss the Texas Social on Thursday, April 4!

I hope you have some time to enjoy the great city of San Antonio while you are here. Stroll through the restored Japanese Tea Garden or swim with the dolphins at Sea World. Have an exquisitely good tamale at Tellez, a great local restaurant. Take a river taxi from one end of the River Walk to the other or watch the sunset from the 759-foot Tower of The Americas. Enjoy a historical stroll through the Alamo. Experience the joy of going fishing or riding a carousel for the first time through the eyes of an individual with exceptionalities at Morgan’s Wonderland.

I would like to acknowledge the tremendous efforts of the LAC Lead Team–Brenda Gilliam, Mishaleen Allen, Janice DeHaven, and Richard Evans; and Treasurer, Frank Dykes. A special thanks to the 25 Local Arrangements Subcommittee Chairpersons for their hard work and dedication, as well as to all the volunteers who have generously given their time and talents to make the Convention & Expo a success.

Thank you so much for all you do for children and youth with exceptionalities. Please enjoy your visit to our beautiful state and your time at the 2013 CEC Annual Convention and Expo!

Sincerely,

Carla Proctor

2013 Local Arrangements Chairperson
Welcome to San Antonio for the Council for Exceptional Children’s 2013 Convention & Expo! We are pleased to host you in our city.

Now the nation’s seventh-largest city, San Antonio represents the new face of America — a diverse, globally competitive city with a dynamic vision for national and international economic development. In addition to our unique treasures like the Alamo and the River Walk, you will find an emerging brainpower community fueled by a robust economy that is lead by the biosciences and other 21st century industries like aerospace, health care, and cybersecurity.

I hope you will have an opportunity while you are here to take in the myriad attractions in our city. On behalf of the residents of San Antonio, I wish all of you a memorable and enjoyable stay!

Sincerely,

JULIÁN CASTRO
MAYOR

Welcome to the CEC Annual Convention & Expo! On behalf of the Student Committee and CEC’s 6,000 student members, we invite you to take full advantage of this opportunity for professional development, personal growth, and networking with special educators from around the world. Begin your convention week at the Convention Orientation for Students on Wednesday afternoon to get the scoop on must-see sessions, exhibitors, recruiters, and special events. Later that afternoon attend the General Session with keynote speaker actress Amy Brenneman and recognition, CEC’s award winners, including the recipients of CEC’s Student Awards. On Thursday at 1:00, join us at the Student Forum. The Forum focuses on information for students. It starts with poster sessions and includes presentations and group discussions on topics of interest to student members and student chapters. Please refer to the Program Supplement for a complete list of the posters and other presentations at the Forum. There’s much more for students at this year’s convention! Be sure to check the Program Supplement for further information.

STUDENT SPOT
Located in CEC Central, CEC Registration Area, Expo Hall C, Street Level

This is THE place to get information on all events for students plus places to eat and things to do and see in San Antonio. Stop by and pick up information and ask the “locals” about their favorite hangouts. The Student Spot will also have general information about the convention and CEC Student membership.

CONVENTION ORIENTATION FOR STUDENTS
Wednesday, April 3, 3:30-4:30 p.m.
Seguin A/B, Level 4, Grand Hyatt San Antonio

Whether this is your first convention or you’re a “veteran,” you’ll want to attend this popular session to learn how to maximize your convention experience. We’ll highlight sessions and events of interest to students to help you plan your time at the convention. Get tips on how to get the most out of the exhibit show. Be sure to join us for this orientation designed specifically for students!

STUDENT AWARDS
Wednesday, April 3, 5:00 p.m.
Grand Ballroom C, Convention Center

The recipients of the Outstanding Student Awards and Susan Phillips Gorin Award will be recognized as part of the Opening General Session.

The recipients of the Graduation Scholarships and Kayte M. Fearn CEC Ethnic Diversity Scholarship will be recognized as part of a special awards ceremony at the Student Forum on Thursday afternoon.

CAREER OPPORTUNITIES
Thursday, April 4, 9:00 a.m.-4:00 p.m.
Friday, April 5, 9:00 a.m.-4:00 pm
Saturday, April 6, 9:00 a.m.-1:00 pm
Expo Hall C, Street Level

Whether you are looking for a job, just scoping out the career market, or want information from various school districts, check out the recruiters in the Expo Hall. School districts from across the United States will be represented. This is an excellent opportunity for you to find a great job so bring your resume and schedule an interview!

STUDENT FORUM
Thursday, April 4, 1:00-4:00 p.m.
Lone Star Ballroom D, Grand Hyatt San Antonio

Join your colleagues at the tenth Annual Student Forum! The Forum is a collection of presentations addressing issues of interest to and directly affecting students. You’ll get tips on how to successfully navigate the transition from student to first-year educator, instructional strategies, keeping up with technology, and ideas for CEC student chapters. The Forum is also your opportunity to find out more about CEC, how you can be a more active member, and the leadership opportunities in CEC for student members. Our 2013 student scholarship and award recipients will also be recognized. Please see the Program Supplement for a complete list of the posters and other presentations at the Forum as well as a list of the 2013 student scholarship and award recipients.

Continuing Education Units (CEUs) From the Council for Exceptional Children

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS ABOUT CEC CEUs

What Are CEUs? Local education agencies (LEAs), state education agencies (SEAs) and some professional associations require employees/members to complete certain types of professional development activities. Continuing Education Units (CEUs) are awarded to provide evidence of the completion of these activities. CEUs are not university credits. CEC awards .10 CEU for each hour of instruction.

Will My School District, State or Other Organization Accept CEC CEUs? Most state education agencies accept CEC CEUs; however others do not. You need to contact your district or state department of education to find out whether CEC CEUs are accepted. CEC provides participants with a transcript verifying the CEUs earned, but it is the responsibility of individuals to submit their CEUs to their employers.

Can I Earn CEUs at the CEC Convention & Expo? At the 2013 convention, you may earn CEUs for attending any of the Preconvention Workshops, the Restraint and Seclusion Institute or all of the sessions of any of the convention Strands. These events are eligible for CEUs because they specify and evaluate learner outcomes. Each hour at one of these events earns .10 of a CEU.

Preconvention Workshops
The majority of the Preconvention Workshops are 6 hours in length. If you attend a 6-hour Preconvention Workshop, you are eligible to earn .6 CEUs. Preconvention Workshops 9-15 are each 3 hours in length, which is equivalent to .3 CEUs.

CEC Institute on Restraint and Seclusion:
The Institute is 6 hours in length. If you attend the Institute, you are eligible to earn .6 CEUs.

Strands
In order to be eligible to earn CEUs for one or more strands, you must attend all the sessions in those strands. Strands differ in the number of sessions they include, and therefore in the number of CEUs that can be earned. However, as with other CEU-earning events, each hour of instruction is worth .10 CEU. Credit will not be given to individuals who do not attend all the sessions in any given strand. In addition, CEUs cannot be earned by combining sessions in different strands.

Earn CEC CEUs in 3 Easy Steps!

1. REGISTER. Your full convention registration gives you access to all the Strands. Preconvention Workshops and the Institute require a separate registration fee. You can register and pay for a Preconvention Workshop or the Institute until the morning of Wednesday, April 3.

2. PARTICIPATE. Attend the full Preconvention Workshop, the Institute or a Strand. You must attend each session in the Strand. Credit will not be given to individuals who attend sessions across Strands.

3. COMPLETE THE PARTICIPANT EVALUATION. At the end of each Preconvention Workshop, the Institute and each Strand, Program Hosts will distribute “bookmarks” that carry a URL that links to the participant form for that particular event. Enter that URL into the Internet browser on your computer, and it will take you to the Survey Monkey form for that Workshop, Institute or Strand. If you fill the form out completely, including the name and address page, then the CEUs for that event will be awarded to you, and you will receive a CEU transcript in the mail.

When Do I Get My Transcript?
You will receive a transcript of the CEC CEUs you have earned and applied for, via the Survey Monkey forms described above, within approximately eight weeks from the date on which you complete the online form. Your record of CEC CEUs will be maintained for five years. You must apply for the CEUs by April 30, 2013. To request a transcript of all CEUs you have earned over the past five years, please e-mail profdev@cec.sped.org with your name, your contact information and the details of your request. You may request one transcript per year at no charge. Additional transcripts are $10 each.

How much are CEUs?
There is no additional charge for CEUs; the cost is included in your registration fees.

How Can My Employer Verify I Attended?
Your CEU transcript can be used for this. If you don’t want CEUs but need to show your employer proof of attendance, please stop by the on-site Headquarters Office, located in CEC Central, where registration is located, and request a Certificate of Attendance. Your certificate will be available for you to pick up by the end of the day.
SESSION INFORMATION

The CEC convention encompasses more than 800 sessions. The majority are 1-hour professional sessions presented Thursday through Saturday. Listed below are the descriptions of the session types included in the 2013 program.

Demonstrations
One- to 2-hour sessions in which presenters demonstrate innovative instructional materials and strategies.

Division Showcase Sessions
The showcase session addresses a critical or future issue related to the general mission of each division. All of CEC’s divisions have planned a feature session that highlights their area of interest.

Exhibitor Showcase Sessions
Exhibitor showcase sessions are offered to vendors who have contracted with CEC for space in the expo hall. These sessions do not come through the Call for Papers and Presentations process and are not juried. The speakers pay a fee for audiovisual equipment and/or Internet service. The presentations may focus on products or services offered by the vendors.

Featured Sessions and Special Focus Sessions
Special invited sessions focusing on current issues in the field.

Lectures
One-hour sessions on important topics designed for you to interact with presenter(s) and other participants.

Multiple Presentations
Multiple presentation sessions are 1- to 2-hour sessions in which two or three presenters are given approximately 10-15 minutes each to present their papers on a common topic, followed by 15-20 minutes of dialogue led by a discussant.

Panels
Moderated 1- to 2-hour sessions designed to provide participants with multiple perspectives on a given topic.

Posters
Interact with the presenters as they share their innovative strategies during these 45-minute sessions! Designed to present research findings and practical information in a visual format, poster sessions allow participants to formally discuss the presentation displays one-on-one as well as gather materials for later professional use.

Program Chair Invited Speakers
Signature sessions selected by the convention program chairperson and features key leaders in special education or related disciplines. Presentations explore a broad range of topics and issues of significance to the field.

Strands
Strands explore specific educational topics in depth through a series of conceptually and developmentally linked sequential sessions. You may elect to attend all strand sessions (and be eligible for CEUs), or you may attend one, two, or as many sessions of a strand as you like.

Town Hall Meetings
Attend one or more of these stimulating and interactive meetings that focus on current topics in education today. Join the dialogue. Participate!

EARN CEUs

At CEC 2013, you may earn CEC CEUs by attending a Preconvention Workshop, the Institute on Physical Restraint and Seclusion, or all sessions in a Strand (see page 42).

In addition, the CEC Division on Visual Impairments (DVI) is sponsoring Academy for Certification of Vision Rehabilitation and Education Professionals (ACVREP) continuing education credits for Certified O&M Specialists (COMS), Certified Low Vision Specialists (CLVT), and Certified Vision Rehabilitation Therapists (CVRT). Continuing education credits can be earned in the 14 DVI-sponsored presentations only.

WORKSHOP 2  Room: 209  LIFE CENTERED EDUCATION—CEC’S NEWLY REVISED LIFE SKILLS CURRICULUM AND ASSESSMENT WEB PORTAL*

Leader: Pat Burch, Framington, MO

Attend this workshop and learn about the processes and procedures for implementing the assessment and instructional components of the Life Centered Education curriculum, a motivating and effective classroom, home, and community-based curriculum designed to prepare students to function independently and productively. This in-depth and comprehensive life skills curriculum, aligned with the Common Core State Standards, identifies three critical domains for adult living in the 21st century - daily living skills, self-determination and interpersonal skills, and employment skills. It incorporates 94 life skills and competencies, with differentiated lesson plans and objectives for each one.

At the end of this workshop, participants will be able to:
- Explain the components and use of the curriculum.
- Discuss revisions to the curriculum and its implementation.

Who Should Attend? Special Educators (All levels), Administrators/Supervisors, Paraeducators, Parents/Families, Community Agency Providers

WORKSHOP 3  Room: 208  THE PARAEDUCATOR AND TEACHER TEAM: COMMUNICATION AND TEAM BUILDING STRATEGIES FOR SUCCESS!

Leader: Kent Gerlach, Pacific Lutheran University, Tacoma, WA

To be successful, the teacher and paraeducator must view themselves as a team and partners in the educational process. This workshop will present an overview of effective teamwork with a focus on paraeducator and teacher teams. Topics will include creating a positive environment, building a foundation for effective communication, role clarification, time management strategies, goal setting, and team leadership. Additional topics will include effective communication and meeting techniques, problem solving, and dealing with different personalities found in a work environment. Strategies to build trust and improved communication will be addressed including ethical guidelines for effective communication, training evaluation and supervision.

At the end of this workshop, participants will be able to:
- Define communication, collaboration, and teamwork.
- Identify communication skills important to working with other team members.
- Explain the importance of problem solving as it applies to school-based teams.
- Identify and give examples of the types of strategies used to seek, provide, and clarify information.
- Describe successful meetings and activities that contribute to their success.
- Understand different work styles.
- Learn time management strategies.

Who Should Attend? Special Educators (All levels), General Educators (Early Childhood  Middle School), Administrators/Supervisors, Paraeducators

Leader: Kent Gerlach, Pacific Lutheran University, Tacoma, WA
PRECONVENTION WORKSHOPS

WORKSHOP 4
CLASSROOM MANAGEMENT STRATEGIES THAT WORK

In this educator-friendly workshop, attendees will be equipped to do what works to create a healthy and positive classroom learning environment. Attendees will come away with doable strategies to establish the positive classroom culture they envision and to keep it going all year. Educators who apply the content of this workshop will experience reduced teacher stress, improved teacher job satisfaction, and more time to teach. Their students will see improved academic engaged time, academic success, and greater social and emotional well-being. Culturally responsive classroom management practices and strategies for differentiating to meet diverse student needs will be emphasized.

At the end of this workshop, participants will be able to:

- Generate an action plan for improving their classroom management approach.
- Identify which strategies need to be strengthened in their classrooms (e.g., overall organizational features, ongoing professional development and coaching, instructional practices, systems for responding to behavior, monitoring behavioral success).
- Understand how to embed the strategies discussed within core, secondary (Tier II), and tertiary (Tier III) positive behavioral intervention and support (PBIS) systems.

Who Should Attend? Special Educators (All levels), General Educators (All Levels), Administrators/Supervisors (Special and General Education), School Psychologists, Counselors, Alternative School Teachers, Mental Health Providers

Leader: Gregory J. Benner, University of Tacoma, Washington

WORKSHOP 5A
PROGRAM DEVELOPER WORKSHOP: HOW TO PREPARE THE PROGRAM RECOGNITION REPORTS

The CEC Program Developer Workshop assists individuals developing CEC Preparation Program Recognition Reports. Participants have the opportunity to interact with colleagues and the consultants and learn the components of a performance-based teacher preparation program. All participants completing the workshop will receive What Every Special Educator Must Know: Ethics Standards and Guidelines, the CEC Program Developer Resource manual, and .6 CEC Continuing education units.

At the end of this workshop, participants will be able to:

- Understand the CEC program recognition report process and cycle.
- Discuss the essential elements of a program report.
- Develop program performance-based assessments.
- Align program assessments with major elements of the CEC Content Standards.
- Collect and analyze program data on their candidates.
- Use data to analyze current program strengths and weaknesses.
- Present aggregated data.
- Develop the program report.
- Identify exemplars of program recognition report components, and tips for high quality program recognition reports.
- Identify resources for further support in developing a program report.

Who Should Attend? Special education college and university personnel interested in learning to develop program reports for the CEC program recognition process.

Leader: Joni Baldwin, University of Dayton, Ohio
At the end of this workshop, participants will be able to:

- Explain the steps and components in reviewing a CEC Preparation Program Recognition Report.
- Assure program assessments align with the major elements of the CEC Content Standards as informed by the appropriate specialty set(s).
- Review special education preparation programs for CEC recognition.
- Determine if the program data demonstrates candidate mastery and if the data informs program improvement.
- Describe how to obtain further support in developing a CEC Program Review Report.

Who Should Attend? Special education college higher education personnel preparing to become a CEC Program Reviewer.

Leader: Christy Hooser, Eastern Illinois University, Charleston

This engaging workshop will provide practical strategies for those in leadership roles related to co-teaching: developing a collaborative culture, scheduling, staffing, using technology, classroom observations, and data collection of outcomes. If co-teaching partners lack the co-planning, shared instruction, and differentiated practice that is supposed to be the hallmark of effective co-teaching, it is unlikely that any real change will be seen for students with or without disabilities. Those in positions to support co-teachers need to ensure that co-teachers are engaged in those collaborative activities that distinguish co-teaching from the type of traditional instruction that has not been effective in meeting students’ needs in the past. This workshop will provide practical strategies for those in leadership roles related to co-teaching by presenting them in a clear, engaging, and co-taught format.

At the end of this workshop, participants will be able to:

- Identify five key elements to enhance co-teaching effectiveness from a leadership perspective.
- Create two concrete goals for improving the co-teaching practices at their own sites.

WORKSHOP 11
COMPETITION, PRIVATIZATION, FUNDING AND NEW ACCOUNTABILITY SYSTEMS?
(9:00am - Noon)

In this broad ranging presentation, CEC’s Policy and Advocacy team will both analyze special education policies supported by the Administration and Congress over the last 4 years and look ahead to future issues. Topics will include the U.S. Senate and House of Representatives work on the reauthorization of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act (ESEA), with a special focus on its most controversial provisions – such as differentiated compensation, turnaround models, restraint and seclusion, assessment and accountability, and charter schools. The team will also review ongoing implementation of Race to the Top grants and ESEA waivers. Other topics to be discussed will include school climate and mental health, teacher evaluation, early childhood, and the federal budget.

At the end of this workshop, participants will be able to:

- Identify and understand key special/gifted education policy issues currently under consideration by the Obama Administration and U.S. Congress.
- Understand issues complicating the reauthorization of ESEA/NCLB.
- Understand relevant U.S. Department of Education guidance.
- Understand upcoming federal budget procedures and process.
- Understand CEC’s recommendations and positions on key policy issues.

Who should attend? All special educators, administrators, related services personnel, higher education professionals, and others.

Leader(s): Deborah Ziegler, Lindsay Jones, and Kimberly Hymes, Council for Exceptional Children, Arlington, VA

WORKSHOP 12
RESEARCH-BASED LITERACY STRATEGIES FOR STUDENTS WITH INTELLECTUAL AND DEVELOPMENTAL DISABILITIES
(1:00 - 4:00pm—Exhibitor Workshop)

Many students with intellectual and developmental disabilities struggle with reading and writing, particularly those students who experience challenges with short- and long-term retention and generalization skills. This workshop will focus on four evidence-based strategies, including errorless teaching, mastery-based learning, positive reinforcement, and multisensory teaching, and apply those strategies to teaching reading and language arts. Examples from two programs the lead presenter has authored, the PCI Reading Program and Environmental Print Series, will be provided. Participants will learn how to apply these strategies within any reading or language arts curriculum and leave with several hands-on activities to use in the classroom.

At the end of this workshop, participants will be able to:

- Describe four evidence-based instructional strategies for students with intellectual and developmental disabilities.
- Apply these instructional strategies to reading and writing instruction in their own schools and classrooms.
- Identify characteristics of commercial literacy programs that incorporate effective strategies for students with intellectual and developmental disabilities.
- Create several manipulatives incorporating evidence-based strategies that can be used in their schools and classrooms.

WORKSHOP 13 Room: 213
DATA-DESIGNED STUDENT BEHAVIOR SUPPORTS FOR THE GENERAL EDUCATION SETTING
(1:00 - 4:00pm—Exhibitor Workshop)
The Student Inventory for Behavior Support (SIBS) helps determine supports for behaviorally challenged students. Intensity of behavior is described with graphs and frequency of teacher intervention. The data help decide level of support required on a continuum from accommodations to Paraeducator help. SIBS assists administrators to allocate resources more effectively.

At the end of this workshop, participants will be able to:

• Understand a standard observation practice to collect data to assist students who have significant behavioral challenges.
• Learn how to describe student behavior across settings with a visual display of behavior.
• Understand that based on the data, effective supports may be designed to help students succeed in the classroom.

WORKSHOP 14 Room: 210B
15 YEARS OF WORK CULMINATE INTO THE FIRST WRITING CURRICULUM FOR STUDENTS WITH DEVELOPMENTAL DISABILITIES
(1:00 - 4:00pm—Exhibitor Workshop)
Many students with developmental disabilities never develop the most basic writing skills. This presentation brings together 15 years of work focused on methods that help these students learn to write.

Workshop participants will focus on:

• the first scientifically based writing curriculum for students with developmental disabilities;
• a new writing scale sensitive enough to detect the smallest writing growth undetectable by other methods; and
• new writing technology funded by an NIH grant that supports the writing process while collecting formative and summative data for progress monitoring.
 Attendees will hear case examples and see writing samples and results from our research with 150+ student participants with autism spectrum disorders, intellectual disabilities, and speech and severe physical impairments.

At the end of this workshop, participants will be able to:

• Understand the elements of a comprehensive, high-quality writing curriculum for students with significant disabilities.
• Learn how conventional writing scales break down for beginning writers with developmental disabilities and will be among the first to see a new 14-level writing scale that is sensitive to the smallest growth.
• Explore how technology can support beginning writers and provide formative data on writing progress.

IMPLEMENTING TIERED INSTRUCTION FOR PRESCHOOLERS WITH DIVERSE ABILITIES
Room: 210B

Kristie Pretti-Frontczak

Planning effective learning opportunities for young children with diverse abilities can be a challenge, particularly with increasing pressures around Kindergarten readiness. This half-day workshop will provide guidance on how to plan and implement effective and intentional teaching sequences across daily routines and activities. Participants will increase their skills in identifying “who needs to learn what,” delivering developmentally appropriate instructional opportunities, and engaging in differentiated performance monitoring efforts.

At the end of this workshop, participants will be able to:
• Identify sources of common learning outcomes for diverse groups of young children.
• Identify daily routines and activities where learning opportunities can be embedded.
• Develop multiple and varied teaching sequences built upon the principles of universal design for learning and developmentally appropriate practice.
• Gain an understanding of how to implement a differentiated approach to performance monitoring.

Who Should Attend? Pre-K providers, which may include direct providers (e.g., teachers, therapists, paraprofessionals), and those who train and support Pre-K providers (e.g., faculty, professional development trainers, coaches, supervisors). Pre-K providers working in Head Start, child-care, public Pre-K, and/or preschool special education settings are invited to attend.

Leader(s): Kristie Pretti-Frontczak, Kent State University, OH

WORKSHOP 16
THE HIGHLY ENGAGED INCLUSIVE CLASSROOM: PRACTICAL STRATEGIES TO BOOST STUDENT ACHIEVEMENT AND MOTIVATION
Room: 214D
(9:00 a.m. - 4:00 p.m.)

Susan Hentz

In this fast-paced workshop, the presenter will share practical strategies, tools, and ideas for creating a highly engaging classroom where every student is an active learner. Learn successful techniques to motivate your students, maintain their involvement, and improve their achievement. From super-charged warm-up ideas to dynamic exit activities, you’ll receive countless tips, tools, and strategies for creating the kind of learning environment that encourages students to listen, participate, and be fully engaged. You will leave with no-cost/low-cost ideas to positively impact students, along with the inspiration to fully engage every learner in your classroom.

At the end of this workshop, participants will be able to:
• Discuss highly effective classroom management strategies to support the diverse needs of all students.
• Incorporate outstanding response tools that guarantee active involvement.
• Implement effective ways to differentiate your instruction to increase success and strengthen achievement of all students by using a variety of flexible grouping.

Who Should Attend? General education teachers, Special education teachers, Staff developers, Learning coaches, Paraeducators, and Administrators.

Leader(s): Susan Hentz, Susan Hentz & Associates, Sarasota, FL
The use of physical restraint and seclusion procedures with students has become very controversial. These procedures have resulted in deaths and injuries which has motivated many proposed changes at the federal and state level. There is now a consensus in the professional community that these procedures not be used unless there is a risk of imminent physical injury to someone by a student, and that if used they should be employed only by trained personnel under carefully prescribed procedures with documentation and clear communication with parents.

This institute will provide special educators with the most current information about this topic. Presenters will provide an overview of the current status of federal and state polices, discuss ethical and practical issues, propose preventative and alternative procedures including de-escalation which could prevent the need for the use of restraint or seclusion, and suggest policy guidelines for schools and districts.

At the end of this institute, participants will be able to:

• Understand the current apparent over-use and inappropriate use of physical restraint and seclusion in many locations, and how that may indicate a failure of programming for students.
• Understand the dangers, potentially abusive situations, and ethical problems which may result from the use of physical restraint or seclusion procedures.
• Identify current laws, policies, and guidelines governing the use of physical restraint and seclusion procedures in school settings as well as related recommendations for practice in using these procedures.
• Identify a variety of prevention and conflict de-escalation strategies to minimize the need for using physical restraint and seclusion procedures in schools.
• Identify key components in an action plan on how educators can create or evaluate their policies and procedures, their training, and individual practice guidelines for the use of these procedures.

BRIDGING COGNITIVE NEUROSCIENCE AND SPECIAL EDUCATION: DEVELOPING LEADERS TO TRANSFORM TEACHING AND LEARNING

Topic Area: Teacher Education
Secondary Topic: Research
Format: Panel

New understanding about brain development challenges leaders in matters of educational practice and policy to rethink their conventional wisdom and long-standing practices, which has implications for every aspect of teaching and learning within special and general education environments. This session will (1) present the theory, principles, and rationale for bridging cognitive neuroscience and special education and for the translation of research for practice and policy; (2) discuss lessons learned from a multiyear transformation of our traditional special education program; (3) introduce strategies for incorporating emerging brain research into special education leadership curriculum.

RESEARCH DIRECTIONS: A REPORT ON AND DISCUSSION OF THE 2012 IRA/NICHD EXPERT PANEL ON RESEARCH ON THE READING-WRITING CONNECTION

Topic Area: Research
Secondary Topic: Instructional Design and Strategies
Format: Panel

The International Reading Association and the National Institute of Child Health and Human Development convened a panel to consider research on the relationships between reading and writing. This session will share the findings which focus on reading and writing processes and development; instructional issues; technology; measurement, tests, and assessment; research needs, and sharing the current knowledge base. The report will inform policy makers and funding agencies, including the U.S. Department of Education, in setting priorities for research in the next 3-5 years. Panel members will summarize the report and allow time for audience interaction.

THE INTERSECTION OF THE ARTS AND SPECIAL EDUCATION: A KENNEDY CENTER FORUM

Topic Area: Arts in Special Education
Secondary Topic: Collaboration and Inclusive Practices
Format: Panel

Arts educators, special educators, administrators, researchers, practitioners, parents, and students with disabilities were invited by The Kennedy Center/VSA to a groundbreaking forum that explored where and how the arts and special education intersect. That intersection and future goals and directions will be shared and participation encouraged.

WHAT TO DO WITH A PHD: UNDERSTANDING CAREER OPTIONS AND PREPARING FOR THE RIGHT JOB AFTER GRADUATION

Topic Area: Strategies for Entry to the Special Education Career
Secondary Topic: Teacher Education
Format: Lecture

Findings indicate that the demand for special education PhDs will continue to outstrip the pool of qualified candidates. Although more than 1,500 U.S. universities and colleges train special education teachers, fewer than 100 institutions provide doctoral-level preparation. This ratio presents interesting challenges for the field. During this session, designed specifically for current doctoral students and doctoral advisors, traditional higher education careers and other viable PhD options will be explored. Panelists share strategies for effective alignment of professional and personal goals and doctoral-program learning experiences that help prepare students for success after graduation.

OVERVIEW OF THE NATIONAL CENTER FOR SPECIAL EDUCATION RESEARCH (NCSER)

Topic Area: Research
Secondary Topic: Public Policy
Format: Lecture

In this session, Deborah Speece, Commissioner, National Center for Special Education Research (NCSER), Institute of Education Science (IES), U.S. Department of Education, will provide an overview of NCSER’s mission, goals, and funding patterns. She will review the Center’s accomplishments over the past year and provide thoughts on future directions for research. NCSER sponsors research that focuses on the needs of infants, toddlers, children, and youth with disabilities, or who are at risk for developing disabilities as well as their teachers and parents. NCSER is one of four Centers within IES, the primary research arm of the Department of Education.

A TOWN HALL MEETING: ADDRESSING DISPROPORTIONALITY IN SPECIAL EDUCATION AND SCHOOL DISCIPLINE: WHERE DO WE STAND AND WHERE ARE WE GOING?

Topic Area: Cultural and/or Linguistic Diversity
Secondary Topic: Public Policy
Format: Panel

The landscape regarding disproportionality in special education and school discipline remains highly complex. This town hall will provide a status report of where the field stands with respect to policy regarding racial/ethnic disproportionality in special education and discipline and address many questions concerning this topic such as: Where are the policy mandates addressing disparities? What types of local or state initiatives are addressing disproportionality? What are the obstacles to addressing disproportionality and how might they be addressed? What key attitudes, perspectives, and knowledge might be required to be effective in moving this issue forward?

IMPROVING STUDENT BEHAVIOR IN SECONDARY SCHOOLS: RECOMMENDATIONS AND RESEARCH EVIDENCE

Topic Area: Emotional and Behavioral Disorders
Secondary Topic: Research
Format: Panel

This session will discuss results from a review of research evidence on interventions and strategies to improve student behavior and identify evidence-based strategies that can be applied in secondary schools. Five specific recommendations, generated by an expert panel whose members came together to consider the evidence, will be presented, along with examples of how they can be implemented in secondary schools with a wide range of student populations and school characteristics. The panel will encourage audience discussion of the applicability of the recommendations to their own school contexts and of possible extensions, revisions, or modifications to the recommendations.

KEEPING IT COOL: USING YOGA AND RELAXATION STRATEGIES WITH EXCEPTIONAL CHILDREN TO HELP STUDENTS COOL DOWN, FOCUS, AND LEARN!

Topic Area: Emotional and Behavioral Disorders
Secondary Topic: Instructional Design and Strategies
Format: Demonstration

In this session, innovative relaxation, breathing, and yoga tools will be modeled for participants. This session is highly interactive and engages conference attendees through experiential learning, reflection, and collaboration. By first analyzing what structural pieces, rules, and expectations are consistent in their classrooms daily, participants will find space to effectively implement relaxation, breathing, and yoga tools to positively impact student behavior and academic achievement.

IMPLEMENTING EFFECTIVE PROGRAM EVALUATION TO IMPROVE SYSTEMS AND SUPPORTS FOR STUDENTS WITH CHALLENGING BEHAVIORS

Topic Area: Emotional and Behavioral Disorders
Secondary Topic: Assessment
Format: Lecture

When developing and implementing systems to support students with challenging behaviors, schools on their own often do not have the capacity or organizational structures to sustain or measure systemic improvements. Additionally, bridging the ongoing research to practice divide in this area remains a challenge. This session will focus on ways schools can use the participatory program evaluation process to implement meaningful and sustainable improvements in their schoolwide PBIS systems, as well as in specialized programs for students with disabilities. Participants will learn strategies to plan, measure, and implement more effective and efficient systems and programs in their own schools.

VOICES FROM BOTH SIDES OF THE TABLE: SPECIAL EDUCATORS WITH DISABILITIES TEACHING INDIVIDUALS WITH DISABILITIES

Topic Area: Physical/Health/Multiple Disabilities
Secondary Topic: Research
Format: Panel

This session will provide an opportunity for educators with disabilities to share their unique perspective of working with individuals with disabilities while managing their own challenges related to their disability. Attendees will hear an overview of research surrounding educators with disabilities, and participate in a Q&A session with the facilitators and an open Q&A session at the end for questions from the audience. The panel participants will share strategies that make them a successful educator. Additionally, panelists will discuss how their disability supports their working with individuals with disabilities.

Two General Supervision Enhancement Grant (GSEG) consortia were funded in 2010 to build Alternate Assessments based on Alternate Achievement Standards (AA-AAS) linked to the Common Core State Standards (CCSS). These consortia represent more than 32 states and territories and are the largest grants ever awarded for such work. Discussion topics include the collaboration to create common participation guidelines and its importance and the progress so far, the assessment experience that students will have when being assessed, and professional development that is being implemented to support teachers in both consortia. The session will conclude with a question and answer period.

Our nation's classrooms are one of the primary social locations where the meanings and implications of diversity come into play on a daily basis. Increasingly, the longstanding assumptions and practices of researchers as well as educators and policy makers are being challenged by an ever more complicated mixture of cultural and linguistic differences, multiple policies targeting equity concerns, and professional practices representing distinct disciplinary standpoints. Special education, in particular, is grappling with issues related to identification, instruction, personnel preparation, and the influence of social capital on how we intervene in the lives of children and their families. This session will identify and critique the ways in which current tensions and dilemmas about cultural and linguistic differences and disability are conceptualized and studied so as to better address these complex intersections. Further, attendees will learn about alternative framings and research approaches to inform future scholarship and policy analysis.

Teaching students with autism is difficult, particularly if they present with externalizing behaviors such as tantrums, and aggression, or internalizing issues such as anxiety, perfectionism, and cognitive rigidity. Such maladaptive behavior can impede learning, and limit access to integrated settings. This session will focus on recommended intervention approaches including strategies based in applied behavior analysis, and sometimes, psychotropic medication. Presenters will discuss the importance for school personnel to understand the rationale and complementary relationship between these intervention models, and to respond in ways that assure positive student outcomes.

Assistive technology is widely viewed as an important component of services to students with disabilities, as witnessed by its incorporation into IDEA. During the process of developing an IEP for a student with a disability, the multidisciplinary team must consider whether the child needs assistive technology devices and services. A New Generation of School Reform: What Does It Mean for Special Education?

Leader(s): Martha Thurlow, Sheryl Lazarus, and Laurene Christensen, National Center on Educational Outcomes, University of Minnesota, Minneapolis

What are special educators to do in the face of new school reforms like the Common Core State Standards with their increased rigor, and new accountability systems that may leave students with disabilities behind? The past few years have brought a host of educational reforms, with an emphasis on defining what students need to know to be ready for college and career. A host of organizations and content specialists worked together to develop the Common Core State Standards in English Language Arts and Mathematics that have now been adopted by most states. The No Child Left Behind accountability system is fading away in many states as they receive new flexibilities. But, what do those flexibilities mean for students with disabilities in reward, focus, priority, and other schools? Are they lost in this new net of targets and expectations? What demands does this new generation of school reforms place on leaders and educators? This strand will explore the new content standards and the assessments under development to measure them, the role of leaders in this new generation of reform, the critical role of collaboration, and educator effectiveness evaluation for special educators.

At the end of this strand, participants will be able to:

1. Identify and describe new school reforms that may have an effect on students with disabilities and special educators.
2. Generate strategies for school leaders to ensure that students with disabilities succeed under school reform efforts.
3. Understand the challenges that surround requirements for educator effectiveness evaluations and collaboration.
4. Develop an action plan for ensuring that students with disabilities are not forgotten nor left behind in the new generation of school reform.

WHERE WE HAVE BEEN AND WHERE WE ARE GOING IN SCHOOL REFORM

Topic Area: Accessing the General Education Curriculum that is Aligned with State Standards

Secondary Topic: Accountability & Large Scale Assessments

Format: Lecture

The latest waves of school reform focus on increasing the rigor on the standards to which students are held, changing accountability systems, and holding educators responsible for the performance of their students. This session will highlight the nature of these reforms and their implications for students with disabilities.

COLLEGE AND CAREER READY STANDARDS: THE COMMON CORE AND STUDENTS WITH DISABILITIES

Topic Area: Accessing the General Education Curriculum that is Aligned with State Standards

Secondary Topic: Teacher Education

Format: Panel

What does it mean to “college and career ready”? And, how does this relate to the Common Core State Standards? This session highlights the Common Core State Standards, their connection to college and career readiness, and the implications for students with disabilities.

SCHOOL LEADERS FOR ALL STUDENTS, INCLUDING THOSE WITH DISABILITIES

Topic Area: Accessing the General Education Curriculum that is Aligned with State Standards

Secondary Topic: Accountability & Large Scale Assessments

Format: Panel

How can school leaders maintain focus to improve outcomes for all students amid the challenges of school reform? This session will share examples from the trenches about how school leaders have met the challenges of school reform and improved outcomes for all students, including those with disabilities.

INNOVATIVE PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT IN AN ERA OF COLLEGE AND CAREER READINESS

Topic Area: Accessing the General Education Curriculum that is Aligned with State Standards

Format: Demonstration

In this era of education reform, teachers need to develop a sound understanding of how to increase student learning. In this session two innovative online tools will be demonstrated: (1) a standards-based IEP tutorial that develops IEPs which guide the instructional focus; and (2) accommodations training modules that empower teachers to make good decisions.

EDUCATOR EFFECTIVENESS EVALUATIONS: INCLUDING STUDENTS WITH DISABILITIES AND SPECIAL EDUCATORS

Topic Area: Accountability & Large Scale Assessments

Secondary Topic: Pioneers/Historical Perspectives

Format: Panel

This session explores issues related to the inclusion of students with disabilities and their teachers in educator evaluation systems. Panel members will provide an overview of the approaches used by several states and investigate issues that need to be considered as the models are developed and implemented.

Although there is extensive research conducted with elementary-age students with disabilities, similar research with adolescents is limited. Research that has been conducted to date among adolescents with disabilities, especially those with significant emotional and behavioral disorders, has indicated a complex and difficult challenge. Given the poor outcomes among this age group, such as high rates of dropout and academic performance difficulties, the development of evidence-based intervention approaches is imperative. The sessions in this strand will describe intervention strategies and approaches for adolescents with disabilities.

At the end of this strand, participants will be able to:

1. Describe an assessment-based approach for providing tiered and individualized intervention.
2. Identify appropriate student accommodations based on assessment data.
3. Understand how to identify feasible evidence-based interventions for mental health problems.
4. Identify the characteristics of effective reading programs for adolescents with reading disabilities.

A MODEL FOR SELECTING ACCOMMODATIONS FOR STUDENTS WITH EMOTIONAL AND BEHAVIORAL DISORDERS

Topic Area: Emotional and Behavioral Disorders
Secondary Topic: Research
Format: Lecture

This session will highlight an accommodations selection model that matches accommodations to student needs. The model was developed by a National Center focused on effective practices for secondary students with emotional and behavioral difficulties. After the model was evaluated with teachers and students included in general education curriculum, effects on student engagement and acceptability data were examined. Findings will be discussed.

A DATA-DRIVEN TIERED APPROACH TO INTERVENTION FOR ADOLESCENTS

Topic Area: Administration/Supervision
Secondary Topic: Career Development/Transition
Format: Lecture

Schools face many challenges to ensure all students are college and career ready. In this session, we will summarize an organizer for aligning disparate interventions and targeted initiatives into a more comprehensive approach, discuss a data-driven tiered approach to gauging student need and progress, and identify specific interventions to enable all students to reach their potential.

ACHIEVING FEASIBILITY WITH EVIDENCE-BASED SCHOOL MENTAL HEALTH INTERVENTIONS IN HIGH SCHOOLS

Topic Area: Emotional and Behavioral Disorders
Secondary Topic: Assessment
Format: Lecture

School mental health services in high schools have the potential to provide access to evidence-based care for adolescents with emotional and behavioral problems. This session will present findings related to the development and evaluation of interventions for adolescents with internalizing or externalizing disorders and discuss the challenges associated with implementation in high schools.

EXAMINING READING GAINS ACROSS THREE MIDDLE SCHOOL READING PROJECTS

Topic Area: Learning Disabilities
Secondary Topic: Instructional Design and Strategies
Format: Lecture

This session highlights a project that explored adolescents’ (6th - 8th grades) with reading difficulties response to three different reading programs from a group and individual gain perspective. The findings show students responded best to a hierarchical organizational of the reading components. Results from group and individual student response to the different organization of the components will be discussed.

The field of special education has had a long tradition of research and practical strategies for teaching reading to students with disabilities. This is not the same for the teaching of mathematics. This strand reports some of the work from a formal collaboration between the Council for Exceptional Children and the National Council of Teachers of Mathematics on interventions and assessments that are successful in teaching mathematical concepts to students who struggle. Using current research projects and classroom-tested practices the presenters will lead conversations around the topic of developing mathematics concepts.

At the end of this strand, participants will be able to:

1. Identify research-based strategies for teaching mathematics to students with disabilities.
2. Describe techniques for co-teaching environments where teachers of mathematics (K-12) and special education teachers team together for effective instruction.
3. Understand the ways to develop mathematics concepts rather than just procedural knowledge in a problem-solving environment.
RESEARCH ON MATH PROBLEM SOLVING: GRADES 4 TO 8

Primary Topic: Instructional Design and Strategies

Secondary Topic: Response to Intervention

Format: Lecture

The Institute for Educational Sciences recently produced a free Practice Guide entitled Improving Mathematics Problem Solving in Grades 4 to 8. This Practice Guide contains a thorough analysis of high-quality research as well as five specific recommendations for practice. Success in math problem solving is becoming increasingly critical because of the process dimensions of the Common Core State Standards and related assessments that will appear in the next 2 years. Thus, the need for the dissemination of these recommendations is particularly acute. The implications of the Practice Guide for teachers of special education will be the focus of this session.

RIGHT ANSWERS AND WRONG THINKING: ENHANCING CONCEPTUAL UNDERSTANDING IN MATHEMATICS

Primary Topic: Instructional Design and Strategies

Secondary Topic: Response to Intervention

Format: Panel

The presenters, representing general education mathematics and special education, will share examples from algebra assessments indicating that students’ correct responses may mask an absence of conceptual understanding. Strategies for evaluating students’ conceptual understanding and supporting the development of reasoning among low-performing students will be shared.

TEACHING MATHEMATICS TO STUDENTS WITH DISABILITIES: USING THE C-S-A INTERVENTION

Secondary Topic: Response to Intervention

Format: Lecture

Students with disabilities often struggle in mathematical achievement. This session will focus on the use of the Concrete-Semiconcrete-Abstract model of teaching mathematical concepts to students with disabilities. Participants will apply content to video-based case studies that focus on the common core standards.

Evidence-Based Practices Supported by the National Center for Special Education Research

Leader(s): Deborah Speece and Jacquelyn Buckley, National Center for Special Education Research, U.S. Department of Education, Washington, DC

This strand will present research-based educational practices that have been shown to be effective for preschoolers and children at risk for or with disabilities. The presenters are researchers funded by the National Center for Special Education Research, Institute of Education Sciences, to test the efficacy of their interventions. The student participants are diverse and include those at risk for developing reading disabilities, those with autism, and those with moderate to severe intellectual disabilities. The interventions address reading achievement, communication skills, social skills, and response to intervention. The content presented in the sessions is based on rigorous tests of intervention efficacy and will include practical tips on how practitioners can incorporate the practices in their classrooms.

At the end of this strand, participants will be able to:

1. List four interventions that have evidence of efficacy.
2. Describe one evidence-based practice to improve reading achievement.
3. Describe one evidence-based practice to improve social skills.
4. Describe one evidence-based practice to improve communication skills.

TIER 2 IMPACT USING RANDOMIZED CONTROLLED TRIALS AND REGRESSION DISCONTINUITY: DIFFERENT METHODS FOR DIFFERENT QUESTIONS

Topic Area: Research
Secondary Topic: Learning Disabilities
Format: Lecture

Many RTI reading intervention studies compare Tier 2 treatment and control conditions, but ignore relevance to Tier 1 and content alignment. This session shares the findings of this rigorous Grade 1 experiment that compared Tier 2 students who received tightly aligned reading content, to Tier 1 and Tier 2 control children. The presenters will also demonstrate the model’s potential application throughout K-6.

KINDERGARTNERS’ ATTITUDES TOWARD PEERS WITH DISABILITIES: RESEARCH FINDINGS AND IMPLICATIONS FOR PRACTICE

Topic Area: Research
Secondary Topic: Early Childhood
Format: Lecture

The session highlights The Special Friends program, evaluated as a classwide intervention to improve acceptance of children with disabilities. There are three program components that are closely tied to the attitude construct: school-literacy, cooperative learning-groups, and home-literacy. Results from data from 32 kindergarten classrooms indicate that the intervention benefits children with and without disabilities.

Co-teaching has been defined as requiring “co-planning, co-instructing, and co-assessing.” As states become more inclusive of students with special needs, co-teaching is frequently offered as a service delivery option. However, research remains critical regarding whether or not co-teaching is truly being provided with fidelity. In this strand, experts and practitioners will provide insight into each of the three components of co-teaching, while also sharing the status of co-teaching across the states. Murawski and Hines will share the research on co-planning, in addition to presenting concrete strategies for improving the efficiency and effectiveness of co-planning time. Practitioners representing states across the nation will communicate how co-teaching is being implemented in their state, while sharing some of the more successful co-instruction they have personally seen or conducted in the classroom. Finally, Conderman and Hedin will clarify the research on co-assessing and how co-teachers can be more active in ensuring successful, differentiated assessments for students with special needs.

At the end of this strand, participants will be able to:

1. Identify at least 2-3 specific techniques for improving their co-planning with another individual.
2. Determine at least 2-3 specific methods of conducting purposeful co-assessment with another individual.
3. Name characteristics necessary for support of co-teaching as a service delivery option at the classroom, district, and state levels.
CO-ASSESSMENT IN CO-TAUGHT CLASSROOMS: PRACTICAL IDEAS AND APPLICATIONS

Topic Area: Collaboration and Inclusive Practices
Secondary Topic: Assessment
Format: Lecture

Co-teaching includes the components of co-planning, co-instructing, and co-assessing, yet co-assessing has received little attention in the professional literature. This session will provide practical ideas and activities for co-teachers as they share assessment responsibilities before, during, and after their co-taught lesson.

STATE OF CO-TEACHING: LET’S HEAR FROM THE STATES

Topic Area: Collaboration and Inclusive Practices
Secondary Topic: Accessing the General Education Curriculum that is Aligned with State Standards
Format: Panel

Co-teaching requires co-planning, co-instructing, and co-assessing. This session addresses co-instructing at a state level. What does co-teaching really look like in their classes? Practitioners and experts will share what their states are doing to support co-teaching legally, fiscally, ethically, academically, and behaviorally.

Supporting Students With Learning Disabilities in the STEMs: Science, Technology, Engineering, and Mathematics

Leader(s): Paul Riccomini, Pennsylvania State University, University Park

Increasing the number of U.S. students entering into education programs and careers related to the STEMs is a national priority. Students with learning disabilities should also be included in these efforts. A solid understanding of mathematics and science is a likely minimum requirement for many current and future professions. Clearly, many students with learning disabilities significantly lag behind their peers in both mathematics and science; thereby, requiring significant supports to become successful. Leaders in the field of learning disabilities will identify, describe, and discuss the importance of providing effective instructional supports to successfully advance engagement in the STEMs by students with learning disabilities.

At the end of this strand, participants will be able to:

1. Recognize the importance of encouraging and supporting students with learning disabilities to enter the STEMs.
2. Describe components of effective science instructional supports for students with learning disabilities at the secondary level.
3. Discuss the pros, cons, and scaffolds needed for students with learning disabilities to be successful in an inquiry-based science classroom.
4. Describe components of effective algebra instructional supports for students with learning disabilities at the secondary level.
5. Describe components of effective instructional supports in engineering and technology for students with learning disabilities at the secondary level.

THE ARITHMETIC TO ALGEBRA GAP: INSTRUCTIONAL RECOMMENDATIONS FOR SUCCESS IN ALGEBRA

Topic Area: Learning Disabilities
Secondary Topic: Instructional Design and Strategies
Format: Lecture

This session will provide an overview of evidence-based instruction and interventions for teaching Algebra to secondary students with learning disabilities. Working with the arithmetic-to-algebra gap framework, presenters will describe research-supported instructional approaches demonstrated to help students with academic difficulties build foundational mathematics skills (such as integers, fractions, and equations) in order to improve success in algebra. Additionally, suggestions on how to prevent difficulties with algebra acquisition are provided.

New Directions for Intervention Research

Leader(s): Douglas Fuchs and Lynn Fuchs, Vanderbilt University, Nashville, TN

This strand will focus on several new directions in intervention research. The first session will address mediators and moderators in intervention research. A methodologist will introduce the session and presenters will then provide an overview of recently completed research on a first-grade reading comprehension study to illustrate the importance of moderators, and discuss research on math instruction to show the value of understanding mediators and moderators.

The second session will address scaling up evidence-based academic programs. The presenters will report on an IES Goal 4 study, discuss a study that compared effects of a treatment program run by academics versus school district staff, and describe how to identify a treatment’s active ingredient and why that’s important. The third session in the strand will address the importance of intensive intervention: definitions and illustrations. This session will define the term “intensive,” compare it to conventional interventions, and explain how/why they are critically important for children and youth unresponsive to Tiers 1 and 2 of RTI frameworks.

At the end of this strand, participants will be able to:
1. Understand the value of several new directions in intervention research.
2. Understand what mediators and moderators are and why they are important to better understand intervention effects.
3. Have greater insight about how to better scale up evidence-based practices.
4. Understand the differences between intensive interventions and conventional interventions.

Early Childhood Inclusion: Supports That Make It Work

Leader(s): Susan Sandall, University of Washington, Seattle and Harriet Able, University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill

This strand examines the professional development, teacher preparation, and administrative supports that are needed to implement and sustain high quality inclusive programs and policies for young children. Inclusive early childhood programs have been implemented for many years; however, the number of young children with disabilities who receive their special education services in inclusive settings has plateaued. At the same time, attention to and creation of early learning initiatives and innovations has increased. In this series of sessions, speakers will share effective methods for preparing current and future teachers for their real roles in inclusion, explore opportunities and challenges for inclusion in the 21st century early learning landscape, and reflect on the service delivery models that better match the current era. This strand will consider the range of public programs that serve young children in the United States (i.e., 619 and Part C programs, Head Start, and state Pre-K), and the diverse needs of the children and families served in those programs.

At the end of this strand, participants will be able to:

1. Plan an effective model for preservice and inservice professional development focused on successful inclusion strategies for young children with disabilities.

2. Understand the implications of early childhood inclusion research on selecting from and implementing effective service delivery approaches.

3. Identify effective strategies to enhance learning opportunities in inclusive settings for young children birth to 5 years.

RESEARCH EVIDENCE SUPPORTING INCLUSION OF YOUNG CHILDREN WITH DISABILITIES IN COMMUNITY ACTIVITIES

Topic Area: Early Childhood
Secondary Topic: Research
Format: Lecture

Engagement and participation of infants, toddlers, and preschoolers with disabilities in typical community activities has increased significantly in the past 25 years. This session will describe findings from meta-analyses and research syntheses that focused on the characteristics of participation in community activities associated with positive child and family consequences.

SUPPORTING INCLUSION THROUGH CONSULTATIVE ITINERANT SERVICES

Topic Area: Early Childhood
Secondary Topic: Teacher Education
Format: Lecture

General early childhood education (ECE) teachers need support to provide embedded interventions to young children with disabilities. In this session, participants will learn concrete strategies for providing this support so young children with disabilities will be successful in ECE classrooms. Presenters will also discuss the benefits and challenges to providing consultative itinerant services in early childhood programs.

What Educators Can Do to Help Military Children With Special Education Needs

Leader(s): Rud Turnbull, Ann Turnbull, Martha Blue-Banning, and Antoinette Hill, Beach Center on Disability, University of Kansas, Lawrence

With Special Panel Presentation by: General James T. Hill, United States Army Retired, The JT Hill Group, San Antonio, TX; Lieutenant General William B. Caldwell, IV, Commander of United States Army North (Fifth Army) & Fort Sam Houston, San Antonio, TX; and Colonel Charles W. Callahan, Commander, Fort Belvoir Department of Army Community Hospital, Ft. Belvoir, VA; Linda Callahan, Ft. Belvoir, VA

Educators often say “no” when asked if they have military children in their schools. The reality is that almost every district in the nation has children who are connected to the military, but they are often anonymous and silent about their parents’ service. The White House is leading a nationwide effort to support service men and women and their families. Secretary of Defense Leon Panetta recently stated, “Educating military children is not only important to their future...it’s also critically important to the future of our military and...our nation.” Military children with special education needs have unique challenges that affect not only the health and well-being of the family, but also the readiness and retention of the force that defends our nation. Educators can help ameliorate these challenges by becoming aware of and sensitive to those challenges. The Military Family Strand presenters and panel members include high ranking senior military commanders, family members, military-connected service providers, and advocates who will raise awareness of the challenges faced by military families of children with special education needs and present time-tested strategies by which educators can better serve the needs of these children and their families.

At the end of this strand, participants will be able to:

1. Have increased awareness of the presence of military-connected children with special education needs in school districts across the nation and the unique challenges these children face.
2. Understand the critical role educators play in supporting military families who have children with special needs.
3. Have an increased understanding about what educators can do to support military children with special needs in their school district.
4. Develop action steps for advancing collaborative partnerships within the local community that strengthen support of military-connected children with special education needs.

THE ARMY EXCEPTIONAL FAMILY MEMBER PROGRAM AND SYSTEMS NAVIGATION

Topic Area: Collaboration and Inclusive Practices
Secondary Topic: Parent/Family/School Partnerships
Format: Lecture

The Exceptional Family Member Program (EFMP) assists Active Duty, Reserve and Guard families of children with special needs to meet the families’ community support, housing, medical and educational needs. This session will review the Army Systems Navigation service, a new community support component of the EFMP, which facilitates families’ navigation through complex, and often confusing, systems of care, both on and off the military installation. Presenters will discuss collaborative strategies for systems navigators, families, and educators.

Integrating Programs and Services for ELLs With or at Risk for Disabilities: Building Capacity for Transformative Practice

Leader(s): Shernaz B. García and Alba A. Ortiz, University of Texas, Austin

English language learners (ELLs) are a heterogeneous community; their academic performance is affected by both the inability of schools to meet their language and literacy development needs, and a critical shortage of qualified educators to serve them. Consequently, ELLs are under- and overidentified as having learning disabilities because educators struggle to accurately distinguish language differences from disabilities. Exceptional ELLs are equally at risk of being underserved because special educators are inadequately prepared to meet their disability-related educational needs in the context of culture and language. This strand highlights the need for a systems perspective and transformative practices to create equitable educational opportunities for ELLs. To that end, schools must address the sociopolitical, cultural, and linguistic contexts that impact the quality of education ELLs receive. Sessions highlight the diversity among ELLs, and call attention to the complex interrelationships among ELLs, families, schools, classrooms, and educators. Critical RTI components are also addressed, including core literacy instruction and interventions for struggling readers. Strategies for empowering families in the educational process are shared, and teacher educators and program graduates describe a model to foster collaboration between bilingual and special education teachers. Finally, recommendations for designing research and implications for evidence-based practice for ELLs are discussed.

At the end of this strand, participants will be able to:

1. Discuss the importance of considering interrelationships between culture, language and (dis)ability, and implications for identification, instruction, family participation, and personnel preparation for serving ELLs.
2. Identify systems-level factors that must be addressed in the design and implementation of programs in general and special education.
3. Identify essential knowledge and skills required of general and special education teachers who serve ELLs who are struggling or who have disabilities.
4. Describe quality indicators for research involving ELLs in order to determine the generalizability of findings for practice in school settings.

DESIGNING LANGUAGE AND LITERACY INSTRUCTION FOR ELLS IN AN RTI FRAMEWORK

Topic Area: English Language Learners
Secondary Topic: Response to Intervention
Format: Panel

High quality instruction to support emergent bilingual learners requires a humanizing pedagogy that is engaging to students and driven by the use of culturally relevant materials and critical perspectives about literacy development. Presenters will discuss key issues in K-12 bilingual inclusive education as well as implications for designing instruction for multilingual classrooms.

Leader(s): María Franquiz, University of Texas, Austin, TX

FINDING THE RIGHT BALANCE IN LANGUAGE AND LITERACY INSTRUCTION FOR STRUGGLING ELLS

Topic Area: English Language Learners
Secondary Topic: Response to Intervention
Format: Panel

An important component of RTI is early intervention services. In this session, presenters describe Tier 2 early intervention services focused on language and literacy development for struggling ELLs. Characteristics of Tier 3 or special education services focused on language and literacy for ELLs with exceptionalities will also be discussed.

EMPOWERING CULTURALLY AND LINGUISTICALLY DIVERSE FAMILIES OF STUDENTS WITH DISABILITIES

Topic Area: English Language Learners
Secondary Topic: Parent/Family/School Partnerships
Format: Panel

This session presents the results of studies that focused on the experiences of culturally and linguistically diverse families of students with disabilities when collaborating with schools. Participants will learn strategies to empower these families to be schools’ equal partners through school and community support.

Leader(s): Lusa Lo, University of Massachusetts Boston, Braintree, MA

LEARNING TOGETHER: PREPARING PROSPECTIVE BILINGUAL EDUCATORS AND SPECIAL EDUCATORS TO SERVE ELLS

Topic Area: English Language Learners
Secondary Topic: Teacher Education
Format: Panel

Preservice programs often prepare bilingual and special educators in parallel tracks, limiting collaboration. This session will feature a collaborative project designed to provide candidates with opportunities to design, implement, and evaluate interventions for struggling ELLs. Faculty and graduates of the programs will share these efforts, successes, and lessons learned.

Leader(s): Phyllis Robertson, University of Texas, Austin, TX
Presenter(s): Haydee Rodriguez, University of Texas, Austin, TX; Allison Fischer, Austin Independent School District, Austin, TX; Vanessa Rivas Clouston, Round Rock Independent School District, Round Rock, TX

DESIGNING RESEARCH TO ADVANCE PRACTICE FOR ELLS WITH, OR AT RISK FOR DISABILITIES

Topic Area: English Language Learners
Secondary Topic: Research
Format: Lecture

In order for educational programs and services to meet the complex needs of ELLs, their design must be based on research results that explicitly articulate the interrelationships between culture, language, and (dis)ability. This session explores implications for designing such research and for determining the relevance of findings for practice.

Effective classroom management is the foundation for establishing positive learning environments and teacher-student relationships. This strand will focus on specific examples of evidence-based interventions that have been proven to work in hundreds of schools. Discussion topics include (1) classroom management examples for individual classrooms and within a Schoolwide Positive Behavior Support model and procedures for supporting children with chronic problems in early childhood education classrooms; (2) a group contingency program designed to increase on task and reduce disruptive behaviors by teaching appropriate behaviors and using a token system; (3) self-management and help card interventions for students with challenging behaviors; (4) cognitive-behavioral interventions to teach students strategies for improving their self-regulatory processes and social-emotional functioning; (5) schoolwide approach to helping teachers organize classrooms to reduce discipline problems and prompt responsible behavior from students. The importance of high quality staff development, examples of professional development, and supportive coaching in the classroom will be described from CHAMPS: A Proactive and Positive Approach to Classroom Management program.

At the end of this strand, participants will be able to:
1. Understand a variety of strategies for improving classroom management including the use of organizational tools and group contingencies.
2. Use strategies for managing behaviors of students with challenging behaviors including use of lessons and curricula for teaching students appropriate behaviors, self-management, and self-regulation.
3. Identify elements of tiered, positive behavior support models that will support classroom management and provide administrative support (professional development and coaching).

CLASSROOM MANAGEMENT: THE BUILDING FOUNDATION OF TIER 3 POSITIVE BEHAVIOR SUPPORT

Topic Area: Emotional and Behavioral Disorders
Secondary Topic: Teacher Education
Format: Lecture

This session will identify and provide examples of the importance of classroom management for individual classrooms and within Schoolwide Positive Behavior Support, particularly when trying to provide services to students with chronic behavioral needs in the general education classroom. The presenters will also describe ways professionals can monitor their own strategies.

CLASSWIDE FUNCTION-RELATED INTERVENTION TEAMS “CW-FIT”: A CLASSROOM AND INDIVIDUAL STUDENT BEHAVIOR MANAGEMENT PROGRAM

Topic Area: Emotional and Behavioral Disorders
Secondary Topic: Teacher Education
Format: Lecture

This session will provide an overview of CW-FIT, demonstrate how it can be implemented, and provide examples and outcomes from three sites currently examining the efficacy of this intervention. CW-FIT is a classroom and individual student behavior management program including teaching of expectations, a group contingency, self-management strategies, and function-based interventions.

PREVENTING CLASSROOM DISRUPTION BY TEACHING SELF-REGULATION SKILLS THROUGH COGNITIVE-BEHAVIORAL INTERVENTIONS

Topic Area: Emotional and Behavioral Disorders
Secondary Topic: Teacher Education
Format: Lecture

Preventing student problem behaviors is foundational to successful classroom management. Teaching students strategies for improving their self-regulatory processes and social-emotional functioning can contribute to a safe and productive learning environment. This session will provide information about the cognitive-behavioral approach to prevention using two curricula for elementary-age students as examples, Social Emotional Learning Foundations (SELF) and Tools for Getting Along.

The Office of Special Education Research to Practice Strand: IDEAs That Work

Strand Overview: Again this year the U.S. Office of Special Education Programs has put together a Research to Practice strand. As in the past years, this strand will include a variety of critical issue topics in special education and early intervention highlighting the transfer of the best we know into classrooms, natural environments, schools, and communities. Well known presenters from around the country, supported by the IDEA Part D National Programs, will present evidenced-based findings, practices and technology that will lead to improved outcomes for children with disabilities and their families. Each session will begin with an overview to set the national context for the topical issue and include current evidence, next steps in practice, and resources for follow-up. Sessions are designed for practitioners, school and district leaders, early intervention providers and teacher trainers and are designed as stand-alone sessions so you can attend one or all of them. Time will be scheduled for question and answers and resources will be shared in each session.

At the end of this strand, participants will be able to:

1. Describe the current status of online learning for students with disabilities, teacher evaluation and effectiveness, and how to improve parent relations.
2. Access resources, tools, information, and training modules developed by IDEA-funded projects.

1:00-2:00 p.m. Room 214B | Session:

ONLINE LEARNING FOR STUDENTS WITH DISABILITIES: THE STORY RESEARCH IS TELLING US

Topic Area: Public Policy
Secondary Topic: Technology and Media
Format: Panel

The Center on Online Learning and Students with Disabilities will present findings from national surveys conducted with teachers, administrators, and parents on how students with disabilities are being served and the degree to which they are succeeding in online learning environments. The implications for instruction and policy will be discussed.

Leader(s): Larry Wexler, Office of Special Education Programs, U.S. Department of Education, Washington, DC

Presenter(s): Bill East, National Council of State Directors of Special Education, Alexandria, VA; Diana Greer, University of Kansas, Center for Research on Learning, Lawrence, KS; Skip Stahl, Center on Online Learning and Students with Disabilities, Wakefield, MA
INNOVATION AND IMPROVEMENT TOOLS, TRAINING AND RESOURCES: INSTANT ACCESS FREE OF CHARGE

Topic Area: Public Policy
Secondary Topic: Technology and Media
Format: Panel

This session will be a not-to-miss resource-packed demonstration of the tools, training modules, and resources from OSEP-supported projects. The presenters will discuss resources that have been used effectively to improve classroom and district practice as well as to improve the quality of teacher training and professional development programs.

WORKING WELL WITH PARENTS TO SUPPORT STUDENT LEARNING

Topic Area: Public Policy
Secondary Topic: Teacher Education
Format: Panel

The principal focus of this session will be on providing special educators with strategies they can use to work effectively with parents in the development of students’ IEPs/IFSPs. The presenter will share information about approaches to collaborative problem solving and how best to positively engage with parents.

MEASURING EDUCATOR EFFECTIVENESS: STATUS AND IMPLICATIONS FOR IMPROVING TEACHER PREPARATION PROGRAMS

Topic Area: Teacher Education
Secondary Topic: Public Policy
Format: Panel

In this session panel members will discuss the validity of using student achievement scores for identifying effective teachers through value-added modeling, the degree to which current teacher observation systems validly capture effective instruction for students with disabilities, and how to use indicators of teacher effectiveness to improve educator preparation programs.

Leader(s): Larry Wexler, Office of Special Education Programs, U.S. Department of Education, Washington, DC
Presenter(s): Mary Brownell, University of Florida, Gainesville, FL; Kathleen Paliokas, Council of Chief State School Officers, Washington, DC; Heather Buzick, Educational Testing Service, Princeton, NJ; Nathan Jones, Boston University, Boston, MA; Lynn Holdheide, Great Teachers and Leaders Center, American Institutes for Research, Washington, DC
Students with disabilities are two to three times more likely to experience maltreatment (bullying and/or abuse) than their nondisabled peers. The maltreatment experience not only decreases students' ability to learn, but it also increases the likelihood that they will experience significant physical and mental health problems, engage in self-injurious behaviors, demonstrate inappropriate behaviors, engage in risky sexual activities, and use drugs and alcohol. Although educational professionals are aware of their roles as mandatory reporters, they are poorly informed regarding how to prevent, recognize, and report suspected instances of child maltreatment. This strand provides participants with strategies and resources that can be used with parents, colleagues, and students to inform them of the increased risk for maltreatment, why the risk occurs, realistic prevent strategies, and how to recognize and report maltreatment. Strand sessions will be presented by parents, faculty, researchers, and community leaders who work with a wide range of culturally diverse students with disabilities in rural, suburban, and urban contexts. Strand participants will be invited to join in a collaborative effort to enhance CEC policies, standards, webinars, and advocacy concerning the prevention of maltreatment experienced by children with disabilities.

At the end of this strand, participants will be able to:
1. Identify four maltreatment risk factors experienced by children with disabilities.
2. Identify four strategies that parents, colleagues, and community leaders can use to prevent maltreatment as experienced by children with disabilities.
3. Identify four web resources that can be used to gather and share additional information concerning the prevention, recognition, and reporting of maltreatment as experienced by children with disabilities.

WHAT PARENTS NEED TO KNOW ABOUT PROTECTING A CHILD FROM ABUSE OR BULLYING

Parent/Family/School Partnerships

Topic Area: Parent/Family/School Partnerships
Secondary Topic: Instructional Design and Strategies
Format: Lecture

A parent of a child with a disability will share how parents can decrease a child's risk of victimization. Through developing skills and knowledge with the child and harnessing the individualized family services plan or individualized education program, parents can ask direct questions regarding a child's safety and set creative goals to improve resilience factors.

THE BULLYING DYNAMIC: DIRECT AND INDIRECT INVOLVEMENT OF STUDENTS WITH DISABILITIES

Topic Area: Parent/Family/School Partnerships
Secondary Topic: Instructional Design and Strategies
Format: Lecture

Bullying has emerged as one of the most pervasive problems facing the nation’s youth. Unfortunately, research suggests that students with disabilities are overrepresented within the bullying dynamic. This session will detail the unique involvement of students with disabilities, including specific disability characteristics, and provide educational implication and practical intervention strategies.

CHILD ABUSE: BEYOND MANDATED REPORTING—UTILIZING CORE CURRICULUM TO HELP PROTECT CHILDREN

Topic Area: Parent/Family/School Partnerships
Secondary Topic: Instructional Design and Strategies
Format: Lecture

In 2010 more than half (57%) the child abuse reports came from teachers, police officers, and social workers. Educational professionals have unique opportunities to prevent abuse and support enhanced intervention. This session identifies curriculum areas that can offer skill building in abuse prevention and discusses ways educators can interface with child abuse investigators.

POSITIVE PRACTICES TO PROTECT KIDS FROM BULLYING AND EMPOWER THEM WITH SKILLS

Topic Area: Parent/Family/School Partnerships
Secondary Topic: Instructional Design and Strategies
Format: Lecture

Kidpower Teenpower Fullpower International is a global nonprofit leader in protecting people of all ages and abilities from bullying, violence, and abuse. In this session, attendees will learn how to use Kidpower skills to prepare young people to develop positive relationships, increase their confidence, and take charge of their emotional and physical safety.

Leader(s): Irene van der Zande, Kidpower Teenpower Fullpower International, Santa Cruz, CA
Children and youth with special needs are included in schools and communities to varying degrees around the world. The range of services include many examples of exemplary programs and support structures to instances where children with disabilities are prevented from attending school and even hidden from view. This strand will explore current policy and advocacy measures intended to promote inclusion for all children across the globe and how these measures will affect the quality of life for individuals with disabilities. A session will examine current United Nations efforts for countries to adopt the Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities (CRPD) and specific articles within the document which address equal rights for a diverse population. Further investigation will consider how the adoption of the CRPD may affect the social and cultural issues shaping current educational systems and how it might interact with and affect issues identified in other articles (e.g. employment, families, health, and the provision of services in general education settings and personnel preparation).

In addition, examples of effective programs in various regions around the world will offer positive outcomes from programs which exemplify highly effective practices. Finally, an open discussion on the definition of inclusion across cultures will conclude the strand to increase global understanding.

At the end of this strand, participants will be able to:
1. Recognize the value of the CRPD in focusing on the rights of individuals with disabilities around the world.
2. Gain perspective on the range of special education services available in various countries.
3. Identify the characteristics of effective special education programs in various countries and regions around the world.
4. Compare definitions of inclusion across cultures.
GLOBAL SPECIAL EDUCATION: WHERE HAVE WE COME FROM, WHERE ARE WE GOING?

Topic Area: International Programs/Services
Secondary Topic: Public Policy
Format: Lecture

Special needs and inclusive education is a means of addressing the learning needs of all children, with a specific focus on those who are vulnerable to marginalization and exclusion. In this session the presenters outline the major trends in global special needs education, focusing on vital United Nations resolutions and international initiatives.

INSPIRING EXAMPLES OF SUCCESSFUL SPECIAL EDUCATION INITIATIVES OUTSIDE THE USA AND CANADA

Topic Area: International Programs/Services
Secondary Topic: Public Policy
Format: Panel

This session will share inspiring outcomes of initiatives around the world which exemplify progress. Featuring Chunli’s extraordinary story, as seen on CNN, which started when she was forced into hiding because officials in her ancient Chinese fishing village thought she was not fit to be seen by visiting dignitaries, is now a key figure for change in China. We will also share a highly successful teacher preparation program in Mexico.

COLLABORATION IN SUPPORT OF LEARNER DEVELOPMENT IN LIGHT OF THE CRPD

Topic Area: International Programs/Services
Secondary Topic: Public Policy
Format: Panel

Schools worldwide must collaborate to build alliances with other agencies to support the goals of Article 24 (Education) of the CRPD. Presenters will discuss ways that educators can work with others to address national and global issues of employment, independent living, mobility, communication, family, health, leisure, and standard of living.

Leader(s): Eileen Raymond, Nelson Mandela Metropolitan University, Port Elizabeth, South Africa
Presenter(s): Kathryn Johnson, St. Cloud State University, Saint Cloud, MN; Kay Ferrell, University of Northern Colorado, Greeley, CO; Sarah Anderson, Mayville State University, Mayville, ND
The strand specifically addresses the type of problems, challenges, and issues that special education administrators of all levels frequently face on a day-to-day basis as they lead and administer special education programs and serve students with disabilities and their families. Given the ubiquitous struggles officials frequently encounter in leading and supervising special education, the content and focus of the strand is intended to serve as a resource for both practicing and future leaders in special education. It is purposely designed to be practical, authentic, and not overly theoretical. The presenters will “cut to the chase” and readily give the gist of pertinent issues that relate to special education. The presenters will ground the principles of the model for practical use.

At the end of this strand, participants will be able to:

1. Understand the type of problems, challenges, and issues that special education administrators of all levels face on a daily basis.
2. Identify applicable solutions grounded in the Star Model.
3. Understand the best methods, as well as the traditional strategies, implemented in classrooms, colleges, and universities today.
4. Describe evidence-based methodologies and strategies for effective special education leadership practices.

BLUE SKIES AND THE STAR MODEL: PREDICTING FAIR WEATHER

Topic Area: Administration/Supervision
Secondary Topic: Assessment
Format: Lecture
This session focuses on the five principles of The Star Model for Special Education Planning. Each principle, including ethical practice, individual consideration, equity under law, effective programming, and establishing productive partnerships, will be discussed in detail. The presenters will ground the principles of the model for practical use.

Leader(s): Jean Crockett, University of Florida, Gainesville, FL
MULTIPLYING THE MAGNIFICENCE OF MULTICULTURAL EDUCATION IN LEADERSHIP

Topic Area: Cultural and/or Linguistic Diversity

Secondary Topic: Instructional Design and Strategies

Format: Demonstration

The presenters will outline learning and teaching styles that are relevant to teaching in a diverse society, identify levels of multicultural integration using Bloom's Taxonomy, and discuss how school leaders can assure culturally relevant pedagogy design through inservice training. The session will also include several hands-on scenarios that will expose and engage the participant to practical situational analysis and discussion using the Star Model in the foreground.

THE MANY FACES AND FACETS AND FEATURES OF ASSESSMENT

Topic Area: Administration/Supervision

Secondary Topic: Assessment

Format: Panel

The participation of students with disabilities in reform, standards, and high-stakes tests will be discussed in relation to alternative assessment. The session will also examine effective informal assessment techniques. Presenters will provide suggestions for special education leaders to work collaboratively to develop accountability systems, policy, procedural, and technical information when developing and using alternative tests in the framework of the Star Model.

Leader(s): Irene Meijer, Fairfax County Public Schools, Fairfax, VA

Presenter(s): Nancy Turner, Spartanburg School District Two, Boiling Springs, SC

FACILITATING FAMILIES: COURAGE TO ENCOURAGE AN EFFECTIVE ETHOS

Topic Area: Parent/Family/School Partnerships

Secondary Topic: Cultural and/or Linguistic Diversity

Format: Lecture

This session will address the theory, expectations, and advantages for building and sustaining a positive ethos and an interpersonal relationship with families and students. Presenters will offer advice and practical suggestions related to the participation of families in problem solving, and decision and policy making. Strategies to combat obstacles to family involvement and the inclusion of accommodations for culturally and linguistically diverse families are also outlined infusing the Star Model.

THE TWIST TO THE TRADITION OF TRANSITION: SMOOTHING ROUGH ROADS

Topic Area: Administration/Supervision

Secondary Topic: Parent/Family/School Partnerships

Format: Lecture

This session will address the theory, principles and practices of transition and coordination of services for infants, toddlers, children, and youth with disabilities and their families. The key roles of school personnel and service providers in community agencies providing comprehensive services are discussed. In addition, techniques that build and facilitate effective transition, interagency collaboration, teamwork, and networking are delineated and integrated with the Star Model.

BRIDGING COGNITIVE NEUROSCIENCE AND SPECIAL EDUCATION: DEVELOPING LEADERS TO TRANSFORM TEACHING AND LEARNING

Topic Area: Teacher Education
Secondary Topic: Research
Format: Panel

New understanding about brain development challenges leaders in matters of educational practice and policy to rethink their conventional wisdom and long-standing practices, which has implications for every aspect of teaching and learning within special and general education environments. This session will (1) present the theory, principles, and rationale for bridging cognitive neuroscience and special education and for the translation of research for practice and policy; (2) discuss lessons learned from a multiyear transformation of our traditional special education program; and (3) introduce strategies for incorporating emerging brain research into special education leadership curriculum.

RESEARCH DIRECTIONS: A REPORT ON AND DISCUSSION OF THE 2012 IRA/NICHD EXPERT PANEL ON RESEARCH ON THE READING-WRITING CONNECTION

Topic Area: Research
Secondary Topic: Instructional Design and Strategies
Format: Panel

The International Reading Association and the National Institute of Child Health and Human Development convened a panel to consider research on the relationships between reading and writing. This session will share the findings which focus on reading and writing processes and development; instructional issues; technology; measurement, tests, and assessment; research needs, and sharing the current knowledge base. The report will inform policy makers and funding agencies, including the U.S. Department of Education, in setting priorities for research in the next 3-5 years. Panel members will summarize the report and allow time for audience interaction.

A CULTURALLY RESPONSIVE APPROACH: MEETING LEARNER NEEDS IN DIVERSE SETTINGS VIA COLLABORATION

Topic Area: Cultural and/or Linguistic Diversity
Secondary Topic: Collaboration and Inclusive Practices
Format: Lecture

This session will discuss the importance of professional and familial collaboration in meeting the needs of learners in diverse settings. Needs of students ranging in abilities as well as socio-economic status, connection between school to home, and the collaboration needed to tie the two environments together is the focus of this session. (1343)

A MODEL FOR TEACHING SCHOOL PERSONNEL TO DEVELOP FUNCTION BASED INTERVENTIONS

Topic Area: Emotional and Behavioral Disorders
Secondary Topic: Collaboration and Inclusive Practices
Format: Lecture

The session will review a model for practical FBA/BSP training process researched for use with school personnel. Attendees will learn critical features of function-based support plan development. Research data from over 300 school personnel demonstrating the effectiveness of this model to teach practitioners how to develop function-based interventions will be presented. This session may be especially relevant for those working with students with EBD in inclusive settings. (1805)

ACCOMPLISHMENTS OF THE IDEA PARTNERSHIP AND HOW IT INCREASES THE EFFECTIVENESS OF TRANSITION NATIONWIDE!

Topic Area: Career Development/Transition
Secondary Topic: Collaboration and Inclusive Practices
Format: Panel

Learn how you can be a part of the IDEA Partnership! This session will describe how 10 states and 50 national professional organizations—along with families and youth with disabilities—have created exciting, effective national and state communities of practice to improve and expand transition services. (1813)

ALIGNING EXCLUSIONARY SCHOOL POLICY AND PRACTICE WITH IDEA: A PRACTICAL APPROACH

Topic Area: Special Education Schools
Secondary Topic: Public Policy
Format: Demonstration

Many exclusionary schools have difficulty aligning school policies and practices with IDEA. This session discusses the unique attributes of exclusionary school settings and provides an IDEA policy and practice Implementation Schedule and Evaluation Tool. Presenters provide an example of its use by a school to terminate a lawsuit. (1731)

ANALYTICAL READING: A LEARNING OPPORTUNITY FOR ALL LEVELS

Topic Area: Accessing the General Education Curriculum that is Aligned with State Standards

Format: Demonstration

Analyzing what has been read is a difficult concept for many students because of development or skill deficiency. However, students can begin to process this concept in a fun atmosphere. Learn how children of all levels can begin to delve deeper in their reading and question the meanings behind it. (593)

ASSISTIVE TECHNOLOGY INTEGRATION FOR STUDENT SUCCESS IN MATH AND SCIENCE

Topic Area: Technology and Media

Secondary Topic: Accessing the General Education Curriculum that is Aligned with State Standards

Format: Lecture

Learn essential tools to adapt and modify elementary math and science curriculum to meet your learners’ diverse needs. Participants will explore a variety of low-tech to high-tech multisensory strategies, created with Microsoft Office, text-to-speech software, free online activities or Internet downloads, and other inexpensive and widely available materials. BUILDING A CASE FOR ATTENTION AND INTERVENTION: HIGH FUNCTIONING AUTISM AND THE FAMILY

Topic Area: Autism Spectrum Disorder

Secondary Topic: Parent/Family/School Partnerships

Format: Lecture

Autism places a unique strain on the family system. This session reports the results of a study that investigated the impact of high functioning autism and Asperger syndrome on the family. Participants reported struggling with diagnostic issues, obtaining services, and determining the future for their child. Becoming more knowledgeable about the family impact of HFA/AS and families’ needs in terms of adjustment, communication between home and school, and professional service needs will help educators work collaboratively with families. CLICKS: STRATEGIES FOR IDENTIFYING AND DEVELOPING INTENTIONAL SWITCH ACTIVATION

Topic Area: Physical/Health/Multiple Disabilities

Secondary Topic: Developmental Disabilities

Format: Lecture

For students with motor differences, switch use is critical to environmental control, computer access, and augmentative communication device use. Assessment, implementation, and evaluation of effectiveness strategies for developing and documenting intentional switch use will be presented. In the absence of a cohesive approach, student success can be significantly compromised. (1857)

DEVELOPING INTERVENTIONS TO REDUCE LATENCY TO TASK ENGAGEMENT FOR MIDDLE SCHOOL STUDENTS

Topic Area: Research
Secondary Topic: Emotional and Behavioral Disorders
Format: Lecture
This session describes the creation, application, and experimental analysis of a planning and goal setting intervention in reducing latency to task engagement for middle school students in a reading intervention class. The discussion will include empirical data and implementation procedures.

DUAL LANGUAGE LEARNERS WHO ARE NONRESPONSIVE TO COMPREHENSIVE EVIDENCE-BASED VOCABULARY INSTRUCTION

Topic Area: Early Childhood
Secondary Topic: Cultural and/or Linguistic Diversity
Format: Lecture
Although the topic of nonresponsiveness has received growing attention among monolingual English speakers, there is a paucity of research on responsiveness among preschool diverse learners, especially Latino dual language learners (DLLs). This session reports on a study of the characteristics of DLLs nonresponsive to Words of Oral Reading Language Development (WORLD), an evidence-based shared book reading curriculum designed to accelerate vocabulary development of at-risk preschoolers. Results will be shared.

EFFECTIVE CURRICULUM FOR UNDERSERVED GIFTED POPULATIONS: IMPLICATIONS OF RESEARCH FOR PRACTICE

Topic Area: Gifted and Talented
Secondary Topic: Cultural and/or Linguistic Diversity
Format: Lecture
For the needs of underserved gifted students to be addressed effectively, it is essential that curriculum interventions be designed in specific ways. The presenter will delineate the key elements of research-based interventions, including a review of the extant materials and their common features, as well as recommendations for their use.
Leader(s): Kimberley Chandler, College of William and Mary, Williamsburg, VA

EFFECTIVE WRITING ASSESSMENT

Topic Area: Assessment
Secondary Topic: Learning Disabilities
Format: Lecture
Writing assessment is the first step toward identifying writing difficulties and designing effective instruction. This session will link common writing difficulties with assessment. A research-based writing assessment framework will be presented that can be used to identify specific areas of strength and concern for students with and without writing disabilities.
Leader(s): Natalie Olinghouse, University of Connecticut, Storrs, CT

EMBEDDING EXPLICIT LITERACY INSTRUCTION INTO STEM INQUIRY FOR STRUGGLING LEARNERS

Topic Area: Instructional Design and Strategies
Secondary Topic: Accessing the General Education Curriculum that is Aligned with State Standards
Format: Lecture
This session highlights strategies for embedding literacy within science inquiry lessons to support students with disabilities and other struggling learners. Findings from an NSF-funded, literacy-enhanced science inquiry study will be shared with the purpose of providing real-world strategies for both science content teachers and special educators.

ENCOURAGING TEACHER USE OF EVIDENCE-BASED VOCABULARY PRACTICES THROUGH VIDEO

Topic Area: Teacher Education
Secondary Topic: Technology and Media
Format: Lecture

This single-subject, multiple baseline intervention study addressed the need to encourage teacher use of evidence-based reading practices with students at risk for reading disabilities. Elementary teachers were observed before and after viewing a video on a research-validated practice known as Intensifying Vocabulary Intervention. Implications for practice are discussed. (907)

EVIDENCE-BASED PRACTICES: INSTRUCTIONAL MODULES FOR PARAEDUCATORS

Topic Area: Physical/Health/Multiple Disabilities
Secondary Topic: Instructional Design and Strategies
Format: Demonstration

Paraeducators are expected to use evidence-based practices when working with students with disabilities. However, most paraeducators receive limited formal and/or informal training. This session focuses on the evaluation of instructional modules designed to enhance paraeducators’ use of best-practices in the classroom setting. (1408)

LEARNING DISABILITIES ASSESSMENT: STRENGTHS AND WEAKNESSES OF COMPETING MODELS

Topic Area: Learning Disabilities
Secondary Topic: Assessment

Format: Demonstration
Current federal special education regulations allow for multiple methods for identifying learning disabilities. This has led to confusion regarding how learning disabilities are defined and identified. This session will compare and contrast major assessment models and describe how the best components of each can be combined to best serve students. (1013)

MORE THAN JUST PUZZLE PIECES: CHILDREN WITH HEARING LOSS AND AUTISM

Topic Area: Communicative Disabilities and Deafness
Secondary Topic: Autism Spectrum Disorder

Format: Lecture
Children with autism struggle daily with communication, behavior, and social skills. However, for some of those children, communication challenges are even further compounded with the presence of deafness or hearing loss. This session will discuss the limited research available that explores the child who has both autism and hearing loss. Attendees will also learn to identify some of the early warning signs that may emerge for these unique children as well as better understand why some of the current characteristics/tools of diagnoses and warning signs may not apply. ONLINE PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT RESOURCES TO HELP ALL TEACHERS MEET ALL STUDENTS’ NEEDS

Topic Area: Administration/ Supervision
Secondary Topic: Teacher Education

Format: Demonstration
This session provides instruction in the use of tools developed under the leadership of a state education department. These free, online resources include a means for teachers at all levels of their careers to self-assess their competency and complete professional development to more effectively teach students with disabilities. RTI FOR SECONDARY-SCHOOL STUDENTS: HOW DO WE MEASURE PROGRESS?

Topic Area: Learning Disabilities
Secondary Topic: Assessment
Format: Panel

Secondary schools are increasingly implementing RTI, but questions exist about how to measure progress for older students. In this session, progress measures for secondary-school students in reading, content-area learning, writing, and mathematics are described. Results of technical adequacy studies are presented and procedures for developing and administering the measures are highlighted. (1266)

SELF-REGULATION: IDENTIFYING AND INSTRUCTING STUDENTS AT RISK FOR NOT RESPONDING TO EVIDENCE-BASED PRACTICES

Topic Area: Assessment
Secondary Topic: Instructional Design and Strategies
Format: Lecture

This session will focus on the role of self-regulation in learning as well as instructional practices (e.g., opportunities to respond, nature of corrective feedback) related to accelerating student performance. Presenters will discuss implications for RTI assessment practices as well as instructional approaches for students with learning disabilities. (1500)

ADELANTE! MOVING FORWARD ON CULTURALLY RESPONSIVE PRACTICES FOR FAMILIES OF CHILDREN WITH DISABILITIES

Topic Area: Early Childhood
Secondary Topic: Cultural and/or Linguistic Diversity
Format: Lecture

As the demographic makeup of the population changes, early childhood practitioners must be responsive to the diversity in schools, agencies, and communities. This session will highlight the importance of incorporating culturally responsive practices when serving families of young children with disabilities from culturally and linguistically diverse backgrounds. Attendees will learn about these practices and why they are critical in developing respectful and responsive partnerships with families.

INQUIRY-BASED SCIENCE INSTRUCTION FOR STUDENTS WITH VISUAL IMPAIRMENTS

Topic Area: Visual Impairments
Secondary Topic: Accessing the General Education Curriculum that is Aligned with State Standards
Format: Lecture

The new Common Core Standards are mandating that students are taught science using inquiry-based methodologies. What does that mean for students with visual impairments? This session will provide an overview of the standards, inquiry-based education, and recent research on inquiry-based education for students with visual impairments. (160)

SPECIAL EDUCATION EXPERIENCES OF FOSTER CARE COURT-INVOLVED YOUTH

Topic Area: Emotional and Behavioral Disorders
Secondary Topic: Research
Format: Lecture

Foster care youth are disproportionately represented in special education and the juvenile justice system. Few empirical studies explore the intersection of education with court involvement. Relying on interview data, this session looks at students’ special education experiences and the type and quality of services provided to them. (758)

WHERE WE HAVE BEEN AND WHERE WE ARE GOING IN SCHOOL REFORM

Topic Area: Accessing the General Education Curriculum that is Aligned with State Standards
Secondary Topic: Accountability & Large Scale Assessments
Format: Lecture

The latest waves of school reform focus on increasing the rigor on the standards to which students are held, changing accountability systems, and holding educators responsible for the performance of their students. This session will highlight the nature of these reforms and their implications for students with disabilities.

USING INTENSIVE INTERVENTIONS IN ACADEMICS AND BEHAVIOR TO SUPPORT HARD-TO-TEACH STUDENTS

Topic Area: Learning Disabilities
Secondary Topic: Emotional and Behavioral Disorders
Format: Panel

The evidence of persistent poor performance among students with disabilities offers a compelling rationale to individualize intensive interventions for this population. This session will describe and demonstrate the National Center on Intensive Intervention’s data-based individualization (DBI) approach to delivering and evaluating intensive reading, mathematics, and behavioral interventions in Grades K-12. A COMPARISON OF TWO TESTING CONDITIONS ON ELEMENTARY GEOMETRY PROBLEM SOLVING IN STUDENTS WITH AND WITHOUT MATHEMATICS DIFFICULTIES

Topic Area: Assessment
Secondary Topic: Research
Format: Poster Session

This session provides results of a study examining the differential effects of a testing accommodation condition (i.e., visual chunking representation) on the geometry problem-solving skills of elementary students with and without mathematics difficulties. Implications are discussed within the context of provision of accommodations for the cognitive deficiencies in students with mathematics learning disabilities. (1095)

A SYNTHESIS OF PEER-MEDIATED READING AND MATH INTERVENTIONS FOR SECONDARY STRUGGLING LEARNERS

Topic Area: Collaboration and Inclusive Practices
Secondary Topic: Instructional Design and Strategies
Format: Poster Session

This session presents the findings from a synthesis of peer-mediated reading and math interventions for secondary struggling learners. Synthesized interventions include those that are experimental, quasi-experimental, and single subject. Findings and implications for implementing peer-mediated interventions in the content area and supplemental intervention settings will be presented. (1722)

A META-ANALYSIS OF SOCIAL STORY INTERVENTIONS ON THE SOCIAL SKILLS FOR CHILDREN WITH AUTISM

Topic Area: Autism Spectrum Disorder
Secondary Topic: Special Education Schools
Format: Poster Session

This meta-analysis examines Social Stories used as an intervention to improve social skills for students with autism. Three indices of non-overlapping data were used to examine each study for effectiveness of intervention and for statistically significant maintained social outcomes. Results will be shared and discussed. (2047)

ACADEMIC CONTENT FOR SUBGROUPS OF STUDENTS WITH SIGNIFICANT DISABILITIES: TACKLING CONTENT GAPS

Topic Area: Accessing the General Education Curriculum that is Aligned with State Standards

Secondary Topic: Accountability & Large Scale Assessments

Format: Poster Session

Presenters will discuss coverage and gaps in content progressions for subgroups of students with various learner characteristics who take alternate assessments. Examples are drawn from four states and linked to the Common Core. The session highlights how teachers can provide instruction on identified content areas and bridge the content gaps. (1508)

DESIGNING DEVELOPMENTAL INTERVENTIONS FOR STUDENTS WHO STRUGGLE WITH LEARNING ADDITION AND SUBTRACTION FACTS

Secondary Topic: Learning Disabilities

Format: Poster Session

When students with mathematics learning difficulties (MLD) struggle with learning math facts, teachers often resort to drill and practice, hoping that this will provide the necessary support. However, many of these students continue to struggle. Knowledge of the developmental progression of fundamental concepts and skills for learning addition and subtraction facts can provide practitioners with the tools for developing interventions for students with MLD. In this session, the presenter will discuss the assessment of and instructional methods for these prerequisite mathematical concepts and skills. (1409)

DECREASING TIME SPENT IN IN-SCHOOL SUSPENSION USING FUNCTION-BASED INTERVENTIONS

Topic Area: Emotional and Behavioral Disorders

Secondary Topic: Collaboration and Inclusive Practices

Format: Poster Session

Increasing numbers of disciplinary referrals for problematic behaviors in the classroom are issued daily. As a result, students are placed in in-school suspension (ISS) where valuable academic instruction time is lost. This session will show how the implementation of function-based interventions for students who have been assigned ISS can be effective. (1193)

DESIGNING TRANSITION PROGRAMS FOR CULTURALLY AND LINGUISTICALLY DIVERSE STUDENTS WITH DEVELOPMENTAL DISABILITY

Topic Area: Developmental Disabilities
Secondary Topic: Career Development/Transition
Format: Poster Session

Transition planning empowers and prepares a student with a developmental disability for the real world. Effective transition planning takes into account student and parent expectations; however, differences in culture and ethnicity affect parents' involvement in the transition planning process. This session will share steps consistent with best practices to involve and support teachers and culturally and linguistically diverse families in students' transition planning. (1179)

EMOTIONAL LITERACY SUPPORT FOR MILITARY FAMILIES AND THEIR CHILDREN

Topic Area: Early Childhood
Secondary Topic: Parent/Family/School Partnerships
Format: Poster Session

Toddlers are aware of emotions exhibited when stressful events occur. During this age a child's experiences contribute to their ability to develop emotional literacy skills. This session discusses military families' needs, practitioners' roles, and data gathered from an emotional literacy intervention. (1104)

ENHANCING FIDELITY OF INSTRUCTION IN A RESPONSE TO INTERVENTION MODEL: PROCESS AND PRODUCT

Topic Area: Learning Disabilities
Secondary Topic: Assessment
Format: Poster Session

This fourth-year study of response to intervention (RTI) implementation explored how fidelity of reading instruction can be enhanced. Results of the effectiveness of the use of an RTI fidelity of instruction feedback form as measured by literacy progress monitoring and universal screening data will be shared as well as findings about other instructional variables (e.g., frequency, duration and intensity). Secondary Topic: Research
Format: Poster Session

Recently, California students with disabilities (SWD) achievement gains have surpassed the gains of students without disabilities, narrowing the achievement gap. However, reported SWD achievement has not factored in student population changes. This study explores how reported gains have been misleading and identifies shortcomings in the implementation of NCLB accountability regulations. (2186)

LITERACY IMPLEMENTATION Fidelity: IMPLICATIONS FOR RESEARCHERS AND READING COACHES IN EXCLUSIONARY SCHOOL SETTINGS

Topic Area: Emotional and Behavioral Disorders
Secondary Topic: Research
Format: Poster Session

This session provides information on developing implementation fidelity procedures for researchers and implications for reading coaches in exclusionary schools based on findings from an Institute of Education Sciences study. Information is provided on development of fidelity instrumentation and for practical application of information by literacy coaches to their schools. (1807)

MODEL FOR TEACHING VOCATIONAL SPANISH IN SPECIAL EDUCATION

Topic Area: Cultural and/or Linguistic Diversity
Secondary Topic: Teacher Education
Format: Poster Session

The Department of Special Education and Communication Disorders at New Mexico State University has made a concerted effort to recruit, retain, and graduate bilingual practitioners, especially those who are Spanish-speaking. This session presents training methods used to promote vocational language development in both native and non-native Spanish-English speaking graduate students. (992)

SIBLING-MEDIATED SOCIAL INTERACTION WITH CHILDREN WITH AUTISM SPECTRUM DISORDER

Topic Area: Research
Secondary Topic: Autism Spectrum Disorder
Format: Poster Session

A multiple-baseline design across three sibling dyads was used to examine the effectiveness of a sibling-mediated intervention for children with ASD. The study found positive changes in joint attention, modest changes in social behaviors of children with autism, and increased strategies used by typically developing siblings. Results will be shared. (1097)

STUDENT UNDERSTANDING ON EQUIVALENCE TASKS

Topic Area: Instructional Design and Strategies
Secondary Topic: Instructional Design and Strategies
Format: Poster Session

Students struggle with attaching understanding to mathematics symbols. The presenters administered equivalence tasks with and without mathematics symbols to second-grade students. Students performed better on the version without mathematics symbols. Participants will learn about the types of problems on the tasks, a rationale for task design, and analysis of student results. UNIDENTIFIED LANGUAGE DEFICITS IN CHILDREN WITH EMOTIONAL AND BEHAVIORAL DISORDERS: A META-ANALYSIS

Topic Area: Communicative Disabilities and Deafness
Secondary Topic: Emotional and Behavioral Disorders
Format: Poster Session

This session features results of meta-analyses synthesizing 22 extant studies of language performance in K-8 children with EBD and no history of language impairment (LI). Outcomes are prevalence of mild, moderate, and severe LI, and mean scores on standardized assessments. Results are provided for receptive, expressive, and comprehensive language skills. (1557)

UNDERSTANDING HOW GENERAL EDUCATORS PERCEIVE CHALLENGING BEHAVIOR

Topic Area: Collaboration and Inclusive Practices
Secondary Topic: Emotional and Behavioral Disorders
Format: Poster Session

In this session data will be shared regarding preservice teachers’ perceptions of challenging behavior. Preservice general education teachers responded to a survey examining their understandings of challenging behavior that occurred during difficult student and teacher interactions. Results will be focused on special educators’ use of these data for more effective collaborations around challenging behavior. (1832)

EVIDENCE-BASED PRACTICES: PRACTITIONER PERSPECTIVES

Topic Area: Research
Discussant: Carol Davis, University of Washington, Seattle, WA

Practitioner Perspectives on Evidence-Based Practices: Dilemmas of Policy and Practice
This session shares the finding of a qualitative study conducted to learn how special education teachers and administrators in five school districts interpret and implement evidence-based practices. Practitioner interviews were coded for themes using grounded theory including varied beliefs about evidence, its role in classroom practice, and barriers to implementation. (1872)

ALGEBRA INSTRUCTION FOR STUDENTS WITH DISABILITIES: FROM META-ANALYSIS TO TRANSLATION TO PRACTICE

Topic Area: Learning Disabilities
Secondary Topic: Research
Format: Lecture
Algebra is considered a gateway course to graduation and college readiness. For many reasons, students with disabilities have a difficult time passing algebra. In this session, participants will learn the results of a research meta-analysis on algebra instruction and how this evidence-base translates into practice. (300)

CASTING A WIDE NET: LITERACY ACCESS FOR HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS WITH MODERATE INTELLECTUAL DISABILITY

Topic Area: Developmental Disabilities
Secondary Topic: Instructional Design and Strategies
Format: Lecture

High school students with significant disabilities experience a lack of meaningful access to literature. This session highlights the use of an intervention combining photos and discussion to increase comprehension of unadapted age-appropriate expository texts including newspaper articles and employee handbooks. Findings and implications are shared. (774)

CHILDREN WITH HIGH INTELLECTUAL ABILITIES BUT WHO ARE AT RISK OF MARGINALIZATION: MEXICAN EDUCATIONAL PROGRAM

Topic Area: International Programs/Services
Secondary Topic: Collaboration and Inclusive Practices
Format: Lecture

Children who have high intellectual abilities but demonstrate low school performances are frequently misunderstood as having behavior problems or developmental disorders. Understanding desynchronizing allows us the appropriate identification and educational intervention. The presenters will share their experience and discuss the results from a program developed in Mexico that addresses this topic.

DETERMINING CHARACTERISTICS OF EVIDENCE-BASED PREDICTORS OF POST-SCHOOL SUCCESS: A TOOL FOR DISTRICTS

Topic Area: Career Development/Transition
Secondary Topic: Research
Format: Lecture

Many state and local education agencies report having programs in place that reflect evidence-based predictors of postschool success, yet, there are no criteria available by which to examine an existing program and determine if it meets the established criteria for a predictor. This session will overview a tool for this process. (492)

FACTORS INFLUENCING NEEDS OF YOUNG DUAL-LANGUAGE LEARNERS: IMPACT ON ASSESSMENT

Topic Area: Assessment
Secondary Topic: Cultural and/or Linguistic Diversity
Format: Lecture

This session identifies nonacademic factors that must be considered to provide a holistic assessment of young dual language learners (DLLs) in order to differentiate those who have etiologically based needs from those whose needs are a function of culture, language, and other nontraditionally examined factors. The presenters will address the ways these nonacademic factors can impact children’s development and preacademic skills and describe the ways in which culture and language further complicate the assessment of DLLs at the early childhood level.

EARLY-GRADE READING CBM FOR STUDENTS WITH SIGNIFICANT COGNITIVE DISABILITIES

Topic Area: Developmental Disabilities
Secondary Topic: Accountability & Large Scale Assessments
Format: Poster Session
Curriculum-based measurement (CBM) is a tool that holds potential to assist teachers of students with significant cognitive disabilities (SCD) to monitor and enhance reading instruction. Data will be presented on CBM performance of 7,440 students with SCD. Guidance for teachers to integrate CBM into their instructional practice will be presented. (736)

EDUCATIONAL ADMINISTRATORS EXPRESSED PERCEPTIONS OF STUDENTS WITH DISABILITIES

Topic Area: Administration/Supervision
Secondary Topic: Public Policy
Format: Poster Session
Students with disabilities are disproportionately exposed to exclusionary discipline. This denies opportunities and services, potentially indicating prejudice. An identified cause of prejudice is intergroup threat. This literature synthesis captured and analyzed K-12 administrators’ perceptions of threat from students with disabilities. (328)

EVALUATING CHILDREN’S LITERATURE THAT FEATURES EXCEPTIONALITIES

Topic Area: Early Childhood
Secondary Topic: Teacher Education
Format: Poster Session
The number of children’s books featuring characters with exceptionalities has increased over the past decade. With this increase in the market, the potential for biases, stereotypes, and inaccurate depictions is increased. A careful examination of the content of the books is needed. Presenters will share a teacher-friendly evaluation tool that examines the authenticity of the characters and portrayals of the disabilities, share results of the tool when implemented by pre-service teachers, and walk participants through the process. EXPLORING CALCULATOR USE BY STUDENTS WITH MILD INTELECTUAL DISABILITY

Topic Area: Developmental Disabilities
Secondary Topic: Technology and Media
Format: Poster Session
This session will focus on the results of a study identifying the effectiveness and efficiency of calculator types (i.e., scientific and graphing) for middle school students with mild intellectual disability. Presenters will describe how to use calculators, a type of assistive technology, to support students’ learning in mathematics classes. (402)

EXPOSITORY READING COMPREHENSION INTERVENTIONS FOR ELEMENTARY STUDENTS WITH LEARNING DISABILITIES

Topic Area: Learning Disabilities
Secondary Topic: Instructional Design and Strategies
Format: Poster Session
Students with LD have difficulties in reading comprehension, especially in expository texts. This synthesis presents and discusses the literature from 1975 to 2011 on interventions that teach expository text comprehension strategies to elementary students with LD. Findings and implications will be discussed. (500)

PRESERVICE TEACHERS’ ATTITUDES TOWARD GIFTEDNESS

Topic Area: Gifted and Talented
Secondary Topic: Teacher Education
Format: Poster Session
Preservice teachers have little exposure to the educational needs of gifted learners, theories of gifted education, and curriculum/teaching for gifted learners in their teacher training programs. In this session, findings of a study identifying attitudes of preservice teachers toward gifted students will be shared. Additionally, session participants will learn about infusing important information about the nature and needs of gifted learners into undergraduate coursework for preservice teachers. (722)

STANDARDS-BASED EDUCATION TO PROMOTE POSITIVE POSTSECONDARY OUTCOMES FOR STUDENTS WITH DISABILITIES

Topic Area: Accountability & Large Scale Assessments
Secondary Topic: Career Development/Transition
Format: Poster Session
Standards-based education is increasingly used to promote positive postsecondary outcomes, but for students with significant cognitive disabilities outcomes remain distressing. In this session, practitioners who work with secondary students with severe cognitive disabilities will learn how these students can benefit from instruction focused on academic standards. Topics discussed include obtaining access to the general education curriculum, collaboration among general and special educators, and increasing their opportunities after high school (employment, civic participation, and postsecondary education). TEXT PROCESSING AND MOTIVATION IN SECONDARY SCHOOL STUDENTS WITH POOR READING COMPREHENSION

Topic Area: Learning Disabilities
Secondary Topic: Research
Format: Poster Session
Many secondary school students with reading disabilities have serious reading comprehension difficulties. This session describes the results of a set of studies examining how adequate and poor comprehenders in Grades 7-12 process text, dimensions of motivation to read associated with comprehension performance, and implications for instruction of poor comprehenders. USING COMPUTER-ASSISTED INSTRUCTION IN READING INTERVENTION

Topic Area: Technology and Media
Secondary Topic: Instructional Design and Strategies
Format: Poster Session

This session reports the findings of a study that examined the effects of computer-assisted instruction on the decoding skills of struggling fourth-grade readers. Using a multiple-baseline design, the decoding, fluency, and comprehension of four students was examined. Results indicate that the computer program, Lexia, increased the decoding of the participants over a span of 8-12 weeks. Implications for the field will be shared.  (1358)

Strategies and Representations Used in Equal Partitioning Problems by Students With High Incidence Disabilities

Ten students with high-incidence disabilities in third, fourth, and fifth grade participated in clinical interviews as they worked with equal partitioning problems. These problems were designed to uncover how students understood fractions as quantities through examination of students’ strategies and representations. The researcher discovered students used the same strategies, language, and representations documented among general education students. This session shares the findings, implications for instruction, and future research. (931)

Academic and Behavioral Instruction for Students Identified With Emotional and Behavioral Disorders

Academic and behavioral programming for students with emotional and behavioral disorders is vital; however, implementing such practices in classrooms is a complex endeavor. Effective interventions addressing academics and behavior across content areas will be presented, including results from a pilot study addressing a math behavior intervention. (592)

Leader(s): Marie Fisher, University of Washington, Seattle, WA

Autism Assessment and Teaming: Use of the ADOS and Collaborative Teamwork for Best Outcomes

The Autism Diagnostic Observation Schedule (ADOS) has become the gold standard in assessment. The autism triad of social skills, communication, and repetitive behaviors has proven to be a valuable tool for assessment for transdisciplinary teams. This has led to highly successful teaming practices which will be demonstrated and explained. Through demonstration of the ADOS, team practice employing best practices in communication, and integrating the three parts of the triad, participants will enhance their skills in autism assessment. Further emphasis will include improved team process with family-centered feedback. (567)

Topic Area: Collaboration and Inclusive Practices
Secondary Topic: Research
Format: Lecture
Collaboration in terms of inclusive practices has been extensively researched in elementary schools more than secondary schools using a variety of qualitative methods. Using a national data set, high school general education and special education teachers’ perspectives on collaborative practices and issues are analyzed. Results will be shared. (964)

CULTURALLY RESPONSIVE INSTRUCTION IN A RESPONSE TO INTERVENTION ENVIRONMENT

Topic Area: Cultural and/or Linguistic Diversity
Secondary Topic: Instructional Design and Strategies
Format: Lecture
Response to Intervention (RTI) models have been showing increasing performance for all students, but they have not substantially changed the trajectories of children of color relative to their White counterparts nor the racial composition of special education classrooms. In this session, you will learn what culturally responsive instruction (CRT) is, understand differing concepts of equity, see a view of how CRT works within the RTI paradigm, and some models to get CRT started in your schools. This session is appropriate for all educators because it integrates both introductory and advanced concepts. (2088)

EFFECTIVENESS OF MATH FACTS PRACTICE ON FOURTH-GRADE STUDENTS WITH LEARNING DISABILITIES IN MATHEMATICS

Topic Area: Learning Disabilities
Secondary Topic: Instructional Design and Strategies
Format: Lecture

Mastering basic math facts is of crucial importance to all school-aged students, especially for those with disabilities who may encounter heavier cognitive loads placed on their working memory when not automatic with such facts. One recently developed Tier 2 mathematics intervention to promote memorization and fact-fluency of elementary students is Mastering Math Facts (MMF). This session will share the results of a single-subject study that investigated the effectiveness of MMF for four fourth-grade students with LD in mathematics by measuring correct digits per minute on MMF daily timings. Results will be discussed and implications provided. (458)

EFFECTS OF WAIT TIME WHEN COMMUNICATING WITH CHILDREN WITH LOW-INCIDENCE DISABILITIES

Topic Area: Visual Impairments
Secondary Topic: Physical/Health/Multiple Disabilities
Format: Lecture

Verbal and physical prompts are often utilized too soon when communicating with children who have low-incidence disabilities. The child is not given time to process what is being asked and respond appropriately. This session will focus on utilizing wait time with this population, which has been found to increase both intentional and reciprocal communication throughout daily routines. (376)

OVERVIEW OF THE NATIONAL CENTER FOR SPECIAL EDUCATION RESEARCH (NCSER)

Topic Area: Research
Secondary Topic: Public Policy
Format: Lecture

In this session, Deborah Speece, Commissioner, National Center for Special Education Research (NCSER), Institute of Education Science (IES), U.S. Department of Education, will provide an overview of NCSER’s mission, goals, and funding patterns. She will review the Center’s accomplishments over the past year and provide thoughts on future directions for research. NCSER sponsors research that focuses on the needs of infants, toddlers, children, and youth with disabilities, or who are at risk for developing disabilities as well as their teachers and parents. NCSER is one of four Centers within IES, the primary research arm of the Department of Education.

WHAT TO DO WITH A PHD: UNDERSTANDING CAREER OPTIONS AND PREPARING FOR THE RIGHT JOB AFTER GRADUATION

Topic Area: Strategies for Entry to the Special Education Career
Secondary Topic: Teacher Education
Format: Lecture

Findings indicate that the demand for special education PhDs will continue to outstrip the pool of qualified candidates. Although more than 1,500 U.S. universities and colleges train special education teachers, fewer than 100 institutions provide doctoral-level preparation. This ratio presents interesting challenges for the field. During this session, designed specifically for current doctoral students and doctoral advisors, traditional higher education careers and other viable PhD options will be explored. Panelists share strategies for effective alignment of professional and personal goals and doctoral-program learning experiences that help prepare students for success after graduation.

Topic Area: Career Development/Transition

Secondary Topic: Accessing the General Education Curriculum that is Aligned with State Standards

Format: Lecture

Applying tiered interventions in high schools is challenging to conceptualize and implement. This session offers a model of tiered interventions and supports that reflects common features of tiered interventions in the context of preparing secondary students for college and career success. Participants will learn about effective and relevant secondary transition practices applied in a tiered approach.

International Perspectives on Special Needs Education

Title: International Perspectives on Special Needs Education

Topic Area: International Programs/Services

Secondary Topic: Teacher Education

Format: Panel

What does it mean to be “international”? What are the possibilities? How does International Programs/Services add value in countries outside the United States? How can you become more international in focus—a citizen of the world when it comes to creating quality outcomes for children and youth with exceptionalities needs? This session answers these questions and more!

Demystifying Chronic Illness: What Every Educator Needs to Know

Title: Demystifying Chronic Illness: What Every Educator Needs to Know

Secondary Topic: Administration/Supervision

Format: Lecture

School professionals increasingly encounter students with chronic illnesses in the academic setting. Lacking educator preparedness coupled with common misconceptions associated with many chronic conditions inhibit educators from providing appropriate supports in the school setting. This session will demystify misconceptions and provide a comprehensive overview of educational implications with recommendations for support.

School Leaders for All Students, Including Those with Disabilities

Title: School Leaders for All Students, Including Those with Disabilities

Topic Area: Accessing the General Education Curriculum that is Aligned with State Standards

Secondary Topic: Accountability & Large Scale Assessments

Format: Panel

How can school leaders maintain focus to improve outcomes for all students amid the challenges of school reform? This session will share examples from the trenches about how school leaders have met the challenges of school reform and improved outcomes for all students, including those with disabilities.

A DATA-DRIVEN TIERED APPROACH TO INTERVENTION FOR ADOLESCENTS

Topic Area: Administration/Supervision
Secondary Topic: Career Development/Transition
Format: Lecture

Schools face many challenges to ensure all students are college and career ready. In this session, we will summarize an organizer for aligning disparate interventions and targeted initiatives into a more comprehensive approach, discuss a data-driven tiered approach to gauging student need and progress, and identify specific interventions to enable all students to reach their potential.

RESEARCH ON MATH PROBLEM SOLVING: GRADES 4 TO 8

Topic Area: Instructional Design and Strategies
Secondary Topic: Response to Intervention
Format: Lecture

The Institute for Educational Sciences recently produced a free Practice Guide entitled Improving Mathematics Problem Solving in Grades 4 to 8. This Practice Guide contains a thorough analysis of high-quality research as well as five specific recommendations for practice. Success in math problem solving is becoming increasingly critical because of the process dimensions of the Common Core State Standards and related assessments that will appear in the next 2 years. Thus, the need for the dissemination of these recommendations is particularly acute. The implications of the Practice Guide for teachers of special education will be the focus of this session.

TEACHING STUDENTS WITH MODERATE INTELLECTUAL DISABILITY TO COMPREHEND TEXTS READ INDEPENDENTLY

Topic Area: Developmental Disabilities
Secondary Topic: Research
Format: Lecture

This study used a single-case, multiple probes across participants design to investigate the effects of a treatment package, including preteaching question words using time delay and a system of least prompts, on the reading comprehension of adapted, grade-appropriate texts for middle school students with moderate intellectual disability. Results will be shared. (417)

SCIENCE INQUIRY CHECKLISTS: SELF-MONITORING PROBLEM SOLVING FOR STUDENTS WITH COGNITIVE DISABILITY

Topic Area: Accessing the General Education Curriculum that is Aligned with State Standards

Secondary Topic: Developmental Disabilities

Format: Poster Session

This session reports on a study in which science inquiry methods and checklists were combined to teach students with intellectual and multiple disabilities problem-solving skills. Independence and self-monitoring skills are key objectives for these individuals, along with a right to access general academic content. Presenters describe literature and findings related to checklists to support self-monitoring during guided-inquiry instruction. ACCELERATION IN THE LITERATURE: THE CURRENT STATE OF ACCELERATIVE OPTIONS

Topic Area: Gifted and Talented

Secondary Topic: Instructional Design and Strategies

Format: Lecture

Acceleration is an evidence-based practice that has proven effectiveness in a variety of settings. Yet, despite an enormous research base, it remains a practice that retains a residue of skepticism. This session examines the last 5 years of research and publication in the field of gifted education concerning accelerative practice. The presenter examines trends in operationalizing accelerative options in the United States and popular press/popular culture in relation to acceptability, and illustrates how resistance to acceleration has lessened through education and economics. Discussion also includes recommendations for research. (1213)

GETTING MORE FROM YOUR MAZE: EXAMINING DIFFERENCES IN DISTRACTORS

Topic Area: Research
Secondary Topic: Accountability & Large Scale Assessments

Format: Lecture

This session shares the findings of studies that examined differences in Maze construction with respect to student outcomes and information that might be helpful to teachers. Differences in distractor type, alignment, number of choices provided, and number of maze choices total were examined with students from the United States and the Netherlands. Results of this study will inform teachers’ use of maze as a screening and progress monitoring tool and will provide information to teachers about what types of mistakes students are making when completing maze tasks. IDENTIFYING PREDICTORS OF ADULT LIFE ENGAGEMENT: FINDINGS FROM A SECONDARY ANALYSIS OF NLTS2

Topic Area: Career Development/Transition
Secondary Topic: Research
Format: Lecture
Predictors influencing postschool outcomes for students with high-incidence disabilities were identified using the NLTS2 dataset: transition, general education, parent involvement and expectations, student expectations, school experiences, and vocational programs. Presenters will summarize the influence of predictors upon postschool outcomes. Considerations for school services during transition will also be presented. (180)

INTEGRATING SOCIAL-EMOTIONAL LEARNING AND LITERACY INSTRUCTION TO PROMOTE SOCIAL AND ACADEMIC SUCCESS

Topic Area: Early Childhood
Secondary Topic: Emotional and Behavioral Disorders
Format: Demonstration
Children's social-emotional growth and academic learning are inextricably connected. However, due to ever-increasing accountability standards and the pressure to prepare children for high-stakes assessments, social-behavioral development is often neglected. In this session, attendees will learn strategies for merging social-emotional learning and literacy instruction to promote emotional and behavioral self-regulation in the primary grades. (103)

MATH AND SCIENCE METHODS AND MATERIALS FOR DIVERSE ENGLISH LEARNERS WITH DISABILITIES

Topic Area: Cultural and/or Linguistic Diversity
Secondary Topic: Teacher Education
Format: Lecture
This session describes math and science culturally/linguistically responsive strategies and teacher-made curriculum materials utilized successfully with Hispanic and Native American English learners with disabilities. Directions for making these culturally appropriate teacher-made materials are provided to allow teachers the opportunity to develop their own culturally dynamic materials for the students they teach. PERSPECTIVES ON INCLUSION BY PARENTS OF CHILDREN WITH SEVERE DISABILITIES

Topic Area: Physical/Health/Multiple Disabilities
Secondary Topic: Parent/Family/School Partnerships
Format: Lecture

This session shares the results of a study that examined perspectives on inclusion of parents of children with Angelman Syndrome (a severe and complex disability). Findings revealed support of the philosophical and legal principles of inclusion, yet also major concerns such as a lack of knowledge and skills by teachers and possible rejection of the child. PRACTICAL STRATEGIES FOR IMPROVING THE CHANCES OF COLLEGE SUCCESS FOR STUDENTS WITH DISABILITIES

Topic Area: Career Development/Transition
Secondary Topic: Learning Disabilities
Format: Lecture

This session will help secondary-level school personnel promote the skills needed by students to succeed in college. Discussion topics include how to implement a variety of strategies and organizational elements to be prepared for college, how to promote student independence, address college-appropriate academic and technology skills, and the documentation necessary to gain access to college-level disability services. Such knowledge is particularly important given that The National Council on Disability has stated “Higher education is key to the economic prospects and aspirations for independence of youth with disabilities.” (1672)

Topic Area: Gifted and Talented
Secondary Topic: Accountability & Large Scale Assessments
Format: Demonstration

Preassessment makes differentiation defensible. Without preassessment, it is difficult to determine what learning has occurred the student may have already known the answers before the unit even began! This session focuses on practical preassessment strategies based on readiness, learning profiles, and interests, complete with practice, preassessment samples, and student examples. (1527)

A TOWN HALL MEETING: ADDRESSING DISPROPORTIONALITY IN SPECIAL EDUCATION AND SCHOOL DISCIPLINE: WHERE DO WE STAND AND WHERE ARE WE GOING?

Topic Area: Cultural and/or Linguistic Diversity
Secondary Topic: Public Policy
Format: Panel

The landscape regarding disproportionality in special education and school discipline remains highly complex. This town hall will provide a status report of where the field stands with respect to policy regarding racial/ethnic disproportionality in special education and discipline and address many questions concerning this topic such as: Where are the policy mandates addressing disparities? What types of local or state initiatives are addressing disproportionality? What are the obstacles to addressing disproportionality and how might they be addressed? What key attitudes, perspectives, and knowledge might be required to be effective in moving this issue forward?

SOFTWARE IDENTIFICATION AND EVALUATION DECISION-MAKING FOR SPECIAL EDUCATION: PROJECT SIED
Topic Area: Technology and Media
Secondary Topic: Research
Format: Lecture
Project SIED (Software Identification and Evaluation Decision-Making) is an effort to develop best practices using a decision-making framework for researchers and practitioners to identify and evaluate assistive technology, educational technology, and behavior management software. This session will provide attendees with an overview of the framework and actionable guidance for use by practitioners. (854)

INNOVATIVE PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT IN AN ERA OF COLLEGE AND CAREER READINESS
Topic Area: Accessing the General Education Curriculum that is Aligned with State Standards
Format: Demonstration
In this era of education reform, teachers need to develop a sound understanding of how to increase student learning. In this session, two innovative online tools will be demonstrated: (1) a standards-based IEP tutorial that develops IEPs which guide the instructional focus; and (2) accommodations training modules that empower teachers to make good decisions.

SUPPORTING YOUTH IN TRANSITION FROM SECONDARY TO POSTSECONDARY ENVIRONMENTS

Topic Area: Visual Impairments
Secondary Topic: Career Development/Transition
Format: Lecture
Most youngsters learn leadership skills incidentally through observation of others. Students with visual impairments are at risk for failure in learning these skills due to their difficulties with incidental learning. Therefore, it is incumbent upon educators and related service personnel to provide direct instruction and support students with visual impairments in the development of these skills. This session will describe a summer leadership program for transition-aged youth with visual impairments and the follow-up services provided to them for the year following their involvement to support their efforts to move successfully into postsecondary environments. THE QUEST FOR TEAMS TO PROVIDE FAMILY-DRIVEN, CULTURALLY RESPONSIVE EARLY INTERVENTION/EDUCATION SERVICES

Topic Area: Early Childhood
Secondary Topic: Parent/Family/School Partnerships
Format: Lecture

This session will illustrate innovative methods to transform early intervention/education practices so that members of transdisciplinary teams can address the challenges and opportunities of serving children and families representing diverse cultural backgrounds and circumstances (e.g., poverty, immigrant status, ethnicity, religion). Through the use of case studies, this session will illustrate how transdisciplinary teams can improve their practices and provide family-driven, culturally responsive services. Strategies for team-based decision-making will be presented that can be utilized by service providers within their own early intervention/education settings. (1911)

USING MULTILEVEL SUPPORT TO INCREASE KINDERGARTEN TEACHERS IMPLEMENTATION OF RESEARCH-BASED STRATEGIES DURING BEGINNING READING INSTRUCTION

Topic Area: Instructional Design and Strategies
Secondary Topic: Research
Format: Lecture

This study used a multiple baseline across participants design to examine effects of inservice and side-by-side coaching on kindergarten teachers’ implementation of research-based strategies in beginning reading. Presenters will discuss the results which indicated some teachers required follow-up support (i.e., coaching) to implement strategies with fidelity, while others implemented strategies immediately following the inservice. APPLICATIONS OF RESEARCH IN NEUROSCIENCE AND PSYCHOLOGY TO SUPPORT EDUCATIONAL PRACTICE

Topic Area: Visual Impairments
Secondary Topic: Instructional Design and Strategies
Format: Poster Session

Recent research using brain studies of blind, visually impaired, and fully-sighted participants has explored processing activities. Presenters will share the tantalizing implications for how we can apply emerging knowledge of brain function to instructional design and strategies for young children with visual impairments in the areas of literacy and orientation and mobility. Practitioners working with young children with visual impairments in the areas of emergent literacy and orientation and mobility will learn how materials developed for children without visual impairments can apply to their students with visual disabilities as well. HOW CHILDREN READ MULTISYLLABIC WORDS: WHAT WORD PARTS DO THEY USE?

Topic Area: Learning Disabilities

Secondary Topic: Research

Format: Poster Session

This session reports the findings of a study conducted to examine how third- and fourth-grade children read multisyllabic words. Students were tested on a large battery of measures of multisyllabic word reading to determine whether children used sound-spelling correspondences, onsets and rimes, syllables, or morphemes most in reading multisyllabic words of varying difficulty. The results have implications for the way teachers conduct instruction for older readers who struggle with word reading and will be discussed. (524)

LITERACY-BASED BEHAVIORAL INTERVENTIONS: HELPING STUDENTS BE SUCCESSFUL IN INCLUSIVE SETTINGS

Topic Area: Collaboration and Inclusive Practices

Secondary Topic: Research

Format: Poster Session

Participants in this session will learn about an instructional support, a literacy-based behavioral intervention (LBBI), which has been demonstrated to help students with disabilities be successful in inclusive settings. LBBIs are fairly easy to develop and use and have been shown to be effective in helping students with disabilities learn new behaviors. An interactive exchange with session participants will address implications for practice, other uses of this type of intervention, and other methods of delivery (e.g., iPad stories, picture stories, PowerPoint). SELECTING CORE VOCABULARY FOR SECONDARY STUDENTS WITH COMPLEX COMMUNICATION NEEDS
Topic Area: Developmental Disabilities
Secondary Topic: Communicative Disabilities and Deafness
Format: Poster Session
Students who use augmentative and alternative communication (AAC) face numerous challenges when communicating; accessing academic curriculum; and relaying their wants, needs, and thoughts. Choosing core vocabulary that addresses the multiple communicative needs of the AAC user is a complex task. This session will describe the ways in which core vocabulary can be selected for secondary students to allow for access across a variety of environments. (832)

TEACHING STUDENTS TO ATTAIN THEIR TRANSITION GOALS
Topic Area: Career Development/Transition
Secondary Topic: Instructional Design and Strategies
Format: Poster Session
A recent review of the transition literature resulted in a core of 12 best practices, one of which is student-focused planning that involves active student participation in the transition education process. This session describes the Take Action lesson package used to teach students how to attain their transition goals. Presenters will demonstrate the use of the goal attainment lessons, discuss their use, the support needed to enable students to use their goal attainment skills to attain their transition goals, and the results of the study. THE ACADEMIC AND SOCIAL-BEHAVIORAL BENEFITS OF PEER TUTORING: A META-ANALYSIS OF SINGLE-CASE STUDIES
Topic Area: Emotional and Behavioral Disorders
Secondary Topic: Learning Disabilities
Format: Poster Session
There is a current interest in the research literature on the relationship between academic and behavioral outcomes. Peer-tutoring is a well-documented approach for improving outcomes across a range of academic skills and content areas. What has not been as widely studied are the social and behavioral outcomes associated with single-case studies of peer tutoring. This session will review the research on the peer-tutoring literature with an emphasis on its social and behavioral benefits from the single-case research literature. Preliminary results from a meta-analysis of single-case studies will be shared and discussed. (1932)

THE BEST IN CLASS ADHERENCE AND COMPETENCE SCALE: DEVELOPMENT AND PRELIMINARY DATA

Topic Area: Emotional and Behavioral Disorders
Secondary Topic: Research
Format: Poster Session

This session describes the BEST in CLASS Adherence and Competence Scale, a measure designed to assess the adherence and competence of delivery of the BEST in CLASS intervention. BEST in CLASS is a prevention program that provides didactic training and performance-based behavioral coaching in order to increase early childhood teachers’ quantity and quality of effective instructional practices, particularly with students at high-risk for the development of EBD. Implications for future research and practice will also be discussed. (470)

TEACHER PREPARATION AND TECHNOLOGY

Topic Area: Teacher Education
Moderator: Marcia Rock, University of North Carolina Greensboro, Greensboro, NC

In It Together, Online Anytime: Teacher Preparation and Induction Gone Mobile

Connectivity matters! High-impact teacher preparation and induction includes connecting new teachers, seasoned mentors, and university faculty through online networks and providing on-the-spot supports in real time. Presenters describe how mobile devices and advanced wireless technologies were used to create a digital-age clinical model, report implementation findings, and share lessons learned. (2138)

Teaching Those Who Teach: Resources for Professionals Teaching Future Special Education Teachers

Professionals working in special education classrooms need different resources for different student needs. Accessible reading technologies mean that students with print disabilities are now able to fully participate in classes. Participants in this session will leave with a better understanding of the resources that support the new digital learning technologies. (2137)

The Impact of SRS on Preservice Teachers Learning and Engagement

This session reports the findings from a study investigating the use of student response systems (SRS) by preservice general education teachers during large group lecture. SRS, or clickers, are handheld electronic devices that provide increased opportunities to respond. Participants will learn about the literature on SRS, see examples of response options and purposes for SRS, and review findings of the study. (1297)

ADVANCING GIFTED STUDENTS’ VOCABULARY AND COMMUNICATION SKILLS: INCREASING ACHIEVEMENT AND LANGUAGE PROFICIENCY

Topic Area: Gifted and Talented
Secondary Topic: Instructional Design and Strategies
Format: Lecture

The presenter will offer new, innovative strategies to help gifted students increase their vocabulary and communication skills, develop higher level thinking skills, and achieve advanced levels of inquiry and learning. Attendees will receive ideas for accelerating and enriching students’ language experiences, to make students more effective thinkers, speakers, readers, writers, and inquirers. (1920)

AN EFFICACY STUDY OF BEST IN CLASS: A CURRICULUM TARGETING PROBLEM BEHAVIOR

Topic Area: Emotional and Behavioral Disorders
Secondary Topic: Instructional Design and Strategies
Format: Lecture

Data on the effectiveness of BEST in CLASS, an intervention for young children at risk for emotional and behavioral disorders will be reviewed. This intervention was developed to decrease instances of problem behavior while increasing positive, prosocial behaviors. The BEST in CLASS strategies and implications from study findings will be discussed. (663)

THE STUDENT VOICE IN THE TRANSITION PROCESS: KEYS TO SUCCESS

Topic Area: Career Development/Transition
Secondary Topic: Administration/Supervision
Format: Panel

Transition activities are a required component of the federal law, however, such activities can become a matter of legal compliance rather than an active process which contributes to long-term success. Attendees will learn about a school district that has developed a set of structures based in research which highlight student voice in the process and provide families with an opportunity to learn about their student along with school staff. Activities in elementary revolve around the development of self-determination skills. Middle school activities focus on student reporting of strengths and weaknesses and high school activities allow students to enter the driver’s seat in the IEP meeting. (1518)

CULTURALLY RESPONSIVE PEDAGOGY FOR STUDENTS WITH DISABILITIES: A CLASSROOM EVALUATION TOOL

Topic Area: Cultural and/or Linguistic Diversity
Secondary Topic: Instructional Design and Strategies
Format: Demonstration

Achievement of students with disabilities, both academic and social, is greatly impacted when their individuality and identity are regarded and valued in the classroom. Multicultural education (ME) is a way of providing effective instruction that also ensures all students feel included. This session will describe the Multicultural Classroom Evaluation Tool (MCET) which was designed to measure ME components and the impact of culturally responsive teaching on academics. Participants will learn how MCET can be used in their own classroom to include multicultural education. (401)

EFFECTIVE STRATEGIES TO INCREASE TEACHER KNOWLEDGE IN SUPPORTING STUDENT SELF-DETERMINATION

Topic Area: Career Development/Transition
Secondary Topic: Teacher Education
Format: Lecture

Using The Self-Determined Learning Model of Instruction (SDMI), this three-phase model serves as the cornerstone for a module to assist educators with the knowledge, skills, and dispositions to teach students with or without disabilities to become self-directed learners in the educational process. The SDMI has been incorporated as part of a university curriculum to assist educators in learning specific strategies to enable their students to reach desired future goals for postsecondary life. Impact on teacher candidate knowledge, skills, and dispositions related to student self-determination will be shared along with implications for personnel preparation. (1901)

EXPLORING DISPOSITIONS TO ENGENDER RECIPROCAL AND RESPONSIVE PARTNERSHIPS WITH DIVERSE FAMILIES

Topic Area: Parent/Family/School Partnerships
Secondary Topic: Cultural and/or Linguistic Diversity
Format: Lecture

Practitioners’ dispositions toward cultural and/or linguistic diversity can largely determine the efficacy and quality of partnerships. The presenters discuss two diversity-sensitive dispositions associated with Skilled Dialogue as these apply to building reciprocal and responsive partnerships with diverse families in ways that integrate their strengths while supporting students’ learning. EXPLORING OBSERVED EXPLICIT TEACHING EPISODES DURING EARLY READING AND BEGINNING MATHEMATICS INSTRUCTION

Topic Area: Learning Disabilities
Secondary Topic: Instructional Design and Strategies
Format: Lecture

The focus of this session is on observational data collected during two large-scale research studies. Specifically, the presenters explore the relationship between observed explicit teaching episodes and student outcomes in reading and mathematics. This topic will benefit all educators with an interest in using evidence-based practices to improve outcomes for at-risk learners. (1243)

LEADING WITH EVIDENCE: GUIDANCE FROM THE HANDBOOK OF LEADERSHIP AND ADMINISTRATION FOR SPECIAL EDUCATION

Secondary Topic: Public Policy
Format: Panel

This interactive session brings together six prominent contributors representing the five sections from the Handbook for Leadership and Administration of Special Education (2012). Following a brief presentation of a few “big ideas,” participants will then have the opportunity to engage in three rotations of small cluster interactive discussions with the contributing authors. Discussion topics highlight specific leadership principles that promote equitable and culturally responsive general education systems and will be explored through multiple lenses: historical roots, critical analyses, and challenges. PROMOTING PLANNING: THE CRITICAL ROLE OF PLANNING IN WRITTEN EXPRESSION
Topic Area: Accessing the General Education Curriculum that is Aligned with State Standards
Secondary Topic: Instructional Design and Strategies
Format: Poster Session
Students with and without disabilities struggle to engage in planning their written expression. This session discusses three prewriting strategies and their impact on written expression and the integration of prewriting into written expression activities. (888)

TEACHERS’ USE OF IPAD APPLICATIONS WITH STUDENTS WITH AUTISM
Topic Area: Autism Spectrum Disorder
Secondary Topic: Technology and Media
Format: Poster Session
Anecdotal evidence shared by teachers hails the iPad as a useful tool for working with children with autism. But how do teachers find appropriate applications (apps) for their students and what apps are they using? This session will share the results of a survey of teachers of students with autism in one school district and provide information on the most commonly-used apps identified. (1902)

TECHNICAL ADEQUACY OF CBMS IN CONTENT AREAS FOR SECONDARY STUDENTS WITH LD

Topic Area: Assessment
Secondary Topic: Learning Disabilities
Format: Poster Session
This session provides an overview of the technical adequacy of CBMs that were identified in published research for assessing content area learning of secondary students with LD in social studies and science classes. Research-supported practical implications will be highlighted including reliable and valid measures, administration, progress monitoring, and modifying instruction. (884)

TRANSLATING PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT IN BEHAVIOR MANAGEMENT INTO POSITIVE ACTION

Topic Area: Emotional and Behavioral Disorders
Secondary Topic: Instructional Design and Strategies
Format: Poster Session
Educators participate in a variety of professional development opportunities in behavior management. This session addresses the opportunities from which to choose, results of a survey conducted with educators about those opportunities, and ways to implement meaningful professional development to improve the individual’s classroom environment. THE IMPORTANCE OF PARENT SATISFACTION DURING THE TRANSITION TO KINDERGARTEN

Topic Area: Early Childhood
Secondary Topic: Parent/Family/School Partnerships
Format: Poster Session
This session reports on associations between parent-rated satisfaction with the transition process and ratings of child adjustment to school for children with disabilities transitioning into public kindergarten programs. Information will be provided on parent involvement in transition activities and their reported satisfaction with the transition experience. (1252)

USING AN IPAD TO TEACH GENERALIZED MATCHING ON A SORTING MAIL TASK

Topic Area: Career Development/Transition
Secondary Topic: Technology and Media
Format: Poster Session
This session describes an intervention that provides a framework for using concept analyses and general case programming through video modeling to teach a sorting mail task. Video-modeling on portable devices such as iPads, iPhones, AAC devices, and PDAs have proven to be effective in teaching individuals with developmental disabilities a range of skills. A multiple probe across participants was used to evaluate the effects of using video modeling to teach seven individuals with autism to sort mail. The participants were instructed on one set of mail while two other sets remained in baseline to assess generalization effects. Results will be discussed. (164)

WHAT IS SCHOOL-BASED MENTAL HEALTH?: BUILDING SYSTEMS OF CARE IN EDUCATION

Topic Area: Emotional and Behavioral Disorders

Secondary Topic: Administration/Supervision

Format: Poster Session

School-Based Mental Health (SBMH) is gaining attention and is now seen as the missing piece of the most current school reform efforts. This session will review current literature related to SBMH. Themes in the literature are presented to assist professionals towards building schools that are systems of care.

IMPROVING STUDENT BEHAVIOR IN SECONDARY SCHOOLS: RECOMMENDATIONS AND RESEARCH EVIDENCE

Topic Area: Emotional and Behavioral Disorders

Secondary Topic: Research

Format: Panel

This session will discuss results from a review of research evidence on interventions and strategies to improve student behavior and identify evidence-based strategies that can be applied in secondary schools. Five specific recommendations, generated by an expert panel whose members came together to consider the evidence, will be presented, along with examples of how they can be implemented in secondary schools with a wide range of student populations and school characteristics. The panel will encourage audience discussion of the applicability of the recommendations to their own school contexts and of possible extensions, revisions, or modifications to the recommendations.

KEEPING IT COOL: USING YOGA AND RELAXATION STRATEGIES WITH EXCEPTIONAL CHILDREN TO HELP STUDENTS COOL DOWN, FOCUS, AND LEARN!

Topic Area: Emotional and Behavioral Disorders

Secondary Topic: Instructional Design and Strategies

Format: Demonstration

In this session, innovative relaxation, breathing, and yoga tools will be modeled for participants. This session is highly interactive and engages conference attendees through experiential learning, reflection, and collaboration. By first analyzing what structural pieces, rules, and expectations are consistent in their classrooms daily, participants will find space to effectively implement relaxation, breathing, and yoga tools to positively impact student behavior and academic achievement.

PAR 1: EXPLORING THE WORLD:
SUPPORTING CHILDREN WITH HEARING LOSS IN A TYPICAL PRESCHOOL

Secondary Topic: Early Childhood

Format: Lecture

Early intervention and advanced hearing technology enable many 21st-century children with hearing loss to enter general education preschool classes. This session addresses evidence-based rationales for this placement, strategies for successful inclusion, a model for Response to Intervention at the preschool level, and a game plan for preschool inclusion.

S.T.A.I.R. STRATEGIES: STEPS TO SUCCESS

Secondary Topic: Early Childhood

Format: Lecture

Parental desire for their child with a hearing impairment to learn to talk is not enough. Parents are those most appropriate and responsible for inputting the abundant information needed for spoken language. Learn THE five things every parent can do, regardless of education, income level, or background, to lead their child on the listening and talking journey.

AT-RISK STUDENTS IN COLLEGE: HOW THEY BOOSTED THEIR STUDY SKILLS!

Topic Area: Career Development/Transition

Secondary Topic: International Programs/Services

Format: Lecture

This session reports the findings of a study aimed to improve study skills and academic performances of at-risk students in a Thai community college. Presenters will discuss the pre- and posttests, record review, and self-reflection that were used, as well as the training program that was composed of training, maintenance, and independent phases. Results will be shared which show that student study skills and academic performance improved after the program.

COMING OF AGE: HIGH SCHOOL PROGRAMS FOR STUDENTS WITH AUTISM SPECTRUM DISORDERS

Secondary Topic: Career Development/Transition

Format: Panel

Although the majority of research on comprehensive programs for students with ASD has been conducted with preschool- and elementary-aged students, adolescent students also participate in public school programs and their postgraduation outcomes are bleak. Presenters from the Center on Secondary Education for Students With ASD will describe an emerging model for an evidence-based, individualized program for high school students with ASD. In addition to discussing a system for assessing quality and individualized selection of evidence-based practices, the academic/literacy, social competence, personal independence, and transition/family components of the model will be described.

CO-LOCATING DAY TREATMENT SERVICES WITHIN PUBLIC SCHOOLS AND DISTRICT FACILITIES

Schools and districts are being faced with the mantra of "do more with less." Students that need high levels of care often find their way to day treatment and facility school programs. Districts struggle with the transportation, tuition, and therapy costs of these programs and the limitations related to LRE, nondisabled peers, and transitioning students back to district based programming. This session will discuss co-locating programs within districts and schools and will review programs and models including their benefits and challenges.

Improving Employment Outcomes for Youth with Autism Through School-Facilitated Supported Employment Services

Secondary Topic: Autism Spectrum Disorder
Format: Lecture
This session will discuss principles and practice of school-facilitated supported employment services customized to address the interests and support needs of young adults with autism. Participants will learn about the challenges with transition to employment for youth with autism, the components of supported employment and their relationship to evidence-based practices for youth with autism, and strategies for implementing school-facilitated supported employment programs.

Instruction in Early Literacy for Older Students with Severe/Multiple Disabilities

Topic Area: Physical/Health/Multiple Disabilities
Secondary Topic: Instructional Design and Strategies
Format: Lecture
The impact of severe and/or multiple disabilities on acquisition of early literacy skills for older students will be discussed in terms of research evidence and educational practice. Strategies will be provided for increasing access to early literacy skills among older students with little or no functional speech and/or severe physical impairments.

Latinas and Gifted Education: Challenges and Concerns in Their Own Voice

Topic Area: Gifted and Talented
Secondary Topic: Cultural and/or Linguistic Diversity
Format: Lecture
This session shares the findings of a study that examined the experiences of Latinas in state residential schools of Science, Technology, Engineering, and Math (STEM). Goals of this project focused on understanding their experiences and identifying factors leading to the decision to enroll, along with issues contributing to retention. These schools represent powerful opportunities for students to begin a successful path toward postsecondary STEM degrees and employment. A crucial step toward achieving equity in the STEM fields may begin with determining successful strategies to attract more Latinas to residential STEM schools and gifted education programs.

PREPARING CULTURALLY COMPETENT EDUCATORS: BRIDGING THE CULTURAL DIVIDE THROUGH LITERATURE

Topic Area: Cultural and/or Linguistic Diversity
Secondary Topic: Teacher Education
Format: Demonstration

The Knowledge of Cross-Cultural and Multicultural Competencies are critical for all classroom teachers and teacher candidates. Educators must be able to implement evidence-based strategies that address the academic and cultural needs of all students. Learn how book clubs not only provide an opportunity for teacher candidates to learn about the various cultures that may be present in a classroom, but also foster the development of self-reflection necessary to become a cross-culturally competent practitioner. IMPLEMENTING EFFECTIVE PROGRAM EVALUATION TO IMPROVE SYSTEMS AND SUPPORTS FOR STUDENTS WITH CHALLENGING BEHAVIORS

Topic Area: Emotional and Behavioral Disorders
Secondary Topic: Assessment
Format: Lecture

When developing and implementing systems to support students with challenging behaviors, schools on their own often do not have the capacity or organizational structures to sustain or measure systemic improvements. Additionally, bridging the ongoing research to practice divide in this area remains a challenge. This session will focus on ways schools can use the participatory program evaluation process to implement meaningful and sustainable improvements in their schoolwide PBIS systems, as well as in specialized programs for students with disabilities. Participants will learn strategies to plan, measure, and implement more effective and efficient systems and programs in their own schools.

TEACHING MATHEMATICS TO STUDENTS WITH DISABILITIES: USING THE C-S-A INTERVENTION

Topic Area: Instructional Design and Strategies
Secondary Topic: Response to Intervention
Format: Lecture

Students with disabilities often struggle in mathematical achievement. This session will focus on the use of the Concrete-Semiconcrete-Abstract model of teaching mathematical concepts to students with disabilities. Participants will apply content to video-based case studies that focus on the common core standards.

THE ARITHMETIC TO ALGEBRA GAP: INSTRUCTIONAL RECOMMENDATIONS FOR SUCCESS IN ALGEBRA

Topic Area: Learning Disabilities
Secondary Topic: Instructional Design and Strategies
Format: Lecture

This session will provide an overview of evidence-based instruction and interventions for teaching algebra to secondary students with learning disabilities. Working with the arithmetic-to-algebra gap framework, presenters will describe research-supported instructional approaches demonstrated to help students with academic difficulties build foundational mathematics skills (such as integers, fractions, and equations) in order to improve success in algebra. Additionally, suggestions on how to prevent difficulties with algebra acquisition are provided.

SUCCESSFUL TRANSITION INTO POSTSECONDARY EDUCATION AND EMPLOYMENT USING THE TRANSITION ASSESSMENT AND GOAL GENERATION

Topic Area: Career Development/Transition
Secondary Topic: Accountability & Large Scale Assessments
Format: Lecture

During this session, participants will learn the nonacademic student behaviors and experiences associated with successful transition into postschool employment and further education. Presenters will describe how they used these behaviors to create a valid and reliable online assessment called the “Transition Assessment and Goal Generator.” They will also demonstrate how the assessment produces a profile of strengths and needs along with suggested annual transition goals, and will also discuss how educators can use this assessment to assist in building the transition IEP and include research-identified annual transition goals. PROGRESS MONITORING: PRACTICAL CLASSROOM ASSESSMENT STRATEGIES

Topic Area: Assessment
Secondary Topic: Accessing the General Education Curriculum that is Aligned with State Standards
Format: Poster Session

Progress monitoring, a scientifically based practice, is used to evaluate students' academic performance and determine the effectiveness of instruction. It allows teachers to intervene early to meet the needs of struggling learners. This session provides an overview of assessment models and the "how to" track and graph student knowledge and skills. COMORBIDITY OF DEAF AND HARD OF HEARING STUDENTS AND OTHER DISABILITIES: VARIABILITY ACROSS EDUCATIONAL SETTINGS

Topic Area: Communicative Disabilities and Deafness
Secondary Topic: Physical/Health/Multiple Disabilities
Format: Poster Session

Up to an estimated 50% of students who are deaf or hard of hearing (D/HH) have co-occurring disabilities. Yet there is little information about the educational outcomes and best practices in serving these students. PEPNet2’s current needs assessment includes a survey of professionals, individuals, and parents about the prevalence and type of co-occurring disorders in D/HH students. This session provides information that will increase participants’ awareness of this issue and that can also be used as a foundation to understanding the needs and potential supports for students with these diverse characteristics. CURRENT CONDITION OF EDUCATION FOR STUDENTS WITH SPECIAL NEEDS IN JAPAN

Topic Area: International Programs/Services
Secondary Topic: Public Policy
Format: Poster Session

Beginning in April 2007, the Japanese government shifted the focus of policy from the notion of “Special Education” towards “Special Needs Education.” The fundamental shift was from providing education according to “category and degree of disability” to meeting the “individual special educational needs.” This session will provide an overview of the current policy in Japan. EFFECTS OF SIMULTANEOUS PROMPTING ON MATH FACT ACCURACY OF LOW-ACHIEVING STUDENTS

Topic Area: Research
Secondary Topic: Instructional Design and Strategies
Format: Poster Session

This session shares the findings of a study that employed a multiple baseline design to investigate effects of the simultaneous prompting procedure on math fact accuracy for fourth-grade students at risk for low achievement in math. Results indicate that all four participants improved their math fact accuracy in at least two out of three tiers of facts. (1929)

EVIDENCE-BASED READING INTERVENTIONS FOR ADOLESCENT ENGLISH LEARNERS WITH READING DIFFICULTIES

Topic Area: Cultural and/or Linguistic Diversity
Secondary Topic: Learning Disabilities

Format: Poster Session

English learners are most often identified for special education services in the area of reading, and yet little research has been done to determine which interventions have been validated as effective for this population. The presenters will review the studies and recommend implications for practice. (733)

IMPACT AND IMPLICATIONS OF PBIS FOR STUDENTS WITH EMOTIONAL AND BEHAVIORAL DISORDERS

Topic Area: Emotional and Behavioral Disorders
Secondary Topic: Collaboration and Inclusive Practices

Format: Poster Session

This session examines the impact of schoolwide PBIS on students with significant socio-emotional and behavioral needs. Survey data collected in PBIS schools are presented regarding the decision-making processes regarding the selection, frequency and effectiveness of “evidence-based” practices with students with or at risk for EBD, and implications for their futures. LITERACY INSTRUCTION IN SPECIAL EDUCATION CLASSROOMS: INSTRUCTIONAL PRACTICES AND INTERACTIONS AROUND LEARNING

Topic Area: Developmental Disabilities
Secondary Topic: Accessing the General Education Curriculum that is Aligned with State Standards

Format: Poster Session

Literacy instruction in special education often uses a reductionist approach, focusing on drill and practice, sight words, and memorization rather than deep comprehensive literacy learning. This session will discuss how evidence-based practices from general education significantly improved literacy outcomes for students with moderate to severe developmental disabilities. (1701)

RACIAL IDENTITY DEVELOPMENT OF PRESERVICE TEACHERS: BOUTIQUE STUDY TO PROGRAMMATIC INCORPORATION
Topic Area: Cultural and/or Linguistic Diversity
Secondary Topic: Teacher Education
Format: Poster Session
Preservice teachers must first explore their racial identity as a prerequisite to implementing culturally relevant pedagogy. This session will describe how Brown, Black, and White students and their university instructors created a safe harbor to explore one another’s stories and read texts that challenged their notions of teaching and the integral role of race. SUPERVISING PARAEDUCATORS: WHAT ADMINISTRATORS AND TEACHERS NEED TO KNOW

Topic Area: Administration/Supervision
Secondary Topic: Teacher Education
Format: Poster Session

Administrators, general and special education teachers, and students support services professionals rely heavily on paraeducators to assist and support teacher directed instruction. However, many educators have received little or no training to assist them in effectively managing and directing the work of paraeducators. This session will examine the issues, roles, and responsibilities of teachers and administrators who direct, manage, and supervise the work of paraeducators. The presenters will provide practical information and activities to enhance the knowledge and skills of teachers and administrators in effectively supervising paraeducators in various educational settings. THE EFFECTIVENESS OF TEACHER EVALUATION: PERCEPTIONS OF SPECIAL EDUCATORS

Topic Area: Administration/Supervision
Secondary Topic: Public Policy
Format: Poster Session

Parents, practitioners, and policy makers agree that one of the most promising elements in improving public education is the presence of a highly skilled and effective teacher. However, confusion and controversy abound regarding the best way to evaluate teacher effectiveness. This session reports the findings of a study to gain insight into how special educators are evaluated by their respective districts/administrators and to investigate the perceived value of specific measures as well as the feedback received as a result of the evaluation process. Results indicate mixed feelings related to the process and administrator capabilities. (309)

TEACHING DEMONSTRATIONS: DO PRESENTERS PERCEIVE THEMSELVES MATCH THE AUDIENCE’S PERCEPTIONS?

Topic Area: Teacher Education
Secondary Topic: Research
Format: Poster Session

In this research study, preservice teachers were asked to assess themselves using a 5-point Likert scale in seven categories after watching their performance on video. Their peers also assessed them in the same categories using the same instrument. Do perceptions of presenters’ abilities match peers’ perceptions of their abilities? This session provides the results to this question. A student’s actual 10-minute video clip of a teaching demonstration is also included. (1559)

THE SOCIAL EMOTIONAL LEARNING FOUNDATIONS (SELF) CURRICULUM: RESULTS FROM THE KINDERGARTEN PILOT
Topic Area: Early Childhood
Secondary Topic: Emotional and Behavioral Disorders
Format: Poster Session
Children’s social-emotional growth is inextricably connected to academic learning, but high stakes testing often results in a restricted focus on academic skills. This session provides findings from a kindergarten pilot implementation of Social-Emotional Learning Foundations (SELF), a curriculum that merges social-emotional learning and instruction in reading comprehension to promote self-regulation skills. IMPLEMENTING PBIS IN SECURE JUVENILE FACILITIES: RESULTS OF A FEASIBILITY STUDY
Topic Area: Emotional and Behavioral Disorders
Secondary Topic: Special Education Schools
Format: Lecture

Research indicates that an effective juvenile justice system communicates, promotes, and richly reinforces desirable behavior. It clearly communicates expectations and rules and minimizes opportunities for youth to engage in problematic behavior. Adults in an effective juvenile justice system consistently and fairly give negative consequences for rule infractions. This session will discuss the research evidence regarding effective treatment and support for delinquent youth, considering evidence-based best practice in prevention, incarceration, and aftercare. Results from an ongoing U.S. Department of Education study will be presented along with sample measurement tools. (1604)

IMPROVING SPECIAL EDUCATION TEACHER CANDIDATES INTERCULTURAL SENSITIVITY

Topic Area: Teacher Education
Secondary Topic: Cultural and/or Linguistic Diversity
Format: Poster Session

Presenters will describe the components of a reflective multicultural perspectives experience through a graduate course and discuss its impact on teacher candidates’ intercultural sensitivity. Participants’ mean scores indicated that their intercultural competence needs improvement. A significantly higher perceived score was identified suggesting that participants overestimated their level of intercultural sensitivity. (2054)

PEER SUPPORTS: LESSONS LEARNED FROM THE FIELD

Topic Area: Developmental Disabilities
Secondary Topic: Collaboration and Inclusive Practices
Format: Poster Session

Practical applications as well as collaborative strategies with teachers and related service providers to implement strategies across multiple settings are essential for effective programs. Strategies from cases of peer support with students with cognitive and behavioral challenges (Autism, Down syndrome, Multiple Disabilities) will be shared. (2057)

PERCEPTIONS AND PRACTICES OF ELEMENTARY TEACHERS EDUCATING STUDENTS WHO ARE LINGUISTICALLY DIVERSE

Topic Area: Cultural and/or Linguistic Diversity

Secondary Topic: Teacher Education

Format: Poster Session

This session shares results of a qualitative study examining elementary teacher perceptions of and practices for students who are linguistically diverse and who struggle to access the curriculum. Results from a case study dilemma will be discussed, including teachers varied perceptions and practices, and implications for teacher education and policy. (580)

PREPARING LEADERS TO WORK IN THE DIGITAL AGE

Topic Area: Technology and Media

Secondary Topic: Teacher Education

Format: Poster Session

Doctoral programs must find ways to keep abreast of current practices. This session will describe how one institution prepares future faculty to deliver technology-rich instructional environments and teach teachers how to provide greater access to students with disabilities consistent with the principles of universal design for learning. RESPONDING TO AGGRESSIVE AND VIOLENT BEHAVIOR: MEETING THE NEEDS OF SPECIAL EDUCATION STUDENTS

Topic Area: Research

Secondary Topic: Parent/Family/School Partnerships

Format: Poster Session

This session examines student discipline procedures and the practices implemented by school leaders in response to the aggressive or violent behaviors elicited by students. In particular, presenters will focus on the practices or the absence of practices used with special education students as a means of modifying behaviors in preparation for their return to the classroom. (1334)

SELF-REGULATED STRATEGY DEVELOPMENT FOR STRUGGLING WRITERS

Topic Area: Instructional Design and Strategies

Secondary Topic: Accountability & Large Scale Assessments

Format: Poster Session

This session will share the results of a single-case research study on a writing intervention conducted with high school students who were identified as at risk for school failure. The presenter will discuss the process of implementing the study, the receptivity of the student participants, and student outcomes. Participants will have opportunities to ask questions about the study and its outcomes during the session. (1848)

SHE’S MORE THAN A SHY SMILE: CREATING COMMUNICATION AND COMMUNITY THROUGH TECHNOLOGY

Secondary Topic: Developmental Disabilities
Format: Poster Session

This session describes a communication intervention conducted with a 14-year-old girl with Down syndrome. The intervention utilized technology (music, PowerPoint, self-directed home videos, iPad) situated within an ethos of autonomy and dignity, to allow Maria’s voice to emerge in the classroom. Results will be shared which showed an increase in communication and social engagement. (1864)

SRSD FOR QUICK WRITING IN MIDDLE SCHOOL CONTENT AND LEARNING SUPPORT CLASSROOMS

Topic Area: Instructional Design and Strategies
Secondary Topic: Learning Disabilities
Format: Poster Session

Adolescents with disabilities often have difficulty in classroom writing. In this session, an evidence-based approach, Self-Regulated Strategy Development (SRSD) for quick writing, is described. Suggestions for small and large group instruction from the perspectives of researchers and a science teacher are presented. (196)

TEACHING LETTER SOUNDS TO KINDERGARTEN ENGLISH LANGUAGE LEARNERS USING INCREMENTAL REHEARSAL

Topic Area: Cultural and/or Linguistic Diversity
Secondary Topic: Instructional Design and Strategies
Format: Poster Session

This study examined the efficacy of Incremental Rehearsal (IR) to teach letter sounds to struggling English language learners (ELLs). The extent to which IR improves letter sound production is discussed in combination with an overview of the intervention. Specific considerations of its use with linguistically diverse students are also provided. (1053)

TRANSITIONING TO A MORE FORMAL EARLY CHILDHOOD CURRICULUM: ISSUES OF ORGANIZATIONAL CHANGE

Topic Area: Early Childhood
Secondary Topic: Accessing the General Education Curriculum that is Aligned with State Standards
Format: Poster Session

There are many challenges in effective delivery of high-quality curriculum in preschools serving young children with and without disabilities. This session outlines the technical (content-related) and adaptive (within-teacher) challenges experienced during the first year of implementing a more comprehensive curriculum. Factors that influence curriculum implementation will be discussed. (1384)

USING DIGITAL STORIES TO TEACH WRITING TO STUDENTS WITH AUTISM

Topic Area: Autism Spectrum Disorder
Secondary Topic: Instructional Design and Strategies
Format: Poster Session

This session presents the effect of computer-assisted instruction using Windows XP Photo Story 3 to develop digital stories in teaching writing to students with autism. A single-subject design was used to compare student performance in expressive writing. The findings show that digital stories help these students expand and organize their ideas in developing their compositions. As a result, the total number of words and complete sentences in their compositions are increased, and their writing quality is improved. (591)

USING VIDEOTAPES AND A THEORETICAL FRAMEWORK TO PROMOTE REFLECTION IN PRACTICUM COURSES

Topic Area: Teacher Education
Secondary Topic: Administration/Supervision
Format: Poster Session

This session will demonstrate how the Framework for Reflective Thinking model of Sparks-Langer and colleagues is used to promote reflective thinking in special education practicum students during their practicum experiences. The discussion will specifically focus on the methods used to teach three components for lesson reflection: the theoretical Framework for Reflective Thinking, a structured set of reflection questions, and use of the data contained in lesson videotapes. (1304)

Finding the Right Balance in Language and Literacy Instruction for Struggling ELLs

Topic Area: English Language Learners
Secondary Topic: Response to Intervention
Format: Panel

An important component of RTI is early intervention services. In this session, presenters describe Tier 2 early intervention services focused on language and literacy development for struggling ELLs. Characteristics of Tier 3 or special education services focused on language and literacy for ELLs with exceptionalities will also be discussed.

Designing Language and Literacy Instruction for ELLs in an RTI Framework

Topic Area: English Language Learners
Secondary Topic: Response to Intervention
Format: Panel

High quality instruction to support emergent bilingual learners requires a humanizing pedagogy that is engaging to students and driven by the use of culturally relevant materials and critical perspectives about literacy development. Presenters will discuss key issues in K-12 bilingual inclusive education as well as implications for designing instruction for multilingual classrooms.

A STUDY OF TIERED CONVERSATIONAL TURN TAKING INSTRUCTION FOR INCLUSIVE PRESCHOOL PROGRAMS

Topic Area: Instructional Design and Strategies
Secondary Topic: Research
Format: Demonstration

This single-subject research design was used to evaluate the effects of tiered conversational turn taking instruction in an inclusive preschool classroom. Participants will discuss the implications associated with the findings and will review forms, materials, and supports utilized within the study. Video examples will be included. (2000)

ACCESSIBLE INSTRUCTIONAL MATERIALS: STUDENTS’ PERSPECTIVES ON MAXIMIZED ACCESS

Topic Area: Technology and Media
Secondary Topic: Accessing the General Education Curriculum that is Aligned with State Standards
Format: Lecture

The AIM-VA project provides accessible educational media to eligible students with print disabilities across Virginia. This session will discuss the use of large print, digital, DAISY files, and audio recording formats from the students’ perspectives. The results from longitudinal study on AIM implementation and students’ interviews will be presented. (1638)

ACCESSIBLE TRANSPORTATION IN TRANSITION PLANNING: BUILDING A CONTINUUM OF SERVICE

Topic Area: Career Development/Transition
Secondary Topic: Collaboration and Inclusive Practices
Format: Lecture

Transportation education is critical as students seek to fulfill postschool goals. Easter Seals Project ACTION and the National Association for Pupil Transportation have a long history in supporting a transportation continuum for students in transition from K-12 to postsecondary settings. This session will offer replicable strategies to build school transportation education. (1379)

Leader(s): Judy Shanley, Easter Seals Project ACTION, Washington, DC

AN EXAMINATION OF A UNIVERSITY-SCHOOL PARTNERSHIP FOR RTI AND ITS IMPACT ON STUDENT PROGRESS

Topic Area: Teacher Education
Secondary Topic: Strategies for Entry to the Special Education Career
Format: Lecture

This session will examine the impact of a special education teacher preparation program that requires a minimum number of student contact hours with RTI Tier III students and interventions. A discussion of the impact will include data and the testimony of a teacher working within the program. (776)

AN INTERDISCIPLINARY APPROACH TO SUPPORT CHILDREN AND FAMILIES IN PRESCHOOL TRANSITION

Topic Area: Early Childhood
Secondary Topic: Parent/Family/School Partnerships
Format: Lecture
Participants will learn about a project including faculty and students in Occupational Therapy, Psychology, Communication Disorders and Early Childhood Special Education programs at one University. ToPS, a summer program to support the transition to preschool, provides developmentally appropriate activities for children ages 2 and 3 to prepare them for classroom experiences as they transition into preschool. Additionally, families are invited to attend a support-group-style parenting class to discuss issues of transition and general parenting concerns. Program development, implementation, and program outcomes will be shared and time for discussion for replication will be provided. (1861)

ARE INTERVENTIONS FOR SECONDARY STUDENTS WITH LD ALIGNED WITH THE COMMON CORE MATHEMATICAL PRACTICES?

Topic Area: Learning Disabilities
Secondary Topic: Accessing the General Education Curriculum that is Aligned with State Standards
Format: Lecture
This session will present a review of the literature on mathematical interventions for secondary students with learning disabilities (LD). The identified studies were analyzed in light of the mathematical practices outlined by the Common Core State Standards Initiative. Suggestions for teaching and future research will be provided. (1062)
Leader(s): Jason Miller, University of Maryland, College Park, MD

ARE MINORITY CHILDREN DISPROPORTIONATELY REPRESENTED IN SPECIAL EDUCATION? ESTIMATES FROM TWO NATIONALLY REPRESENTATIVE DATASETS

Topic Area: Research
Secondary Topic:
Format: Lecture
Minority disproportionate representation in special education has repeatedly been reported. Yet, few estimates have been derived using longitudinal, nationally representative datasets and extensive statistical control. This session surveys existing work and reports on analyses of two nationally representative datasets. Results of these analyses will be shared and discussed.

COLLEGE SUPPORT PROGRAMS FOR STUDENTS WITH ASPERGER’S SYNDROME: PROMISING PRACTICES

Topic Area: Autism Spectrum Disorder
Secondary Topic: Career Development/Transition
Format: Lecture

Increasing numbers of students with Asperger’s syndrome (AS) are entering institutions of higher education. Some colleges and support institutions have designed specific programs to meet their unique needs. This session will focus on the institutions and the support strategies that have been shown to be effective for students with AS while in college. (388)

CREATIVE STRATEGIES: IMPROVING EDUCATIONAL OUTCOMES FOR STUDENTS WITH CHRONIC ILLNESSES

Topic Area: Physical/Health/Multiple Disabilities
Secondary Topic: Administration/Supervision
Format: Lecture

The intention of special education law is to protect students with special needs, yet the paucity of policies designed to assist those with a chronic illness frequently yields inadequate solutions for these students. Consequently, creative strategies must be employed to level the playing field for students with chronic conditions. Presenters will share practical, creative solutions for school-related professionals to consider when planning for the unique educational needs of their students with chronic illnesses. (1804)

CYBERBULLYING: PREVENTING ONLINE BRUISING

Topic Area: Parent/Family/School Partnerships
Secondary Topic: Technology and Media
Format: Lecture

This session will help dispel myths pertaining to cyberbullying, sexting, texting, and other behaviors in the world of social media and technology. With many questions and misunderstandings on behalf of teachers, administrators, and parents pertaining to the victims and perpetrators of cyberbullying, this session will provide attendees with a clear understanding of the terminology, trends in behaviors, and tips on what can be done to address such behaviors that often target individuals with disabilities. Through data and stories collected, the presenters will educate attendees on the basics of cyberbullying and associated actions while providing guidelines for addressing such behaviors. (1329)

DAILY BEHAVIOR REPORT CARDS: AN EFFECTIVE INTERVENTION FOR THE MOST SIGNIFICANT BEHAVIORS

Topic Area: Emotional and Behavioral Disorders
Secondary Topic: Autism Spectrum Disorder
Format: Demonstration
Current behavior interventions are often difficult to implement and measure. These barriers create lack of staff buy-in and poor implementation fidelity. This session provides participants with a process for implementing an effective behavioral intervention that is minimally intrusive, yet results in significant behavioral change for students. (459)

GRADUATED UNDERSTANDINGS FOR INSTRUCTION OF STUDENTS WITH SIGNIFICANT DISABILITIES: MOVEMENT
TOWARD COMMON CORE STATE STANDARDS
Topic Area: Accessing the General Education Curriculum that is Aligned with State Standards
Secondary Topic: Instructional Design and Strategies
Format: Lecture
This session will discuss a new National Center and State Collaborative (NCSC) instructional resource. Information will be presented regarding developing instructional plans for students who participate in the AA-AAs with a wide range of abilities and challenges; designing multigrade instruction; and engaging in collaborative discussion and delivery of instruction. ONLINE ALTERNATE ASSESSMENT: WHAT ARE WE LEARNING? - PART 1
Topic Area: Accountability & Large Scale Assessments
Secondary Topic: Assessment
Format: Lecture
The Dynamic Learning Maps Alternate Assessment (DLM) is a General Supervision Enhancement Grant funded to build the next generation of Alternate Assessments based on Alternate Achievement Standards linked to Common Core Standards. Discussion topics include the Cognitive Lab process to gather information on how students with significant cognitive disabilities interacted with technology and test items in an online environment, results of an assessment usability study to determine how well students interacted with technology, findings and a video of students interacting with test items, lessons learned, and the next steps in the assessment of students with significant cognitive disabilities.

VOICES FROM BOTH SIDES OF THE TABLE:
SPECIAL EDUCATORS WITH DISABILITIES
TEACHING INDIVIDUALS WITH DISABILITIES

Topic Area: Physical/Health/Multiple Disabilities
Secondary Topic: Research

Format: Panel

This session will provide an opportunity for educators with disabilities to share their unique perspective of working with individuals with disabilities while managing their own challenges related to their disability. Attendees will hear an overview of research surrounding educators with disabilities, and participate in a Q&A session with the facilitators and an open Q&A session at the end for questions from the audience. The panel participants will share strategies that make them successful educators. Additionally, panelists will discuss how their disability supports their working with individuals with disabilities.

TEACHING NUMBER SENSE: ROLE OF COGNITIVE AND EXPLICIT INSTRUCTION

Topic Area: Instructional Design and Strategies
Secondary Topic: Research

Format: Lecture

This session describes how instruction in number sense enhanced the understanding of number relationships of kindergarten students from two schools in Connecticut. Presenters will share the research findings to support number sense instruction for these students, discuss the four big ideas of number sense, and identify instructional practices that best enhance this knowledge. USING DAILY BEHAVIOR RATING FORMS FOR STUDENTS IN NEED OF TIER 2 AND TIER 3 LEVEL SUPPORTS

Topic Area: Emotional and Behavioral Disorders
Secondary Topic: Research
Format: Lecture

Presenters will discuss the use of Daily Behavior Rating Cards (DBRs), which are a feasible, practical, and an accepted method of progress monitoring within Tier 2 and Tier 3 interventions and in EBD classrooms. Data from DBRs provide a consistent way to monitor progress and make data-based decisions about student performance. (792)

USING DIGITAL MEDIA WRITING ACROSS CONTENT AREAS TO ENGAGE STRUGGLING LEARNERS

Topic Area: Instructional Design and Strategies
Secondary Topic: Technology and Media
Format: Lecture

In this session, presenters will share findings from classroom implementation of a digital media writing project. Focus will be placed on key elements of using a digital media approach with students with disabilities and struggling learners. Strategies also will be presented for using this approach in teaching writing across content areas. (1029)

VIRTUAL FIELD TRIP TO WARHOL MUSEUM: PORTRAITURE FOR INTERPRETING EMOTIONS IN ADOLESCENTS WITH AUTISM SPECTRUM DISORDER

Topic Area: Arts in Special Education
Secondary Topic: Autism Spectrum Disorder
Format: Lecture

Students with ASD from two schools in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania and Derry, Northern Ireland used video conferencing to develop communication skills and expand their cultural awareness. These students studied Andy Warhol’s use of portraiture to focus on understanding emotions through art. The program culminated with the Pittsburgh students inviting their Irish friends to a virtual field trip to the museum using an iPad and video conferencing technologies. (906)

WHAT HAVE WE LEARNED ABOUT TEACHING STUDENTS WITH EMOTIONAL AND BEHAVIORAL DISABILITIES TO EXPRESS THEIR OPINIONS?

Topic Area: Emotional and Behavioral Disorders
Secondary Topic: Instructional Design and Strategies
Format: Lecture

Written expression involves complex abilities that remain challenging for students with emotional and behavioral disabilities. Instructional strategies reviewing 10 studies from a 5-year research project, including three new studies, will be presented that successfully improved written performance. Classroom implementation procedures for teaching writing to students will be provided. (1558)

VIDEO AND REFLECTION

Topic Area: Teacher Education
Moderator: Mary Dingle, Sonoma State University, Rohnert Park, CA

Increasing Preservice Teachers Use of Technological Tools to Enhance Instruction and Reflection

Reflective practice has demonstrated enhanced understanding of instructional strategy selection and self-efficacy in preservice teachers. Learn how the use of iMovies may further enhance preservice teachers’ reflective practice and instruction in general and special education classrooms. (410)

Leader(s): J. Elizabeth Casey, Huntingdon College, Montgomery, AL
Presenter(s): Paula Schubert, Limestone College, Gaffney, SC

Lessons Learned: Video Self-Reflection by Special Education Teachers in an Induction Program

This session examines how beginning special education teachers used video self-reflection to improve instructional routines and student outcomes during a beginning teacher induction program. Participants developed lesson plans, watched video recordings of instruction, and reflected on their practice coached by classroom instructors. Instructors and beginning teachers will share their experience. (1611)

Leader(s): Mary Dingle, Sonoma State University, Rohnert Park, CA
Presenter(s): Robin Olson, Sonoma State University, Rohnert Park, CA

Strengthening Teacher Language of Instruction: Coaching, Videotape, and Mixed-Reality

This session highlights a teacher training procedure focused on refining language of instruction to improve student learning and reduce classroom disruption. Through a structured program of coaching, field-based videotaping and feedback, and practice in a mixed-reality lab, trainers support teachers to refine instructional language aspects of general and specific praise, appropriate use of questions and mands, and use of higher order questions. Participants will learn about the components used to apply the program and the targeted aspects of language of instruction that promote effective instruction. (1464)

AN ANALYSIS OF THE RESEARCH TRENDS OF FAMILY INTERVENTIONS FOR STUDENTS WITH DISABILITIES IN KOREA

Topic Area: Parent/Family/School Partnerships

Secondary Topic: Collaboration and Inclusive Practices

Format: Poster Session

This session will share the results of a review of 112 studies on family interventions to improve outcomes for family and students with disabilities. These studies were divided into six categories: (a) published years and journals, (b) types of family programs, (c) effects of programs, (d) participants, (e) research methods, and (f) measurements used in each study. Implications for future studies and practices are discussed. (890)

CULTURALLY RELEVANT EDUCATION AND INTERNATIONAL SPECIAL EDUCATION: A REVIEW OF THE LITERATURE

Topic Area: Cultural and/or Linguistic Diversity

Secondary Topic: Teacher Education

Format: Poster Session

This session presents results of library research on the topic of culturally appropriate and differentiated instructional strategies for students with special needs on an international level. The literature review will examine the evidence of cultural influences on learning, intercultural differences in teacher and parental attitudes regarding developmental and educational expectations, and implications for special education. EXAMINING THE EFFICACY OF PRE-KINDERGARTEN TIER 2 VOCABULARY INTERVENTION

Topic Area: Early Childhood

Secondary Topic: Research

Format: Poster Session

This study examined the effects of Tier 2 intervention on vocabulary word learning of preschool children at risk for later reading difficulties. This session shares the results which indicated that children’s response to the intervention varied by child and the intervention success appeared to be moderated by the child actively responding to the lessons. FUNCTION-BASED INTERVENTIONS FOR STUDENTS WITH EBD: A META-ANALYSIS OF ACADEMIC AND BEHAVIORAL OUTCOMES

Topic Area: Emotional and Behavioral Disorders

Secondary Topic: Accountability & Large Scale Assessments

Format: Poster Session

There is a current interest in the research literature on evidence-based interventions to improve the behavioral and academic outcomes of students with EBD. Functional behavioral assessment provides a behavior analytic framework for implementing effective and efficient interventions. This session will provide the results of a meta-analysis of single-case studies examining the effectiveness of function-based interventions for students with EBD. Preliminary results will be shared and discussed. (2073)

TEACHING SUBTRACTION AND MULTIPLICATION WITH REGROUPING USING THE CRA INSTRUCTIONAL SEQUENCE

Topic Area: Instructional Design and Strategies
Secondary Topic: Research
Format: Poster Session

This session will describe a study that investigated the effects of the Concrete-Representational-Abstract (CRA) instructional sequence on students’ performance solving subtraction and multiplication problems with regrouping. The students received CRA instruction using base-10 manipulatives, drawings, and finally, numbers only. A functional relation was demonstrated between CRA instruction and regrouping performance. Results will be discussed. (997)

COMPARATIVE SELF-REPORTED READING STRATEGIES OF COLLEGE-AGE STUDENTS BY MAJORS AND DISABILITY

Topic Area: Instructional Design and Strategies
Secondary Topic: Research
Format: Lecture

Over 1,000 undergraduate students from the Midwest were surveyed using the Metacognitive Awareness of Reading Strategy Inventory (MARS-I). Comparative results of strategy use by student demographics included declared major, self-identified as having a reading disability, and grade point average. Preliminary results show that all students found similar strategies useful, however students with reading disabilities used the strategies with less frequency. (615)

CREATING THE CHANGE FROM WITHIN: TEACHING SELF-ADVOCACY IN SCHOOLS

Topic Area: Career Development/Transition
Secondary Topic: Developmental Disabilities
Format: Demonstration

Self-advocacy skills are vital prerequisites for inclusion while in school and for transitioning to life after school. Students who can be effective in communicating their own desires will be more able to stand up to bullying inside and outside of school, to direct their own services, participate and lead their own IEP meetings, and set their own goals for life after school. Presenters will share a newly developed Self-Advocacy Curriculum Guide filled with scope and sequences for teaching problem solving, self-directed learning, and self-management of problem behavior, and a student-centered planning process that results in a student-directed action plan. EVALUATING INCLUSIVE EDUCATION PRACTICES IN SCHOOLS RUN BY A UNITED NATIONS ORGANIZATION (UNRWA)

Topic Area: International Programs/Services
Secondary Topic: Collaboration and Inclusive Practices
Format: Lecture

As noted in the United Nations Relief and Works Agency’s Inclusive Education Policy, the adoption of inclusive education must be across all levels of education systems from the teachers to administrators and policy makers. This session will describe a multiple-case study research project which investigated current practices employed by teachers who are successfully including students with special needs as well as the barriers and challenges to inclusive education from the perspective of the teachers, the administrators, and students in UNRWA schools. Quality indicators for inclusive practices as aligned with UNRWA’s new Inclusive Education Reform policy will also be discussed. (2059)

MAKE AND TAKE: ADDRESSING THE ISSUE OF BULLYING - ONE BALLOON ANIMAL AT A TIME

Topic Area: Arts in Special Education
Secondary Topic: Developmental Disabilities
Format: Demonstration

With the ever increasing reports of children and youth resorting to suicide and other intense reactions to bullying, now is the time to act and aggressively promote anti-bullying campaigns in our schools. In response to this need, this session will showcase innovative ways to introduce anti-bullying lessons for a variety of grade levels. This make-and-take session will demonstrate how to effectively use balloon art to present anti-bullying lessons to all children, focusing on preventing bullying and understanding differences. (1551)

MAXIMIZE OUR POTENTIAL: PRINCIPALS AND SPECIAL EDUCATION ADMINISTRATORS STRONGER TOGETHER

Topic Area: Administration/Supervision
Secondary Topic: Collaboration and Inclusive Practices
Format: Lecture

Collaborative leadership is an essential element to the overall positive impact of education. This session will highlight extensions and promising practices in co-leadership and collaborative essentials in administration. Maximize Our Potential (MOP) strategies have continued to develop in administration training programs as an essential component to support positive and proactive educational practices. Learn how MOP will support the past evidence and continue to support future implications in practice and policy. (872)

THE ALTERNATE ASSESSMENT CONSORTIA FOR STUDENTS WITH SIGNIFICANT COGNITIVE DISABILITIES: PROGRESS TO DATE - PART 2

Secondary Topic: Assessment
Format: Lecture

Two General Supervision Enhancement Grant (GSEG) consortia were funded in 2010 to build Alternate Assessments based on Alternate Achievement Standards (AA-AAS) linked to the Common Core State Standards (CCSS). These consortia represent more than 32 states and territories and are the largest grants ever awarded for such work. Discussion topics include the collaboration to create common participation guidelines and its importance and the progress so far, the assessment experience that students will have when being assessed, and professional development that is being implemented to support teachers in both consortia. The session will conclude with a question and answer period.

RETHINKING INTELLIGENCE INCLUDING CREATIVE POSITIVES: FAMILY AND COMMUNITY ROLES IN NURTURING CREATIVELY GIFTED BLACK STUDENTS

Secondary Topic: Parent/Family/School Partnerships
Format: Panel

Creativity researchers challenge educators to reject deficit perspectives that hinder Black students’ enrollment in gifted programs. Identifying and nurturing creatively gifted students is part of the Black family and community culture, yet many educators fail to understand how to do this in schools. This session encourages educators to collaborate with family and communities of Black students and offers recommendations on how to view them through a lens of creative positives and to implement culturally responsive strategies.

USING TECHNOLOGY TO GO BEYOND BASIC MATH: A SPECIAL AND GENERAL EDUCATION COLLABORATION

Topic Area:  Learning Disabilities
Secondary Topic:  Technology and Media
Format:  Lecture
This session discusses the need for higher level mathematics instruction for all students including students with disabilities. Learn how one southern school district, through collaboration with special and mathematics educators, used computer-assisted instruction (CAI) to address this need. In addition to presenting empirical data demonstrating student performance before and after the CAI intervention, the presenters will also share procedural fidelity data as well as social validity data from key stakeholders. WE WEAR MANY HATS: THE TRAINING AND SUPPORT NEEDS OF PARAEDUCATORS

Topic Area:  Collaboration and Inclusive Practices
Secondary Topic:  Administration/Supervision
Format:  Panel
The processes of differentiating instruction, job role specialization, and increasing public school accountability have profound implications for teachers and their paraeducators. Paraeducators work under the supervision of licensed general and special education teachers to support students across age/grade levels and subjects. When training and staff development opportunities respond to the identified needs of paraeducators, quality instruction is more likely to occur. This panel session assembles instructional paraeducators from general and special education, along with a parent and school administrator, to share perspectives about how to enhance the work of paraeducators in schools. TOOLS FOR POSITIVE CLASSROOM MANAGEMENT OF PROBLEM BEHAVIORS

Topic Area:  Teacher Education
Secondary Topic:  Collaboration and Inclusive Practices
Format:  Lecture
Classroom management is one of the most important components in school discipline and education; however, it is also one of the most complex issues for teachers. Findings from a study on the effect of behavior training and feedback to teachers will be presented. Primary and secondary teachers participated in two single-subject multiple-baseline studies providing training and feedback for 4 weeks on avoiding coercion, positive reinforcement, and pivoting unwanted behaviors. Attendees will learn the key elements from the training to implement them in their own classrooms. (1369)

Topic Area: Arts in Special Education
Secondary Topic: Parent/Family/School Partnerships
Format: Poster Session
This session shares the results of a study on student influence on academic engagement through participation in a school inclusive art program. Students with disabilities and/or at risk for academic failure participated in a school art program and a gallery walk at the local university. Parents and students were interviewed to address how the program affected student engagement in learning, what value students found in their art experiences, and how parents perceived art engagement influence on learning. EDUCATIONAL INTERVENTIONS IN MEXICO WITH CHILDREN WITH AUTISM SPECTRUM DISORDERS IN INCLUSIVE SETTINGS

Topic Area: International Programs/Services
Secondary Topic: Response to Intervention
Format: Lecture

The presenters in this session discuss some of the challenges experienced by children with autism who are in inclusive classroom settings in Mexico. They will also share some important advances that can be made for these children when the classroom teacher applies educational strategies that result in effective learning.

EFFECTS OF GRAPHIC AND ELECTRONIC TEXT ON PERFORMANCE OF STUDENTS WITH READING DISABILITIES

Topic Area: Instructional Design and Strategies
Secondary Topic: Learning Disabilities
Format: Lecture

This session shares the results of seven, single-subject studies that compared the performance of adolescents with LD and ASD on graphic, electronic (Kindle), and standard texts. Alternating treatment designs with measures of comprehension, vocabulary, and reading fluency reflect differential gains in comprehension and vocabulary related to students’ reading abilities. Implications for practice will be discussed. (454)

ELECTRONIC FEEDBACK OR HANDWRITTEN FEEDBACK: WHAT DO UNDERGRADUATE STUDENTS PREFER AND WHY?

Topic Area: Technology and Media
Secondary Topic: Teacher Education
Format: Lecture

Students in teacher preparation programs interact in various ways with instructors and peers. Most, if not all, universities utilize electronic course management programs and as such, students and professors alike, must integrate electronic ability into their communication repertoire. This session will look at preferences from the student point of view. Presenters will look at what teacher candidates prefer and why, as well as how to integrate current technology solutions into feedback procedures for optimum accessibility and quality. (1453)

ESSENTIALS FOR POSTSECONDARY EDUCATION SUCCESS FOR STUDENTS WITH LEARNING DISABILITIES: INDIANA’S PERCEPTIONS

Topic Area: Career Development/Transition
Secondary Topic: Research
Format: Lecture

This session shares the findings of a study that investigated essential skills needed for postsecondary education success for students with learning disabilities in Indiana. The focus of the study was to determine the differences between secondary and Institution of Higher Education providers’ perceptions of the skills needed for student success in academic, social, self-determination/advocacy, and emotional readiness for education after high school. FATHERS PERCEPTIONS OF DISABILITY, SPECIAL EDUCATION, AND INFORMATION: WHAT CAN WE LEARN?

Topic Area: Parent/Family/School Partnerships
Secondary Topic: Research
Format: Lecture

This session will share the perceptions of fathers whose children have high incidence disabilities. Presenters will focus on their initial and present views of disability and special education, but specifically on the information they receive. From the findings, special educators and other interested stakeholders will gain insights into how best to help fathers and families. (1511)

SUSTAINING IMPLEMENTATION OF EVIDENCE-BASED PRACTICES THROUGH COACHING

Topic Area: Research
Secondary Topic: Collaboration and Inclusive Practices
Format: Lecture

Implementation of evidence-based practices is critical to effective teaching, yet there is an implementation gap. One solution for closing this gap has been to provide professional development as coaching. This session will share the current findings and suggest a coaching framework to lessen the gap and support improved student outcomes. (1448)

SWPBIS IN URBAN ELEMENTARY SCHOOLS: EXAMINING THE TIERS DISTRIBUTIONS BY ETHNICITY

Topic Area: Cultural and/or Linguistic Diversity
Secondary Topic: Collaboration and Inclusive Practices
Format: Lecture

Urban elementary schools in one of the most diverse schools districts are implementing SWPBIS with positive results. Based on Office Discipline Referrals rates, the three tiers of risk were evaluated and overall population results were broken down by ethnicity in each school. This session combines data with these current topics around overrepresentation and ethnicity to discuss where we should go from here. Recommendations for future research are discussed. (343)

WHAT SPECIAL EDUCATORS NEED TO KNOW TO TEACH MATHEMATICS TO COMMON CORE
Topic Area: Accessing the General Education Curriculum that is Aligned with State Standards
Secondary Topic: Collaboration and Inclusive Practices
Format: Lecture
The Common Core Standards in Mathematics, among other things, require students to demonstrate an understanding of mathematical principles that underlie arithmetic computation. This session will explain what that means and what special educators need to know in order to teach these ideas and principles to their students.

DISABILITY AWARENESS PROGRAM FOR TYPICALLY DEVELOPING YOUNG CHILDREN IN KOREA

Topic Area: International Programs/Services
Secondary Topic: Early Childhood
Format: Poster Session

Inclusion is not a one-sided story. Given that positive peer attitudes, social acceptance, and social interaction are key to a child’s well-being and quality of life, it is important to understand how attitudes of children without disabilities toward their peers with disabilities can be improved. This session describes a disability awareness education program that was implemented with over 40 kindergarten children without disabilities. After the program implementation, children’s attitudes became more positive toward their peers with disabilities in terms of their psychological and behavioral attitudes. (1283)

ORAL LANGUAGE DEVELOPMENT OF TYPICALLY DEVELOPING PEERS WITHIN A REVERSE MAINSTREAM SETTING

Secondary Topic: Autism Spectrum Disorder
Format: Poster Session

This session will share the findings of a study that, using two types of assessment, compared the oral language of typically developing preschoolers within two classroom settings: traditional and reverse mainstream. Results showed that students in the reverse mainstream classroom specifically designed for children with autism had overall higher levels of oral language development. (476)

THE EFFECTS OF SCHOOLWIDE POSITIVE BEHAVIOR SUPPORTS ON THE SOCIAL COMPETENCE OF STUDENTS WITH DISABILITIES

Topic Area: Research
Secondary Topic: Accountability & Large Scale Assessments
Format: Poster Session
The session will identify significant differences in teachers' perceptions of the effects of Schoolwide Positive Behavior Support (SWPBS) on the social competence of students with mild disabilities. Data were based on different levels of implementation of SWPBS (demonstration, implementing, and non-implementing). The three constructs (peer relations, self-management/compliance, and academic behavior) of social competence were also examined. Results will be shared and discussed. (1627)

USING WEB PAGES WITH SUPPORT TO INCREASE READING COMPREHENSION

Topic Area: Learning Disabilities
Secondary Topic: Technology and Media
Format: Poster Session

Many students with LD struggle with reading comprehension of narrative text. Often story grammar can assist readers with LD to comprehend. This session shares the results of a single-subject study that examined the effects of nine students with LD and their comprehension when story grammar supports were used on the computer. The growth in comprehension test scores for some of the students pointed to the ability of the individual attention of the computer to assist with overall comprehension growth for some students, as can be seen in previous literature. Societal and Emotional Challenges of Hispanic Immigrant Mothers of Children With Disabilities

This study explores some of the societal and emotional challenges faced by monolingual immigrant Hispanic mothers in their roles as primary caregivers of a child with disabilities within a voluntary minority and an orthogonal cultural identification theoretical framework. This session will familiarize participants with the complexities of parenting a child with disabilities while being an immigrant so that these can be addressed when services are provided to immigrant families. Implications for service providers are discussed. (1332)

LEARNERS WITH DEAF-BLINDNESS: ACCESSING COMMON CORE STANDARDS VIA TARGETED WEB-BASED RESOURCES

Topic Area: Accessing the General Education Curriculum that is Aligned with State Standards
Secondary Topic: Communicative Disabilities and Deafness

Format: Demonstration
This session will highlight strategies and resources available on the “All Children Can Read” web site and demonstrate how it has been used to facilitate a holistic approach to instructional planning. Opportunity will be provided to discuss connections to the broader curriculum and to develop grade-level standards-based learning activities. (1702)

CELEBRATING THE CONTRIBUTIONS OF DR. MARY RUTH COLEMAN: CHAMPION FOR THE EDUCATION OF UNDERREPRESENTED STUDENTS WITH GIFTS AND TALENTS

Topic Area: Pioneers/Historical Perspectives
Secondary Topic: Gifted and Talented

Format: Panel
Dr. Mary Ruth Coleman began her career as a teacher. Throughout her career as a senior scientist, researcher, and teacher educator, she has never forgotten the importance of the teacher and the child’s family in the overall development of children and youth. This showcase will highlight her many contributions regarding early childhood, gifted, and special education.

CO-LOCATING DAY TREATMENT SERVICES WITHIN PUBLIC SCHOOLS AND DISTRICT FACILITIES

Topic Area: Special Education Schools
Secondary Topic: Collaboration and Inclusive Practices
Format: Lecture

Schools and districts are being faced with the mantra of “do more with less.” Students that need high levels of care often find their way to day treatment and facility school programs. Districts struggle with the transportation, tuition, and therapy costs of these programs and the limitations related to LRE, nondisabled peers, and transitioning students back to district based programming. This session will discuss co-locating programs within districts and schools and will review programs and models including their benefits and challenges. (1893)

EFFECTIVE PROGRAMMING FOR SECONDARY STUDENTS WITH HIGH-FUNCTIONING AUTISM IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Topic Area: Autism Spectrum Disorder
Secondary Topic: Collaboration and Inclusive Practices
Format: Demonstration

According to CDC data, there may be 6-8 students with high-functioning autism in a typical high school of 1,200 students. By providing services to address these students’ unique needs in the areas of social skills and executive functioning, they can be socially and academically successful and prepared for transition to adulthood. This session will share the development and implementation of a successful secondary program for students with autism in a large metropolitan school district. In its seventh year, this program has grown from providing services for 12 students to more than 150 students. Specific strategies for implementation will be shared. (1162)

CONQUER TIMES TABLES IN ONLY THREE WEEKS—GUARANTEED!

Rhymes “n” Times is a research-based, multisensory program to teach the times tables in only 3 weeks—guaranteed! If the class average isn’t 90% or above on the final test, you get a 100% refund. This program addresses all four learning styles and teaches all students in general, special, and gifted classrooms. RTI optimized.

Leader(s): Anita Turner, Rhymes “n” Times, Baton Rouge, LA

EXHIBITOR SHOWCASE SESSION

FAST TRACK STUDENTS TO FLUENCY

Many students Grade 3 and above cannot decode multisyllabic words. Practice a 5-minute, four-step technique to teach this essential skill by recognizing patterns, identifying sounds, and applying syllable division rules. Reading multisyllabic words is a persistent issue for most struggling readers. A typical approach includes teaching students to tackle unfamiliar words by dividing the word into syllables to more accurately pronounce the chunks. The presenter will demonstrate an interactive approach to quick analysis of the syllables using gestures, and then moving to extracting meaning from each part.

Leader(s): Gaye Heath, 95% Group, Lincolnshire, IL

PAES: DATA-DRIVEN, RESEARCH-BASED, CURRICULUM-EMBEDDED ASSESSMENT OF EMPLOYMENT POTENTIAL

The PAES - Practical Assessment Exploration System allows students to demonstrate their employment potential through a hands-on performance-based approach within a simulated work environment. Choose from 264 jobs: Business/Marketing, Computer Technology, Construction/Industrial, Processing/Production, Consumer Service. We can never really know what students can do until we give them a chance to try!

Leader(s): Judith Swisher, Author of PAES, Shawnee, KS

PLEASE READ IT ONCE AGAIN!

This session will demonstrate to preschool professionals how repetition combined with literature stimulates language development and cognitive learning for preschool children. Participants will learn to use literature combined with student objectives to facilitate growth in the domains of language, cognitive, social, adaptive, and motor development.

Evaluating the impact of high interest low readability texts on students in an alternative education setting

Topic Area: Instructional Design and Strategies
Secondary Topic: Research
Format: Poster Session
An important first step in building students’ motivation for reading and their engagement with texts is to incorporate appropriate texts into reading instruction. Appropriate texts for adolescents with disabilities are written on a level commensurate with students’ reading abilities, match adolescents’ interests, and are diverse. This session will describe results of a study evaluating the impact of guided reading instruction utilizing high interest low readability texts on the reading achievement, motivation for reading, and behavior of adolescent readers in an alternative education setting for students with behavioral difficulties. HARNESSING THE POWER OF TECHNOLOGY: INCREASING ACADEMIC ENGAGEMENT OF STUDENTS WITH LD

Topic Area: Learning Disabilities
Secondary Topic: Instructional Design and Strategies
Format: Poster Session
In an era of increased accountability for student achievement, teachers are pressured to reduce students’ behaviors that divert classroom time from instruction and limit time students spend academically engaged. Strategies to minimize off-task behavior that don’t require additional behavior management systems and result in increases in students’ overall engagement in the curriculum are important tools for increasing students’ outcomes. Learn how embedding the use of computers and handheld technological devices in the curriculum can increase the on-task behavior and academic engagement of students with disabilities in general and special education settings. IMPROVING THE PROBLEM-SOLVING PERFORMANCE OF THIRD-GRADE STUDENTS WITH MATHEMATICS DIFFICULTIES

Topic Area: Instructional Design and Strategies
Secondary Topic: Research
Format: Poster Session
In this session, the presenters will highlight a study that compared the effects of delivering a supplemental, small-group tutoring intervention on the mathematics outcomes of third-grade students at risk for mathematics difficulties. They were randomly assigned to either a schema-based instruction or control group. Implications for practice are discussed. (451)

INTERRELATIONS OF LANGUAGE AND BEHAVIOR: STUDENT AND TEACHER ANALYSES
Topic Area: Communicative Disabilities and Deafness
Secondary Topic: Emotional and Behavioral Disorders
Format: Poster Session
Presenters will discuss three descriptive studies of children with emotional and behavioral disorders and their teachers. Results include prevalence, severity, and profiles of children’s language impairment in relation to student behavior and teachers’ use of language in the classroom. Discussion includes implications for improving communication and decreasing negative interactions. (1507)

LOOKING AT A NEW PRESERVICE TEACHER TRAINING PROGRAM: THE INTERVENTION SPECIALIST
Topic Area: Teacher Education
Secondary Topic: Strategies for Entry to the Special Education Career
Format: Poster Session
In an effort to prepare special education professionals for their role in RTI, the special education faculty at one university has developed an innovative program, the Intervention Specialist. The design of the program is aligned to state standards, CEC standards, and IRA standards including knowledge of empirically validated instructional practices, assessment, instructional decision making, collaboration, and the use of technology. Learn about this new program which will train preservice teachers in practices to promote the teaching of individuals with or at-risk for disabilities, and those with reading and math difficulties. IMPROVING VOCABULARY SKILLS OF KINDERGARTEN STUDENTS THROUGH A RESPONSE TO INTERVENTION INSTRUCTIONAL APPROACH

Topic Area: Instructional Design and Strategies
Secondary Topic: Learning Disabilities
Format: Lecture

There is a growing need for explicit vocabulary instruction in the elementary classrooms. Young children are entering school with a wide range of early literacy experiences, including vocabulary knowledge. Students who are deficient in vocabulary knowledge are more at risk for later language and reading difficulties. Teachers should use principles of effective instruction when teaching vocabulary, especially to their at-risk students. This session will describe the Early Vocabulary Intervention program, which has been developed as part of an IES funded Goal 3 project. Learn how this program directs instruction and intervention to kindergartners who may be at risk for reading disabilities.

UNDERSTANDING IMPLEMENTATION FIDELITY IN THE CONTEXT OF CHANGING EARLY CHILDHOOD TEACHERS TEACHING

Topic Area: Early Childhood
Secondary Topic: Research
Format: Lecture

Implementation of an educational innovation, such as a new curriculum, requires changes in an early educator’s current instructional practices, some small and some substantial. Even small changes can impact implementation. This session will focus on the use of a logic model for supporting teacher implementation fidelity of a new curricular model. (1267)

UNIVERSAL DESIGN, SELF-ADVOCACY, AND SELF-MONITORING: EXPANDING TOOLKITS FOR POSTSECONDARY SUCCESS

Topic Area: Career Development/Transition
Secondary Topic: Instructional Design and Strategies
Format: Lecture

How can we better prepare for the success of college-bound individuals with disabilities? This session will address the principles of Universal Design as it may be implemented in a college classroom, and will suggest how self-advocating and self-monitoring can influence college performance. (672)

BEHAVIOR AND CLASS MANAGEMENT

Topic Area: Teacher Education

Moderator: Diane Myers, Assumption College, Worcester, MA

Preparing and Supporting Special Educators Who Teach Students With Behavioral Disorders

This session explores content and competencies that should be included in a preparation program for teachers of students with behavioral disorders (BD). These preparation programs need to include coursework and fieldwork experiences that reflect the specialized teaching and behavior management strategies needed to implement successful instructional and behavioral supports in the classroom. The presenters will discuss issues facing teachers and share ideas on how to recruit and retain them. (1011)

Leader(s): Diane Myers, Assumption College, Worcester, MA

Using Locally Produced Video to Improve Classroom Management Skills

This session shares the findings of an examination of the effects of two professional development (PD) programs, video-plus-coaching and traditional PD, on teacher’s classroom management practices. Both programs addressed opportunities to respond, precorrections/instructional prompts, and general and behavior-specific praise statements. Results will be discussed. (1941)

Using Tele-Coaching to Support Tier 1 and Tier 2 Interventions

Students with behavioral issues often demonstrate a need for consistent supports if they are to access and make progress in the general education curriculum. Evidence-based supports include assistance in sustaining academic engagement (Tier 1) and the systematic delivery of feedback during instruction (Tier 2). Tele-Coaching, (coaching and conveying instant feedback to students, remotely and covertly with iPads), delivers supports in classroom settings more rapidly, effectively, and efficiently than the widely used paraprofessional-assistance model. Results from this IES-funded study suggest that Tele-Coaching supports students’ increased academic performance in classroom settings. (1110)

AN EVALUATION OF SPECIAL EDUCATION DOCTORAL WEB SITES: A FOUR-YEAR QUALITATIVE INVESTIGATION

Topic Area: Administration/Supervision
Secondary Topic: Research
Format: Poster Session
This session shares the results of a survey requesting graduate students to review U.S. special education doctoral programs. Qualitative components were analyzed using thematic analysis including data reduction, display, and conclusion-drawing. The strongest over-arching themes were navigation and design, however, aesthetics, program/class information, faculty, and photos were also important to students. Results will be discussed. (2042)

BIBLIOTHERAPY AS AN INTERVENTION FOR PHYSICALLY AGGRESSIVE ELEMENTARY-AGED STUDENTS

Topic Area: Emotional and Behavioral Disorders
Secondary Topic: Special Education Schools
Format: Poster Session
Students with physically aggressive behavior benefit from psychoeducational and therapeutic interventions. Bibliotherapy incorporates both and was found to be effective for elementary-aged students with emotional disturbance served in a residential treatment center. Results of this study, the steps used in implementation, and the books read will be presented. (828)

AUGMENTED REALITY LEARNING ENVIRONMENTS: A STUDY OF EDUCATORS’ UNDERSTANDING OF EVIDENCED-BASED LITERACY PRACTICES

Topic Area: Teacher Education
Secondary Topic: Technology and Media
Format: Poster Session
This session shares results of an exploratory study of preservice and inservice teachers’ experiences in augmented-reality learning environments. Teacher-participants are provided semi-immersive experiences with virtual students while delivering evidenced-based literacy instruction. Results from survey data and semistructured interviews are presented. Further instructional implications for utilizing these technologies are explored in teacher preparation. (1258)

EVALUATING THE EVALUATION: A LONGITUDINAL STUDY OF ASSESSMENT PRACTICES

Topic Area: Assessment
Secondary Topic: Collaboration and Inclusive Practices
Format: Poster Session

The diagnostician’s report should be more than a source of documentation of eligibility. It is the responsibility of the local school assessment professional to disseminate the data in a form that is accurate, reflective of a focus upon student performance, and that offers guidelines for instructional intervention. The compelling issue guiding this longitudinal qualitative case study was: How does the diagnostic report guide classroom instruction? Benefits of improved dissemination of assessment data strategies for classroom teachers of students with disabilities are discussed. (237)

IMPROVING THE PROBLEM-SOLVING PERFORMANCE OF STUDENTS WITH LD IN FIFTH AND SIXTH GRADES

Topic Area: Learning Disabilities
Secondary Topic: Accessing the General Education Curriculum that is Aligned with State Standards
Format: Poster Session

This study examined the effectiveness of modifications to the existing math problem-solving intervention Solve It!. Content, duration, and explicitness of instruction was modified from the original intervention designed for seventh- to 12 grade students in order to improve the performance of students with learning disabilities in fifth and sixth grades. Three replications of a multiple baselines across participants single-subject design were conducted to determine students’ responses to instruction. Results from the three studies and instructional implications are discussed. (1621)

TEACHERS AT RISK: MULTI-TIER SUPPORTS AND STRATEGIES FOR TEACHERS

Topic Area: Emotional and Behavioral Disorders
Secondary Topic: Research
Format: Poster Session

Fifty percent of special education teachers leave the profession in the first 3 years. We must consider the efficacy of existing models that support teachers to implement best practices in classroom management to support effective instruction. This session describes a primary, secondary, and tertiary prevention model to support teachers at risk.

WHAT IS ELECTRONIC MENTORING AND HOW CAN WE UTILIZE IT IN SPECIAL EDUCATION?

Topic Area: Teacher Education

Secondary Topic: Strategies for Entry to the Special Education Career

Format: Poster Session

Teacher attrition is the major contributing factor to the inadequate supply of special education teachers with estimates of 30% leaving within their first 3 years and 50% leaving within 5 years. Schools have responded by providing mentoring and induction programs, but the attrition has remained high. This session will include a literature review of electronic mentoring, descriptions of existing programs, and its uses and outcomes. Attendees will learn how to make informed decisions about electronic mentoring and other support practices within the context of teacher professional development. (1371)

A FORUM ON AUTISM: MEDICAL AND EDUCATIONAL MANAGEMENT OF CHALLENGING BEHAVIOR

Topic Area: Autism Spectrum Disorder

Secondary Topic: Emotional and Behavioral Disorders

Format: Panel

Teaching students with autism is difficult, particularly if they present with externalizing behaviors such as tantrums and aggression, or internalizing issues such as anxiety, perfectionism, and cognitive rigidity. Such maladaptive behavior can impede learning and limit access to integrated settings. This session will focus on recommended intervention approaches including strategies based in applied behavior analysis, and sometimes, psychotropic medication. Presenters will discuss the importance for school personnel to understand the rationale and complementary relationship between these intervention models, and to respond in ways that assure positive student outcomes.

Using Proloquo2Go to Teach Transition Behaviors to Young Children With Autism

This session highlights Proloquo2Go as a technology tool to teach young children with autism. A case study will be presented in which a multiple baseline design across transitions was implemented to determine the best type of visual schedule to increase independence during transitions for a young girl with autism. In a comparison of low-tech and high-tech visual schedules the researchers found that both increased independence during transitions, however, the use of a high-tech visual schedule resulted in the greatest increase in independence of transition behaviors across three daily transitions. The high-tech visual schedule also had a higher social validity. (1707)

EVIDENCE-BASED PRACTICES IN SPECIAL EDUCATION: WHERE DO WE GO FROM HERE?

Topic Area: Research

Secondary Topic: Technology and Media

Format: Lecture

The logic is simple: If teachers regularly adopt the most effective practices, student outcomes will improve. However, there is little evidence of EBPs being implemented regularly or resulting in improved outcomes. Practitioners need real-time supports about how to implement and adapt identified EBPs in their classrooms. This session provides educators with an overview of issues related to the implementation of EBPs and information about the development of an online system to support them.

WORKING WELL WITH PARENTS TO SUPPORT STUDENT LEARNING

Topic Area: Public Policy
Secondary Topic: Teacher Education
Format: Panel
The principal focus of this session will be on providing special educators with strategies they can use to work effectively with parents in the development of students’ IEPs/IFSPs. The presenter will share information about approaches to collaborative problem solving and how best to positively engage with parents.
Leader(s): Larry Wexler, Office of Special Education Programs, U.S. Department of Education, Washington, DC

SYSTEMATIC PLANNING AND INSTRUCTION FOR TRANSITIONS OF STUDENTS WITH ASD

Topic Area: Autism Spectrum Disorder
Secondary Topic: Collaboration and Inclusive Practices
Format: Lecture
Systematic planning and instruction for transitions of students with autism and related disabilities provides a continuity of educational services and maximizes successful student outcomes. Participants will learn how systematic transition plans were developed, implemented, and assessed in a variety of settings for elementary, middle, and high school students with ASD.

THE EFFECTS OF CHECK-IN CHECK-OUT ON AFRICAN AMERICAN MALES IN AN URBAN SECONDARY SETTING
Topic Area: Emotional and Behavioral Disorders
Secondary Topic: Cultural and/or Linguistic Diversity
Format: Lecture
This session highlights The Check-in Check-out mentoring program, which has been found to be effective in decreasing students’ disruptive behavior and increasing academic achievement. This research-based intervention provides support for students who are at risk of dropping out. Results indicated that participants were able to increase accurate completion of the checklist and two out of three participants showed an increase in class grades. All of the participants had significant decreases in school disciplinary actions. (1425)
Leader(s): Ozalle Toms, University of Wisconsin, Whitewater, WI

3:45-4:45 p.m. | Room 008A | Session: 710
THE FUTURE OF STUDENT INSTRUCTION: MIXED-REALITY AND INNOVATIVE TECHNOLOGY FOR TEACHERS
Topic Area: Technology and Media
Secondary Topic: Instructional Design and Strategies
Format: Lecture
Innovative technology can help students with disabilities learn hard skills (content), soft skills (social competence), and practical skills (finding employment). Presenters will share research on mixed-reality and other technologies in the classroom. Participants will leave this session with practical strategies for today’s classroom and ideas for teaching tomorrow’s students. (1047)
Leader(s): Zachary Walker, University of Central Florida, Orlando, FL
Presenter(s): Don McMahon, University of Tennessee, Knoxville, TN

3:45-4:45 p.m. | Room 217B | Session: 711
THE PERFECT PERSON: AN EXERCISE IN DIVERSITY
Topic Area: Collaboration and Inclusive Practices
Secondary Topic: Public Policy
Format: Demonstration
In this interactive session, participants will explore their feelings, biases, and values related to issues of diversity, including race, religion, and disability. In addition, they will examine societal mores, the way we are socialized to stereotype and generalize, and personal responsibility regarding social change. (368)
Leader(s): Rea Kirk, University of Wisconsin, Platteville, WI

3:45-4:45 p.m. | Room 215 | Session: 712
TRANSITION MATTERS: POSTSECONDARY TOOLS FOR INDIVIDUALS WITH AUTISM
Topic Area: Career Development/Transition
Secondary Topic: Autism Spectrum Disorder
Format: Lecture
This interactive and informative session will be offered through the unique perspective of a professional diagnosed with Asperger’s syndrome. The presenter will discuss a variety of strategies and resources that parents and professionals can use to prepare students with Asperger’s syndrome/Autism for postsecondary education, employment, and independent living. The participants will also be provided with information about successful program models from around the country. (1544)

UNIVERSAL DESIGN FOR CLASSROOM MANAGEMENT: BEHAVIOR AND CLASSROOM MANAGEMENT FOR ALL STUDENTS

Topic Area: Cultural and/or Linguistic Diversity
Secondary Topic: Instructional Design and Strategies
Format: Demonstration

Many behavior and classroom management plans in today's schools are based on behaviorist theories and strategies, which generally incorporate a one-size-fits-all traditional hierarchy of rules, consequences, and rewards. With the increasing number of diverse students entering the classroom, teachers and administrators need to implement a Universal Design for Classroom Management to meet the behavior needs of all students. Participants in this session will learn how to develop and implement a Universal Design for Classroom Management for all children in their classrooms. (1716)

WHAT EVERY ASPIRING SPECIAL EDUCATION LEADER NEEDS TO KNOW

Topic Area: Administration/Supervision
Secondary Topic: Administration/Supervision
Format: Panel

Are you interested in learning about what it takes to be an effective special education teacher leader or administrator? Learn about the exciting career paths open to effective leaders, how to enhance your leadership skills, and the diverse roles and responsibilities that challenge and reward strong leaders in special education. WHAT COLLEGE STUDENTS WITH ASD ARE SAYING ABOUT THEIR CAREER PREPARATION

Topic Area: Career Development/Transition
Secondary Topic: Autism Spectrum Disorder
Format: Lecture

This session will describe the results of in-depth structured interviews conducted with 18 college students with autism attending 2- and 4-year colleges and universities in Virginia. Session participants will learn about their career preparation as they transitioned from high school into college, and their experiences in college. Information will be shared on their college majors, information and resources they identified as important to assist them in their career planning, and their overall experience in higher education. WHEN STUDENTS ARE DYING: PROVIDING SUPPORT IN EDUCATIONAL ENVIRONMENTS

Topic Area: Physical/Health/Multiple Disabilities

Secondary Topic: Developmental Disabilities

Format: Lecture

This session provides the results of a research study that examined the type of support teachers received when working with students with terminal illnesses or when they have experienced a student death. Children’s concept of death will be addressed as well as ways teachers can support students and themselves. (1227)

MINORITY REPRESENTATION IN SPECIAL EDUCATION

Topic Area: Cultural and/or Linguistic Diversity

Discussant: Lisa Vernon-Dotson, Coastal Carolina University, Conway, SC

Minority Representation in Special Education: Five-Year Trends

What is the current status and trend of minority representation in special education? This session provides a national picture based on 5 years of data published by the federal government. Comparisons with the representation rate 10 years ago revealed some persistent problems and a few positive changes. (742)

Leader(s): Dalun Zhang, Texas A&M University, College Station, TX

Presenter(s): Antonis Katsiyannis, Clemson University, Clemson, SC; Song Ju, Texas A&M University, College Station, TX; Eric Roberts, Texas A&M University, College Station, TX

Perspectives of Special Educators on Disproportionate Representation

Disproportionate representation is a longstanding problem in the field of special education, specifically with American Indian and African American learners who receive special education and related services for SLD and ED. For the past 50 years, the major focus of disproportionate representation has targeted race; a limited number of studies have focused on the multifaceted aspect of culture. This session will present data collected on the perspectives of special educators on disproportionate representation. (1772)

Leader(s): Troy Gonzales, Saint Mary’s University of Minnesota, Minneapolis, MN

Racial Bias in Disability Classification and Placement: Categorical Inequality in School Organizations

This session is an examination of racial bias in disability categorization from an organizational sociology perspective. Drawing on a dataset from an urban district under a desegregation order, panel regression models are used to test changes in likelihood of specific disability categorizations for different racial/ethnic groups under conditions of segregation, desegregation, and resegregation. Results will be shared and discussed. (1645)

RESEARCH IN QATAR: RISK FACTORS AND OUTCOMES, ACCESSIBLE MATERIALS FOR VISUAL IMPAIRMENTS

Topic Area: International Programs/Services

Moderator: Clayton Keller, Qatar University, Doha

Reviewing Accessibility for Students Who Are Visually Impaired or Blind at Qatar University

Understanding accessibility and use of technology for students who are visually impaired and blind at Qatar University is important for educators and administrators. Access to technology plays a vital role in enhancing access to their learning and education; however, there is very little information about how these students use technology in their academic work. This session will review the literature and share best practices to benefit all students with disabilities. (811)

Leader(s): Batoul Khalifa, Qatar University, Doha

Risk Factors and Educational Outcomes in an Arab Country: An Exploratory Study

The lives of children at risk contain factors that can negatively affect school adjustment. Although widely studied in the West, little research has occurred in the Arab world. This session will describe the relationships between risk factors and educational outcomes for a sample of over 2,000 elementary school students in Qatar. (1284)

ADDRESSING MINORITY OVERREPRESENTATION IN SPECIAL EDUCATION THROUGH RESPONSE TO INTERVENTION

Topic Area: Cultural and/or Linguistic Diversity

Secondary Topic: Public Policy

Format: Poster Session

Response to Intervention (RTI) is being implemented to address the overrepresentation of minorities in special education. Liberation theory justifies the adoption of RTI implementation to address inequity in public education. This session is designed to enhance the conversations that teacher educators have with preservice teachers, as well as to share preliminary research on the attitudes and beliefs of preservice teachers regarding equity issues and the use of RTI to address social injustice in public schools. CASE-BASED INSTRUCTION IN TEACHER EDUCATION PROMOTING EFFECTIVE EDUCATIONAL PRACTICES FOR DIVERSE LEARNERS

Topic Area: Teacher Education

Secondary Topic: Cultural and/or Linguistic Diversity

Format: Poster Session

This session shares the findings of a research study that examined the effectiveness of using case studies of diverse student populations in teacher education. Presenters will discuss whether teacher education candidates who systematically learn to analyze complex case studies about diverse student populations improve their knowledge and decision-making skills to enhance the educational environment. (1913)

CLASSROOM PRACTICES AND BELIEFS: GENERAL EDUCATORS AND STUDENTS WITH ED

Topic Area: Emotional and Behavioral Disorders
Secondary Topic: Teacher Education
Format: Poster Session

An increasing number of general education teachers are supporting students with emotional disturbance (ED). This session presents findings from direct observation and survey data that describe general education teachers’ management and instructional practices with this population of students as well as how their beliefs align to their observed classroom behaviors. EFFECTIVE FACTORS ON LINK PROGRAMS BETWEEN SPECIAL AND GENERAL EDUCATION SCHOOLS IN SOUTH KOREA

Topic Area: International Programs/Services
Secondary Topic: International Programs/Services
Format: Poster Session

This session shares the findings of a study that examined the effective factors of inclusive education for students with intellectual disabilities in Korea. Results were based on special school teachers’ perspectives. Even though a number of students with disabilities are attending special education schools (i.e., only for students with disabilities), the government encourages cooperative teaching with general education school teachers. Presenters will describe the link program as a means of cooperative teaching. (2206)

EFFECTS OF CAI ON SOCIAL STUDIES FOR STUDENTS WITH AUTISM

Topic Area: Accessing the General Education Curriculum that is Aligned with State Standards
Secondary Topic: Research
Format: Poster Session

Computer-assisted instruction (CAI) has demonstrated effectiveness in providing instruction for students with autism spectrum disorder. In this study, a single-case multiple probe across participants design was used to examine the effect of using CAI with explicit instruction to teach social studies concepts. Performance data as well as implications for practice and suggestions for future research will be discussed. (1238)

MEASURING SOCIAL VALIDITY: PARENT AND TEACHER RATINGS OF THE PASA-SCIENCE

Topic Area: Research
Secondary Topic: Research
Format: Poster Session
Parents and special education teachers of students with significant cognitive disabilities (SWSCD) were asked to rate the level of importance of individual science assessment skills taken from the PASA-Science. A total of 1,205 parents and 1,709 special education teachers completed and returned the science skill ratings surveys. Parent and special education teacher responses were summarized for nature of science, biological science, physical science, and earth and space science. Results will be shared. (1385)

MISSING MOTHER GOOSE: WHY RHYTHM AND RHYME ARE IMPORTANT FOR READING

Topic Area: Instructional Design and Strategies
Secondary Topic: Learning Disabilities
Format: Poster Session
This session will focus on the effective instruction of phonological processing skills that can be used in the tiers of intervention and implemented easily by all educators. Learn how the sets of exercises can assist students in discriminating phonemes, acquire rhythm, memory, and rhyme which scaffold skills necessary for reading and spelling. (629)

PREDICTING LATER READING ACHIEVEMENT: LONGITUDINAL STUDY TO PREDICT PERFORMANCE ON HIGH-STAKES ASSESSMENT

Topic Area: Assessment

Secondary Topic: Research

Format: Poster Session

The current study used longitudinal data to investigate the relationship between outcomes from a state’s large scale reading comprehension assessment and scores on Dynamic Indicators of Basic Early Literacy Skills (DIBELS) and Text Reading Comprehension (tRC) measures. Diagnostic accuracy of the measures was tested by generating a receiver operating curve (ROC). Results of the study should be of interest to educators at various levels. With the growing importance of formative data, the current study empowers educators to use data to inform instruction and change student outcomes prior to the summative assessment. (1433)

A CRITICAL ANALYSIS OF THE EMPIRICAL LITERATURE ON CO-TEACHING FOR STUDENTS WITH DISABILITIES
Topic Area: Research
Secondary Topic: Collaboration and Inclusive Practices
Format: Lecture
This session examines the empirical literature on co-teaching for students with disabilities. This review builds on the only systematic meta-analysis of the co-teaching literature by updating the review of empirical studies, and by applying the standards for methodological rigor and evidence-based practice. Presenters also examine other co-teaching research to more fully describe the research base underpinning co-teaching and conclude with a theory-based explanation of research findings. Implications for policy and practice will be discussed. (2112)

SELF-DETERMINATION: ISSUES IN DEFINITION, MEASUREMENT, AND INTERVENTION

Topic Area: Instructional Design and Strategies
Secondary Topic: Accountability & Large Scale Assessments
Format: Lecture

Despite the appeal of self-determination, efforts to scale up effective practices are premature due to difficulties in defining, measuring, and documenting the effect of interventions. A critical review of these challenges will be presented, followed by a synthesis of next steps for researchers and practitioners. (620)

STRAND K, SESSION 4
CLASSROOM MANAGEMENT: THE CORE OF RTI FOR BEHAVIOR

Topic Area: Emotional and Behavioral Disorders
Secondary Topic: Response to Intervention
Format: Lecture

This session will describe essential classroom management procedures and discuss what can be done schoolwide to help teachers reduce discipline problems and prompt responsible behavior from students. The presenters will also examine the importance of high quality staff development, clarity from administrators on the outcomes of good classroom management, and supportive coaching in the classroom. Detailed information will be provided on clarifying and assessing essential student outcomes, critical teacher behaviors, administrator’s responsibilities, and nonevaluative classroom coaching to support teachers. These concepts can be applied to any evidence-based approach to classroom management.

Leader(s): Randall Sprick, Safe & Civil Schools, Eugene, OR

STRAND L, SESSION 4

Topic Area: Teacher Education
Secondary Topic: Public Policy
Format: Panel

In this session panel members will discuss the validity of using student achievement scores for identifying effective teachers through value-added modeling, the degree to which current teacher observation systems validly capture effective instruction for students with disabilities, and how to use indicators of teacher effectiveness to improve educator preparation programs.

Leader(s): Larry Wexler, Office of Special Education Programs, U.S. Department of Education, Washington, DC

Presenter(s): Mary Brownell, University of Florida, Gainesville, FL; Kathleen Paliokas, Council of Chief State School Officers, Washington, DC; Heather Buzick, Educational Testing Service, Princeton, NJ; Nathan Jones, Boston University, Boston, MA; Lynn Holdheide, Great Teachers and Leaders Center, American Institutes for Research, Washington, DC

SUPERVISORY CONVERSATIONS: ENCOURAGING IMPLEMENTATION OF CULTURALLY RESPONSIVE PRACTICE DURING STUDENT TEACHING

Topic Area: Teacher Education
Secondary Topic: Cultural and/or Linguistic Diversity
Format: Lecture

The presenters will share the creation, development, and implementation of an observation tool designed to promote culturally responsive practice for use in postobservation conferences, between university supervisors and preservice special education teachers. Administrators and teacher educators will learn how to negotiate difficult conversations around culturally responsive practices. (1938)

TEACHING FUNCTIONAL DIGITAL LITERACY SKILLS TO STUDENTS WITH INTELLECTUAL DISABILITIES

Topic Area: Developmental Disabilities
Secondary Topic: Technology and Media
Format: Lecture

Results from three single-subject design studies in which high school and college students with mild and moderate intellectual disabilities were taught to e-mail, video email, social bookmark, and access cloud storage will be presented. Conclusions are discussed in the context of teaching functional digital literacy skills as part of a life-skills curriculum. (1138)

TECHNOLOGY TIPS FOR EARLY CHILDHOOD SPECIAL, GENERAL, AND INCLUSIVE CLASSROOMS

Topic Area: Early Childhood
Secondary Topic: Technology and Media
Format: Lecture

This session will provide practical tips and best practices to use, integrate, and evaluate technology and interactive media in early childhood special, general, and inclusive classrooms. The presenters will provide examples and demonstrations of the latest technology and media appropriate to use with young students with diverse needs and abilities. (1156)

THE EFFICACY OF READING AND MATH TUTORING PROGRAMS FOR FIRST GRADERS AT RISK FOR LEARNING DIFFICULTIES

Topic Area: Learning Disabilities
Secondary Topic: Instructional Design and Strategies
Format: Panel

This study used a randomized control trial to investigate effects of a tutoring program on at-risk (AR) first graders’ word reading and mathematics computation. Results will be shared which show that word reading and number combination instruction can be delivered efficiently and synergistically to improve word reading and math computation for AR first graders. (660)

THE NEED FOR PARAEDUCATORS AND POLICY RELATED TO THEIR SUPERVISION

Topic Area: Public Policy
Secondary Topic: Administration/Supervision
Format: Lecture

The findings of this study will provide valuable information to assist teachers and administrators to identify supervision responsibilities of paraeducators. Policies concerning the processes for evaluating paraeducators at the state level throughout the United States will be shared. Summaries of these policies will be reviewed for specific skill expectations of paraeducators as well as similarities and differences between these policies. (2038)

THE RELATIONSHIP OF SELF-DETERMINATION AND STUDENT INVOLVEMENT IN IEPs TO POSTSECONDARY SUCCESS FOR STUDENTS WITH ED

Topic Area: Career Development/Transition
Secondary Topic: Emotional and Behavioral Disorders
Format: Lecture

This secondary analysis of National Longitudinal Transition Study-2 data analyzed selected items from the Arc’s Self-Determination Scale, examined positive variance in self-determination and student involvement during IEP meetings, and examined the relationship of self-determination and student involvement with school-leaving status and productive engagement after high school for students with ED. Results will be discussed. (1530)

TUTORING INCARCERATED YOUTH: IMPACT OF SERVICE-LEARNING ON STUDENT ENGAGEMENT IN TEACHER PREPARATION

Topic Area: Teacher Education
Secondary Topic: Instructional Design and Strategies
Format: Lecture

This session will highlight a qualitative study that investigated the impact of using a service-learning project as a pedagogical tool to promote citizenship and student learning in a teacher preparation program. The findings indicated positive outcomes for students, the community organization, the university, and added to the literature validating service learning as a pedagogical tool. (882)

USE OF IPAD SPELLING AND SIGHT WORD APPS TO INCREASE STUDENT ACCURACY AND READING FLUENCY

Topic Area: Technology and Media
Secondary Topic: Accessing the General Education Curriculum that is Aligned with State Standards
Format: Demonstration

iPads allow students with disabilities to participate in engaging intervention activities. This research will demonstrate the effectiveness of using iPad apps to increase spelling and sight word accuracy and reading fluency. Session will include intervention parameters, specific apps used, and student and teacher efficacy data. (1808)

USING STRESS MANAGEMENT TECHNIQUES TO REDIRECT CHALLENGING BEHAVIORS OF STUDENTS LIVING IN URBAN ENVIRONMENTS

Topic Area: Emotional and Behavioral Disorders
Secondary Topic: Instructional Design and Strategies
Format: Lecture

Stress impacts many students and children with challenging behaviors are particularly vulnerable. This session will discuss stress management techniques as a solution to improving behavior. Participants will learn about how stress impacts children, how it encourages a cycle of conflict, and will be introduced to strategies to engage more self-regulatory skills. (2213)

WHAT AND HOW TO INTEGRATE DIVERSITY CONCEPTS INTO SPECIAL EDUCATION CURRICULUM

Topic Area: Teacher Education
Secondary Topic: Cultural and/or Linguistic Diversity
Format: Lecture

This session will discuss the course redesign toward diversity integration in the teacher education programs and report an empirical research finding on the topic. This session demonstrates critical elements of the course redesign and shares class activities to include diversity concepts to promote teachers’ course redesign efforts. (2024)

A REVIEW OF UNIVERSAL SCREENING TOOLS FOR EMOTIONAL AND BEHAVIORAL PROBLEMS

Topic Area: Emotional and Behavioral Disorders
Secondary Topic: Assessment
Format: Poster Session

Universal screening for risk is a fundamental feature of RTI and a current topic in the areas of special education, school psychology, and mental health. Researchers have discussed integrating universal behavioral screening into SWPBS implementations in order to predict and identify behavioral risk. This session will review the screening options available to schools for universal behavioral screening. Discussed will be a range of tools available for use for universal screening along with their technical adequacy. More specifically, an evidentiary matrix will be provided describing the reliability and validity of the screening tools reported in the research literature. (2177)

COLLABORATIVE UNDERGRADUATE AND FACULTY ACTION RESEARCH: PREPARING EDUCATORS FOR THE 21ST-CENTURY CLASSROOM

Topic Area: Teacher Education
Secondary Topic: Research
Format: Poster Session

Undergraduate research at Birmingham-Southern College is a key component of the student's preparation to work in the 21st-century classroom. Participants will learn how working alongside education faculty in research endeavors provides these students with the opportunity to participate in action research and become more grounded and intentional educators. (1956)

Leader(s): Amelia Spencer, Birmingham Southern College, Birmingham, AL
Presenter(s): Louanne Jacobs, Birmingham Southern College, Birmingham, AL; Erin Moore, Birmingham Southern College, Birmingham, AL; Lindsay Wainwright, Birmingham Southern College, Birmingham, AL; Laura Meadows, Birmingham Southern College, Birmingham, AL

BEYOND JUST BEHAVIOR: USING MUSIC TO INCREASE ACADEMIC SKILLS

Topic Area: Emotional and Behavioral Disorders
Secondary Topic: Emotional and Behavioral Disorders
Format: Poster Session

Using music to motivate students has long been a practice for teachers working with students with EBD. Using music to discuss societal events is also common. The presenter will demonstrate the use of song lyrics for students with EBD learning general education curricula and present data on attention and achievement. (1599)

DATA-DRIVEN RESOURCE AND PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT NEEDS: FINDINGS FROM A STATEWIDE ADMINISTRATOR STUDY

Topic Area: Emotional and Behavioral Disorders
Secondary Topic: Research
Format: Poster Session

Comprehensive, integrated, three-tiered (C3T) models of prevention provide inclusive programming to meet the academic, social, and behavioral needs of students. Participants will learn how administrator perspectives can inform statewide resource development, training, and technical assistance efforts with particular attention to developing students’ self-determination skills. (1057)

DEVELOPING A RESEARCH-BASED COMPUTERIZED PRESCHOOL LANGUAGE ASSESSMENT

Topic Area: Early Childhood
Secondary Topic: Accountability & Large Scale Assessments
Format: Poster Session
Language is a core ability necessary for academic success, thus it is essential to identify young children who experience language delays. This session highlights a project that bridges the gap between research and practice with an evidence-based computerized language assessment for 3- to 5-year-olds. This assessment probes both the products and processes of language acquisition. (770)

EVALUATION OF IEP OBJECTIVES FOR MATH: PROTOCOL AND ACCESS

Topic Area: Accessing the General Education Curriculum that is Aligned with State Standards
Secondary Topic: Collaboration and Inclusive Practices
Format: Poster Session
This session highlights a study that reviewed IEP objectives written to support students in algebra I. The review focused on the procedural integrity of the objectives in terms of IDEA mandates and the support provided to help the student access the algebra curriculum. The sample of IEPs was taken from an algebra I part 1 class in a suburb of a northeastern city. The ongoing challenge of writing objectives to meet weaknesses and to provide access to curriculum is a primary focus. A possible evaluation system is proposed as a means of addressing both weaknesses and curriculum. (1247)

INSTRUCTIONAL PRACTICES AND SUPPORTS IN TEACHING ENGLISH LANGUAGE LEARNERS WITH PHYSICAL, HEALTH, AND MULTIPLE DISABILITIES

Topic Area: Physical/Health/Multiple Disabilities
Secondary Topic: Cultural and/or Linguistic Diversity
Format: Poster Session
English language learners with physical, health, and multiple disabilities face unique challenges in accessing instruction and in demonstrating English language proficiency. This session reveals data collected from teachers concerning practices and supports needed to address the needs of this population. (901)

PEER-ASSISTED CHECK IN CHECK OUT

Secondary Topic: Special Education Schools
Format: Poster Session
This session highlights a unique Check In Check Out study facilitated by peer mentors. With the rampant bullying problems evident in our schools today, this approach aspires to advance constructive peer relationships by combining Check In Check Out and peer-assisted learning to improve social and academic learning outcomes for students with a variety of disabilities. PROBLEM-SOLVING PERFORMANCE OF STUDENTS WITH MATHEMATICAL DIFFICULTIES

Topic Area: Instructional Design and Strategies
Secondary Topic: Research
Format: Poster Session
This session will share the findings from research that compared the effects of teacher-mediated instruction and computer-mediated instruction on the problem-solving performance of students with mathematical difficulties. Implications for improving student learning are discussed. (449)

TEACHING LETTER SOUNDS TO KINDERGARTEN ELLS USING INCREMENTAL REHEARSAL

Topic Area: Instructional Design and Strategies
Secondary Topic: Cultural and/or Linguistic Diversity
Format: Poster Session

This session shares the findings of a study that examined the efficacy of Incremental Rehearsal (IR) to teach letter sounds to five kindergarten English language learners (ELLs) in two schools. Differences in letter sound acquisition and retention are discussed. Recommendations of varying dosage based on prior knowledge of letter sounds and disability status are also provided. (1007)

TEACHING STUDENTS WITH AUTISM: THE ARTS FROM A - Z

Topic Area: Arts in Special Education
Secondary Topic: Autism Spectrum Disorder
Format: Poster Session

Presenters will show strategies for using music, visual arts, drama, and dance in teaching children with autism. Strategies are based on principles of Applied Behavior Analysis and will be summarized for participants in an “A to Z” idea packet for teaching communication, social skills, and academics through the arts. (2161)

UNDERSTANDING STUDENTS WITH TRAUMATIC BRAIN INJURY AND HOW IT AFFECTS EDUCATION IN THE CLASSROOM

Topic Area: Parent/Family/School Partnerships
Secondary Topic: Instructional Design and Strategies
Format: Poster Session

Arizona State University (ASU) has a partnership with the Barrow Resource for Acquired Injury to the Nervous System (B.R.A.I.N.S.) clinic at St. Joseph’s Hospital to provide support to students who have sustained a traumatic brain injury. This session will focus on the support that students, parents, and teachers receive. (607)

WRITTEN EXPRESSION CURRICULUM-BASED MEASUREMENT: EXPLORING TRADITIONAL AND RUBRIC SCORING SYSTEMS

Topic Area: Assessment
Secondary Topic: Research
Format: Poster Session

Curriculum-based measurement in writing typically focuses on grammar and spelling. This session reports the results of a study comparing these metrics and a rubric specifically developed for short samples evaluating theme, structure, and vocabulary. In addition to sharing the study results, evidence-based interventions for written expression will be discussed. (1115)

ARE WE THERE YET? TRANSITIONING FROM DOCTORAL STUDENT TO UNIVERSITY PROFESSOR

Topic Area: Strategies for Entry to the Special Education Career

Secondary Topic: Teacher Education

Format: Lecture

This session will introduce practical knowledge for seeking your first university position. New Assistant Professors will share their experiences with the job search, locating job postings, preparing application materials, preparing for interviews and presentations, and visiting campus. Presenters will also discuss their first year as a tenure track Assistant Professor.

CEC ASPIRING LEADERS

Topic Area: Professional Advancement

Format: Panel

This session is designed to provide information and address questions about becoming a leader in CEC including the importance of leadership to the organization and the potential benefits for members. The goals of this session are to create greater awareness of CEC leadership opportunities and encourage involvement of CEC members in various governance activities within the organization. Participants will be informed about the types of leadership roles within state/provincial units, divisions, and national-level committees and governance bodies. Participants will also learn how current CEC leaders became involved in various leadership activities. Participants will have the opportunity to ask questions regarding roles, responsibilities, time commitments, and other issues related to various leadership opportunities.

A COMPREHENSIVE SURVEY OF THE CHARACTERISTICS OF STUDENTS WITH ANGELMAN SYNDROME

Topic Area: Developmental Disabilities

Secondary Topic: Parent/Family/School Partnerships

Format: Lecture

This session will shed light on issues facing individuals with Angelman syndrome. A parent survey was conducted and focused on behavior issues, social interactions, mobility, self-help skills, receptive and expressive communication abilities, and other quality of life indicators related to children with Angelman syndrome. Results will be discussed. (691)

A CONTINUUM OF SELF-DETERMINATION INSTRUCTION: INITIAL IMPLEMENTATION

Topic Area: Career Development/Transition

Secondary Topic: Instructional Design and Strategies

Format: Lecture

A continuum of self-determination instruction across 6th through 12th grades was created and implemented to enhance student acquisition and use of self-determination skills as they transition to post-secondary life. Participants will leave the session with knowledge of the instructional continuum, preliminary student data, teacher implementation feedback, and administrative input. (1659)

ADDRESSING THE ACADEMIC NEEDS OF STUDENTS WITH ASD: A REVIEW OF THE LITERATURE

Topic Area: Autism Spectrum Disorder
Secondary Topic: Accessing the General Education Curriculum that is Aligned with State Standards
Format: Lecture
This session provides a comprehensive review of the published empirical research on intervention strategies to address the academic needs of students with ASD. Interventions discussed include the use of self-regulated strategy development, graphic maps and organizers, computer-assisted instruction, multimodal frameworks for instruction, cooperative learning, and peer modeling. (1955)

ANYWHERE, ANYTIME LEARNING: TOOLS AND TECHNOLOGIES FOR STUDENTS WITH PRINT DISABILITIES

Topic Area: Technology and Media
Secondary Topic: Learning Disabilities
Format: Lecture
With new, accessible reading technologies, students who face barriers to printed text and images, such as visual impairments and physical and severe learning disabilities, don’t need to be left behind as educators embrace web-based and mobile learning strategies. This session will highlight some of these accessible tools and their benefits. (1918)

A CROSS-CULTURAL PERSPECTIVE OF MOTHERS’ ROLES AND GOALS DURING PARENT-CHILD INTERACTIONS

Topic Area: Cultural and/or Linguistic Diversity
Secondary Topic: Cultural and/or Linguistic Diversity
Format: Lecture
In this session, presenters will discuss cross-cultural perspectives of parent-child interactions and its implications for practice. Participants will learn about the perspectives of mothers with infants and toddlers regarding their roles in supporting their children’s growth and development and the goals they have for their children. (514)

ADMINISTRATOR KNOWLEDGE: HOW IT RELATES TO HIRING AND RETAINING SPECIAL EDUCATORS

Topic Area: Administration/Supervision
Secondary Topic: Teacher Education
Format: Lecture
Attrition rates among beginning special educators within their first 3 years remains disproportionately higher than their general educator counterparts. Presenters examine administrator knowledge of special education, teacher knowledge and skills, and how this limited knowledge may contribute to higher attrition rates in new special educators. (1854)

BOOSTING EXECUTIVE SKILLS IN THE CLASSROOM

Topic Area: Learning Disabilities

Secondary Topic: Instructional Design and Strategies

Format: Lecture

This session offers a systematic approach to helping students build better executive functions (EF)—the mental control processes that include organizing, prioritizing, and goal-directed behavior. Educators will learn about components of an EF Smart Classroom and ways to deliver extra support and instruction for students who need more intensive help.

Leader(s): Margaret Foster, The Learning Network, Severna Park, MD

DESIGNING SCHOOLS TO MEET THE NEEDS OF STUDENTS WITH SOCIAL AND EMOTIONAL DISABILITIES.

Topic Area: Special Education Schools

Secondary Topic: Emotional and Behavioral Disorders

Format: Lecture

As schools continue to evolve in the United States, the central emphasis has become increasing academic achievement. However, as performance expectations increase for all students, educators face the challenge of educating special education students, and specifically students identified with social and emotional disabilities. In this session, participants will learn to identify (1) the core developmental characteristics of children with social and emotional disabilities; (2) the impact that disabilities have on the social, emotional, and educational functioning of the child; and (3) the child's functioning level and implement successful strategies for classroom and school success.

Leader(s): Ryan Plosker, New England Academy/Gordon College, Beverly, MA

8:00-9:00 a.m. Room 211 | Session: 793

DEVELOPMENT AND USE OF CURRICULAR ADAPTATIONS FOR STUDENTS RECEIVING SPECIAL EDUCATION SERVICES

Topic Area: Accessing the General Education Curriculum that is Aligned with State Standards

Secondary Topic: Instructional Design and Strategies

Format: Lecture

This study examined existing educator-made adaptations for students with disabilities included in general education. The session will include a description of how educators developed the adaptations and an evaluation of the effectiveness of educator-made adaptations in facilitating the learning of students with disabilities.

Leader(s): Jennifer Kurth, Northern Arizona University, Flagstaff, AZ

DIFFERENTIAL LANGUAGE USE IN ELEMENTARY ARTS INTEGRATED AND CONVENTIONAL LANGUAGE ARTS CLASSROOMS

Topic Area: Arts in Special Education

Secondary Topic: Collaboration and Inclusive Practices

Format: Lecture

This session describes language use among teachers and students in an inclusive, urban third-grade classroom across integrated and conventional language arts contexts. Findings are presented on associations between context (arts integrated vs. conventional lessons) and participants' oral and written language. Implications for practice and research are presented.

EFFECTIVE READING STRATEGIES FOR STUDENTS WITH LD: A LOOK AT THE SEELS

Topic Area: Learning Disabilities
Secondary Topic: Collaboration and Inclusive Practices
Format: Lecture

Students with learning disabilities often face challenges in learning to read. This session, using the SEELS database, will identify instructional strategies employed in classrooms that produced significant gains in reading for students with LD across the longitudinal study. Presenters will provide teachers with proven strategies to use in their classrooms. (1639)

INCREASING TASK ENGAGEMENT USING BEHAVIORAL MOMENTUM: CREATING AN EFFECTIVE CONTEXT FOR LEARNING

Topic Area: Emotional and Behavioral Disorders
Secondary Topic: Learning Disabilities
Format: Lecture
Task engagement is of great interest to teachers serving students with behavioral problems. Efficient learning requires high levels of interaction between learners and instructional materials. This session demonstrates one empirically supported method to increase task/learner interaction and prevent instances of task refusal. (769)

INTEGRATING THE IPAD WITH AN AAC MODELING-BASED SHARED STORYBOOK READING STRATEGY

Secondary Topic: Technology and Media
Format: Lecture
This session shares the findings of a single-subject design research project which targets impacting young children with complex communication needs through training their communication partners. Specifically, educational assistants are instructed in how to integrate a new mobile technology, the iPad, as an AAC tool with a research-based language acquisition strategy in the context of shared storybook reading. Results will be shared and discussed. (1967)

WHAT EXACTLY DOES ALL THIS CLASSROOM DATA TELL ME? USING YOUR DATA TO MAKE DECISIONS

Topic Area: Assessment
Secondary Topic: Accountability & Large Scale Assessments
Format: Lecture
Teachers spend a significant portion of their time meeting the legislative requirements for data collection. This session will teach educators how to gain meaning from their data using simple templates to create spreadsheets, graphs, and charts. Educators can then use that information to inform curricular decisions. (648)

STRATEGIES FOR STUDENTS WHO ARE VISUALLY IMPAIRED

Topic Area: Visual Impairments
Moderator: Diane Pevsner, University of Alabama, Birmingham, AL

Conversations About Concepts:
Teaching Children With Visual Impairments in the Preschool Classroom
This session describes the findings of two qualitative inquiries that explored how basic concept development is taught and assessed by experienced teachers of students with visual impairment working in specialized preschool settings and inclusive classrooms. Presenters share examples of successful strategies to better understand practitioner evidence and potential promising practices. (1202)

Presenter(s): Catherine Smyth, University of Northern Colorado, Greeley, CO; Hong Phangia Dewald, University of Northern Colorado, Park City, UT

The Agency and Roles of the Teacher of Students With Visual Impairment
This session explores the agency roles of the Teacher of Students With Visual Impairment. These roles allow the teacher to act on behalf of, and in the best interest of, the student. Strategies are examined that not only allow the teacher to act in the student’s best interest, but also empower the student to actively participate in education and program decisions. (1126)

CHARACTERISTICS OF ADEQUATE AND INADEQUATE RESPONDERS IN A FLUID MULTI-TIER MODEL

Topic Area: Learning Disabilities
Secondary Topic: Research
Format: Poster Session

This study analyzed data from a larger study. The participants include 170 first grade students that participated in Tier 2 and 3 intervention during a school year. The primary purpose of this study was to determine accuracy for group membership for adequate and inadequate responders using initial language and literacy skills or initial language and literacy skills plus child characteristics. In a Discriminant Function Analysis group membership was able to be determined by initial skills plus child characteristics. (2016)

CREATING A DIGITAL LEARNING ENVIRONMENT FOR NEW AND PRESERVICE SPECIAL EDUCATION TEACHERS: INSTRUCTIONAL DESIGN OF REUSABLE LEARNING OBJECTS (RLOS)

Topic Area: Administration/Supervision
Secondary Topic: Teacher Education
Format: Poster Session

Reusable Learning Objects (RLOs) are a cost-effective way to support the pre- and inservice professional development needs of educators. Partnering practitioners from the field and university-based instructional designers created engaging RLOs and analyzed outcomes of the learning for effectiveness in delivering digital content to educators who work with children with autism spectrum disorder. Results will be shared and discussed. (1261)

EDUCATIONAL ISSUES FOR STUDENTS WHO ARE CHRONICALLY ILL: A PERCEPTIONS STUDY

Topic Area: Physical/Health/Multiple Disabilities

Secondary Topic: Research

Format: Poster Session

This session examines educational issues of students who are chronically ill by investigating the perceptions of three key stakeholders in a patient’s education: the patient, caregiver, and educator. This longitudinal, mixed-methods study utilized questionnaires and interviews to inform results and guide interventions to support students with an illness. Findings will be discussed. (1778)

GOAL PLAN COMPONENTS RELATED TO TRANSITION GOAL ATTAINMENT

Topic Area: Career Development/Transition

Secondary Topic: Technology and Media

Format: Poster Session

The presenters taught students to make multi-component goal plans to attain their self-selected short-term goals and gave them several days to implement their plans. After a goal attainment period, students evaluated the effects of their plans by stating if they had acted on each of the components. Results indicated that when students acted on at least four components, they attained their goals, and that no single component was most related to students’ goal attainment. In addition, with a reminder built into their plans, students used more support technology, and relied less on the support of other people. Results and implications for the field will be discussed. LAS CHICAS BUILDING ROBOT CARS: IMPROVING SELF-CONCEPT AND METACOGNITIVE SKILLS

Topic Area: Cultural and/or Linguistic Diversity

Secondary Topic: Instructional Design and Strategies

Format: Poster Session

Females are poorly represented in science and engineering careers as compared to males; however, meta-analyses have found that gender differences in cognitive skills are small. This session shares the results of a study that tested the effects that a female-led afterschool science/engineering program had on self-concept and on metacognitive abilities on Latinas. Significant improvements in self-concept, metacognition, and scores on standardized tests for science and math were observed. The effectiveness of the program will be discussed. (1480)

PROMOTING COLLABORATION SKILLS AMONG PRESERVICE SPECIAL EDUCATORS VIA ROLE PLAYING WITH PARENTS

Topic Area: Teacher Education
Secondary Topic: Collaboration and Inclusive Practices
Format: Poster Session

For students with disabilities to have a high quality educational program, it is imperative that teachers collaborate in positive ways with parents. This session focuses on how preservice special educators can acquire collaboration skills by role playing with an actual parent. Each student obtains oral feedback from the parent and written feedback from the professor teaching that course, subsequent to the role playing. (2079)

ACADEMIC OUTCOMES ASSOCIATED WITH PEER TUTORING: A META-ANALYSIS OF SINGLE-CASE RESEARCH

Topic Area: Research
Secondary Topic: Instructional Design and Strategies
Format: Lecture

This meta-analysis examined the effects of peer tutoring across 29 single-case research experiments. The overall effect size across studies for students in Grades 1-12 will be presented. Effects of three potential moderators will be discussed as well. Findings will be discussed in light of students with or at risk for disabilities, English language learners, and the use of peer tutoring in content area classes. (2190)

ALGEBRA PROGRESS MONITORING: WEB-BASED TOOLS FOR SCORING AND DATA MANAGEMENT

Topic Area: Assessment
Secondary Topic: Technology and Media
Format: Lecture

The presenters will share examples of web-based support for algebra progress monitoring. Developed as part of a federal grant project, the system provides teachers with professional development for three types of algebra measures. The accompanying data management system allows teachers to manage student progress monitoring data and to access diagnostic reports on skills and common errors. (1218)

ANALYZING THE ENVIRONMENT TO IMPROVE INCLUSIVE INSTRUCTION FOR CHILDREN WITH AUTISM

Topic Area: Autism Spectrum Disorder
Secondary Topic: Early Childhood
Format: Lecture

The presenters analyzed kindergarten and first-grade environments, including general education teacher and student behavior, to determine how to improve instruction for incoming children with ASD. The information was used to help determine what skills should be taught to the children with ASD and what modifications and accommodations were necessary. Results will be discussed. (2014)

CLASS STRUCTURE AND LESSON PLANS FOR CHILDREN WITH FRAGILE X SYNDROME

Topic Area: Developmental Disabilities
Secondary Topic: Autism Spectrum Disorder
Format: Lecture

This session will assist educators in understanding the unique challenges with working with children who have Fragile X syndrome. Participants will learn the best ways to structure the classroom, gain knowledge through case studies, and will be provided with successful lesson plans. The presenters will also provide participants with resources to further their search on best practices when working with students impacted by Fragile X syndrome. (1899)

COLLEAGUE-TO- COLLEAGUE HELPING: BEYOND THE QUICK FIX

Topic Area: Collaboration and Inclusive Practices
Secondary Topic: Administration/Supervision
Format: Lecture

Colleagues typically turn to one another for informal help and support in working with students who have special needs. However, such casual helping is often given on the run with hit-or-miss, quick fix advice. This session will help participants replace the quick fix with a fast, systematic, and empowering helping process. (1926)

DEFINING AUTISM: VARIABILITY IN STATE ELIGIBILITY REQUIREMENTS

Topic Area: Autism Spectrum Disorder
Secondary Topic: Accountability & Large Scale Assessments
Format: Lecture

As the autism incidence rate rises, the number of students with autism attending public schools and general education classrooms has also increased. To provide the most appropriate services to the students who need them, it is important that special education personnel recognize the differences in autism diagnoses from state to state. Even when state definitions of autism are similar, educators and administrators need to be aware that the evaluation procedures for meeting these criteria vary widely. This policy review will provide information for participants to better formulate effective assessment guidelines that more consistently identify and address needs associated with autism. (1265)

LITERACY MENTORING CLUB RESEARCH STUDY
Topic Area: Physical/Health/Multiple Disabilities
Secondary Topic: Instructional Design and Strategies
Format: Lecture
This session highlights The Literacy Mentoring Club, a research project that focused on sharing the pleasure of reading with individuals with extensive needs for support. As part of a class project, graduate students enrolled in a special education methods course to teach reading to youth with disabilities. The students both mentored the child in their literacy club and took turns mentoring one another on how to encourage, support, and teach reading to the child in their club. Presenters will also discuss the results and insights gained from this program. (1436)

IMPACT OF UDL PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT ON INSTRUCTIONAL PRACTICES

Topic Area: Accessing the General Education Curriculum that is Aligned with State Standards
Secondary Topic: Collaboration and Inclusive Practices

Format: Poster Session
This session will report the findings from a year-long partnership project between East Carolina University (ECU) and Pitt County Schools (PCS) designed to strengthen General Curriculum Exceptional Children’s programs through professional development on Universal Design for Learning (UDL) principles, integration of UDL into instruction in inclusive classrooms and support and resources through the infusion of a technology package. Participants will observe classroom examples that model UDL practices in K-12 settings, view the UDL survey and observational checklist that was used, and learn about the technology package and professional development activities that were successfully implemented.

MENSTRUAL SUPPORT FOR FEMALES WITH MILD AND MODERATE DEVELOPMENTAL DISABILITIES: SURVEY AND INTERVIEW FOR PARENTS OR CARETAKERS

Topic Area: Developmental Disabilities

Secondary Topic: Parent/Family/School Partnerships

Format: Poster Session

Menstruation has a significant impact on every female’s development. It might be expected that some women with developmental disabilities will have a qualitatively different experience compared to the general population. Nevertheless, not much research has been conducted for menstrual issues for this population. This study collected general information regarding menstrual experience from parents/caretakers of females with developmental disabilities. The results of the study will be shared in terms of what the parents/caretakers need for these females now and in the future. (1533)

STRESS LEVEL AND NEEDS OF EARLY INTERVENTION AND RELATED SERVICES OF MOTHERS WITH PREMATURE BABIES IN TAIWAN

Topic Area: Early Childhood
Secondary Topic: Parent/Family/School Partnerships
Format: Poster Session

How parents view their premature baby and their children with special needs is influenced by their cultural background. This session will discuss the relationship between stress level/background variables and the family’s decisions on choosing the type of early intervention services in Taiwan for their premature babies. (914)

SUPPORTING PARENTS OF CHILDREN WITH ASD THROUGH MASLOW’S HIERARCHY OF NEEDS

Topic Area: Autism Spectrum Disorder
Secondary Topic: Parent/Family/School Partnerships
Format: Poster Session

Parents of children with special needs experience stress that parents of typically achieving students in general do not face. Parents of children with autism spectrum disorder (ASD), in particular, face a distinct set of challenges due to the unique nature and manifestation of the disorder. This session will discuss the needs of parents with children with ASD through the framework of Maslow’s (1943) hierarchy of needs. With teachers and school personnel in mind, specific recommendations and strategies are provided for understanding the needs and supporting parents of children with ASD. (1803)

THE EFFECTS OF VARYING LEVELS OF OPPORTUNITIES TO RESPOND

Topic Area: Instructional Design and Strategies
Secondary Topic: Research
Format: Poster Session

This study investigated the effects of different levels of opportunities to respond (OTR) on second-, third-, and fourth-grade students. Findings suggested that high OTR activities can improve students’ engagement. In addition, alternating the use of low and high OTR activities can still maintain a desirable level of student engagement. Results and implications to the field will be shared. (1742)

TRANSITION UNIVERSITY

Topic Area: Career Development/Transition
Secondary Topic: Teacher Education
Format: Poster Session

Transition University provides local high school students with significant disabilities (ages 18-21) the opportunity to spend time interacting and learning needed transition skills from their same-aged college peer mentors at a local university. This session discusses how participating students have demonstrated improvement in social relationships and career planning skills. (760)

USING ELECTRONIC MENTORING TO SUPPORT SPECIAL EDUCATORS

Topic Area: Strategies for Entry to the Special Education Career
Secondary Topic: Teacher Education
Format: Poster Session

Dialogues between new special educators and their mentors in an electronic mentoring site were examined to determine the nature of the issues which dyads address, including new special educators’ concerns, professional competencies, and key factors identified in teacher development research. This session will present findings from this qualitative study. (1364)

WHAT’S IN A NAME? IMPACT OF EXOTIC NAME CHOICES AND EARLY LITERACY

Topic Area: Early Childhood
Secondary Topic: Research
Format: Poster Session

This session examines the effects of exotic names (e.g., unconventional spelling) and early literacy. Whereas mispronunciations often occasion exotic names, it’s important to determine if delays in early literacy exist for children whose name disregards typical sound symbol associations. Reading skills for children with and without exotic names are compared. (2064)

ASSESSING CO-TEACHING: USING REFLECTION IN THE PLANNING PROCESS TO PROMOTE CONTINUOUS IMPROVEMENT

Topic Area: Collaboration and Inclusive Practices
Secondary Topic: Teacher Education
Format: Demonstration

Co-teachers need to reflect on their practice in order to improve their co-teaching. As co-teaching becomes ubiquitous in our schools, teachers need to rethink typical individual teacher practices to accommodate the fact that there are two people involved in planning and teaching. Successful co-teachers engage in discussions of How are WE Doing? This session will provide tools (a co-teaching checklist and questions to promote reflection) to aide in reflection and incorporate reflection into the planning process. (305)

BLENDING INSTRUCTIONAL STRATEGIES TO IMPROVE THE MATH SKILLS OF MIDDLE SCHOOL STUDENTS

Topic Area: Instructional Design and Strategies
Secondary Topic: Research
Format: Lecture

Presenters will describe the results of a cluster-randomized trial that tested the efficacy of a math intervention designed for improving students’ fractions computation and problem-solving skills. Results showed the middle school students in the intervention group outscored the comparison group on research-developed and standardized tests. (475)

CALCULATING EDUCATIONAL BENEFIT OF SPECIAL EDUCATION SERVICES FOR STUDENTS WITH DISABILITIES

Topic Area: Assessment
Secondary Topic: Teacher Education
Format: Demonstration

The Educational Benefit Review Process is a systematic method of analyzing a student’s individualized education program (IEP) to determine if the student is benefiting to the full extent the law entitles. Results highlight the need for training in developing meaningful IEPs that result in educational benefit to students with disabilities. (1440)

CHALLENGES OF COLLEGE STUDENTS WITH AUTISM SPECTRUM DISORDER

Topic Area: Autism Spectrum Disorder
Secondary Topic: Career Development/Transition
Format: Lecture

More and more students with autism spectrum disorder attend college. These students may face challenges in academics, social interaction, independent living skills, and time management. Two students with ASD will share their experiences in college and discuss issues regarding transition from high school to college. (2201)

CONCEPT MAPPING AS AN AUTHENTIC ASSESSMENT TOOL FOR SPECIAL EDUCATION PERSONNEL PREPARATION

Topic Area: Teacher Education
Secondary Topic: Accountability & Large Scale Assessments
Format: Demonstration
This session describes a line of research encompassing concept mapping as an assessment tool in special education personnel preparation. In a series of three studies, concept mapping was used to assess teacher candidate conceptual change. The implications of implementing concept mapping as an authentic assessment tool will be discussed. (498)

COUNTING COLLECTIONS TO INCREASE THE NUMBER SENSE OF STUDENTS WITH DISABILITIES

Topic Area: Instructional Design and Strategies
Secondary Topic: Developmental Disabilities
Format: Demonstration
This session will introduce participants to the instructional activity of counting collections. This is a highly engaging activity that helps students increase their counting skills, their number sense, and their knowledge of place value. Learn how this activity is easily differentiated to accommodate a wide range of abilities. (793)

CURRICULUM ENHANCEMENT FOR PRESCHOOL CHILDREN WITH DUAL LANGUAGES AND DUAL EXCEPTIONALITIES

Secondary Topic: Early Childhood
Format: Lecture
Multilevel materials and activities were created to enhance the learning of preschool-age children who were from predominately Spanish-speaking homes, some of whom were identified by their trained teachers as being potentially gifted. The participants will learn about the project’s multimedia lessons that incorporate concepts and skills in math, science, social studies, language arts, and social-emotional development. (1866)

EMBEDDING INDIGENOUS CULTURAL PRACTICES WITHIN A CREATIVE ARTS CURRICULUM TO SUPPORT STUDENTS WITH DISABILITIES

Topic Area: Arts in Special Education
Secondary Topic: Accessing the General Education Curriculum that is Aligned with State Standards
Format: Demonstration
Creative arts can be used to support and honor students from indigenous backgrounds when teachers use culturally responsive pedagogy. This session provides a framework and a case study example for embedding indigenous cultural practices in a creative arts curriculum that capitalizes on the strengths and rich cultures of students from indigenous backgrounds. IMPLEMENTING RTI: A STATEWIDE SURVEY OF K-12 PRINCIPALS

Topic Area: Learning Disabilities
Secondary Topic: Public Policy
Format: Lecture
Although RTI has emerged as an important framework for organizing assessment, instruction, and interventions, little research has been conducted on statewide implementation. This session highlights the findings of a survey conducted with K-12 principals in one state to determine levels of implementation across the state; factors and outcomes associated with implementation; the role of school leaders; and implications for future policy, practice, and professional development. PREDICTORS OF ACCOMMODATIONS SELECTED FOR STUDENTS WITH EMOTIONAL AND BEHAVIORAL DISORDERS

Topic Area: Emotional and Behavioral Disorders
Secondary Topic: Accessing the General Education Curriculum that is Aligned with State Standards
Format: Lecture

This session reports the findings of a study that identified the frequency at which various accommodations were used among a sample of adolescents with EBD and which problem behaviors predict the selection of specific accommodations. Participants will gain usable knowledge about the accommodation selection process for this population. (1983)

OPTIONS AND OPPORTUNITIES FOR STUDENT-LED IEPs

Topic Area: Career Development/Transition
Secondary Topic: Research
Format: Lecture

Research has demonstrated multiple benefits when a student actively participates in the IEP meeting. However, the literature indicates limited meaningful student participation is occurring even when it is required by law. Some obstacles include lack of awareness of the importance of including students, lack of teacher knowledge regarding preparing students, and lack of time to prepare students. This session will review recently identified options for addressing challenges and increasing meaningful student participation. (1501)

CHILD ABUSE: BEYOND MANDATED REPORTING—UTILIZING CORE CURRICULUM TO HELP PROTECT CHILDREN

Topic Area: Parent/Family/School Partnerships
Secondary Topic: Instructional Design and Strategies
Format: Lecture

In 2010 more than half (57%) the child abuse reports came from teachers, police officers, and social workers. Educational professionals have unique opportunities to prevent abuse and support enhanced intervention. This session identifies curriculum areas that can offer skill building in abuse prevention and discusses ways educators can interface with child abuse investigators.

THE POLICY BEHIND EDUCATION RESEARCH: CEC’S RECOMMENDATIONS FOR THE EDUCATION SCIENCES REFORM ACT
Topic Area: Public Policy
Secondary Topic: Research
Format: Lecture

The developmental, academic, and lifelong success of the nation’s 10 million children and youth with disabilities and/or gifts and talents relies on innovative research and development. Educators and families alike depend on the availability of research-based strategies to support the early intervention and special education needs of children and youth with disabilities and/or gifts and talents. In 2013, CEC approved its recommendations to Congress for the reauthorization of the Education Sciences Reform Act legislation which guides the federal education research agenda. Participants will hear directly from leaders in special education research.

INTENSIVE TECHNICAL ASSISTANCE THAT PROMOTES INTENTIONAL INTERVENTION

Topic Area: Teacher Education
Secondary Topic: Early Childhood
Format: Poster Session

This session describes a model for technical assistance that supports intentional intervention with children and families. Embedded within the context of a multi-level statewide early childhood professional development system, intensive support focuses on individualized and self-directed plans with specific measurable outcomes to assure application of skills by participants. PERSONALLY RELEVANT: FROM DIFFERENT TO DIFFERENTIATED CURRICULUM

Topic Area: Accessing the General Education Curriculum that is Aligned with State Standards
Secondary Topic: Instructional Design and Strategies
Format: Poster Session

Curriculum followed by individuals with significant disabilities has historically focused on developmental levels or functional skills. Different curriculum often meant different classes not aligned with grade appropriate general education standards. This presentation discusses a change in terminology from Functional to Personally Relevant to describe curriculum for students with significant disabilities that promotes intensive support through differentiation instead of a separate curriculum. Personally Relevant Curriculum connects classroom learning to life beyond the classroom and signals a change from different to differentiated curriculum. (203)

PREPARING FOR THE TRANSITION TO COLLEGE: STRATEGIES FOR STUDENTS WITH DISABILITIES

Topic Area: Learning Disabilities
Secondary Topic: Public Policy
Format: Poster Session

Practitioners, students, and parents considering the transition between high school and college must be aware of the ways in which universities signal their acceptance and understanding of various disabilities. Even with legalized norms in place, the meanings ascribed and access granted to those with disabilities are left to the individual university to construct. After presenting an analysis of disability services web sites from the top 30 colleges and universities in the United States, we describe and invite participants to practice, applying strategies that students, parents, and teachers can use to become more critical consumers of disability service information on college and university web sites. REPLICATION: PARTICIPATION IN SHARED STORY READINGS BY ELEMENTARY STUDENTS WITH SEVERE DISABILITY

Topic Area: Physical/Health/Multiple Disabilities
Secondary Topic: Instructional Design and Strategies
Format: Poster Session

This session is designed for educators, other service providers, and family members interested in learning about intervention strategies that can be used to enhance literacy development. Systematic instruction, adapted materials, and individualized adaptations of an instructional sequence were used in this replicated study to increase independent responses of elementary-age students with severe developmental delays and multiple disabilities. Presenters will identify a combination of individualized strategies that can be used to plan for and implement instruction of early literacy skills for this population. (1300)

SELF-EFFICACY IN TECHNOLOGY AND SCIENCE OF MIDDLE AND HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS WITH VISUAL IMPAIRMENTS

Topic Area: Visual Impairments
Secondary Topic: Research
Format: Poster Session

This quantitative study examined the self-efficacy levels of students with visual impairments in science and technology education. A standardized instrument, Self-Efficacy in Technology and Science Short Form (SETSSF), was used before and after participation in a specialized science, technology, engineering, and math camp. Results will be shared and implications for the field will be discussed. (166)

TEACHER MOTIVATIONS AND PERSPECTIVES OF ELL INSTRUCTIONAL NEEDS PRIOR TO ESOL CERTIFICATION

Topic Area: Cultural and/or Linguistic Diversity
Secondary Topic: Teacher Education
Format: Poster Session

This session will examine the motivational factors of Early Childhood teachers that affect their perceptions on how to increase instructional effectiveness for ELL students. The information from this study will be collected from participants in an ESOL graduate certification program. Findings from this session provide evidence that ELL educators may vary their own motivations, which may or may not be acknowledged. This session will raise an awareness of the implications that teacher perceptions, including biases, can affect the academic achievement of ELLs. (1526)

TEACHERS’ PERCEPTION OF ROBOT LEARNING AND CHILDREN’S INTERACTIONS WITH ELECTRONIC ROBOTIC TOYS

Topic Area: Technology and Media
Secondary Topic: Early Childhood
Format: Poster Session

This session will share the information about Robot-learning in Korean early childhood and special education. Results of two R-learning studies will be reported including (1) the perception of early childhood special education preservice teachers regarding R-learning, and (2) the effects of the electronic robotic toys on interactions of children with autism. The results indicate that overall interactions increased when participants played with electronic robotic toys. However, many preservice teachers do not use R-learning yet. (1263)

CEC’s Position on Special Education Teacher Evaluation: Current Local Efforts, Issues to Consider, and Recommendations for Fairness

Topic Area: Public Policy
Secondary Topic: Administration/Supervision
Format: Panel

Join CEC’s Policy & Advocacy Services Team, CEC President and experts from the field for a conversation about CEC’s new Position on Special Education Teacher Evaluation. CEC developed this Position statement over the course of 2 years, with input from CEC members and experts throughout the nation. This discussion will describe essential components of the Position, provide some historical context about the general policy discussions that lead to its creation and are ongoing at the federal, state, and local levels, and offer examples of how CEC members can use the Position to advocate for strong and meaningful evaluation systems for special education teachers in their schools, districts, and states.

Teaching Older Striving Readers

Topic Area: Public Policy
Moderator: Erin Washburn, Binghamton University, Binghamton, NY

Are Educators Prepared to Teach Older Striving Readers?

Explicit instruction in word study, fluency, vocabulary, comprehension, and motivation has been identified as potential areas of reading intervention for older striving readers. This study explored preservice and inservice special and literacy educators’ reading related knowledge and self-efficacy to teach these concepts. Findings and implications for practice and policy will be discussed. (1050)

AN EXAMINATION OF PRESERVICE TEACHERS’ INTENTIONS TO PURSUE CAREERS IN SPECIAL EDUCATION

Topic Area: Strategies for Entry to the Special Education Career
Secondary Topic: Research
Format: Lecture
This study examined the cognitive variables affecting preservice teachers’ career intention to work for special education. Preliminary results suggested that teaching-efficacy indirectly influence preservice teachers’ intention to teach special education via the mediators of outcome expectations and interests in special education. Implications are discussed within the context of improving preservice teachers’ self-efficacy, interest, and intention to work for students with special needs.

CROSS-NATIONAL DIFFERENCES IN SPECIAL EDUCATION COVERAGE: AN EMPIRICAL ANALYSIS BY ECONOMIC LEVEL

Topic Area: Research
Secondary Topic: Public Policy
Format: Lecture
Huge disparities exist in the extent to which countries provide special education to their children and youth with disabilities. This study investigated the role of educational and socioeconomic factors in accounting for differences in national special education coverage, both for a large sample overall and by economic level. Participants will learn how a country’s general education system, literacy rate, and economy together shape and either constrain or allow the particular educational services that are provided to students with disabilities.

CURRICULUM-BASED MEASUREMENT AS A MEANS TO IDENTIFY STUDENTS FOR GIFTED AND TALENTED PROGRAMS

Secondary Topic: Accountability & Large Scale Assessments
Format: Lecture

Identifying students for gifted and talented programs is difficult. Parent and teacher referral is often utilized as a means to invite students to test for programs. Relying on only parent and teacher referral theoretically misses a large number of students who may be eligible. This session will share the findings of a study that examined using a curriculum-based measurement procedure to invite students to test for the district gifted and talented full-time program. Results will be discussed.

EFFECTIVE READING COMPREHENSION STRATEGIES OF SCIENCE TEXT FOR STUDENTS WITH LEARNING DISABILITIES

Topic Area: Learning Disabilities
Secondary Topic: Instructional Design and Strategies
Format: Lecture

Students with learning disabilities often experience difficulties in reading expository text. This presentation provides the results of a meta-analysis that examined effective interventions for teaching comprehension of science text to students with learning disabilities. Participants will learn how to use the results of this meta-analysis to guide research and practice.

DIFFERENTIATION MADE SIMPLE: STRATEGIES THAT CHANGE LESSONS INTO DIFFERENTIATED ONES

Topic Area: Gifted and Talented
Secondary Topic: Instructional Design and Strategies
Format: Demonstration

Teachers mistakenly believe differentiating the curriculum means starting over, creating completely differentiated lessons for each topic. Not so! Differentiation begins with tweaking favorite lessons, focusing on content, process, and product; and understanding students' needs, interests, and levels of readiness. Learn strategies that make lessons engaging to all including the gifted and talented.

INSEPARABLE! ASSESSMENT TO ENHANCE INSTRUCTION AND PROGRAM ACCOUNTABILITY FOR EMOTIONAL AND BEHAVIORAL DISORDERS

Topic Area: Assessment
Secondary Topic: Emotional and Behavioral Disorders
Format: Demonstration

This session highlights the DTORF-R assessment and accountability system, a developmentally based growth model for students with emotional and behavioral disorders. Ratings of behavioral competencies provide developmental scores used to design individualized programs, guide instruction, track student progress, identify program exit criteria, and document program effectiveness. An electronic version calculates changes in ratings automatically over multiple ratings and summarizes cumulative data for individuals or groups. Participants will practice rating, observe video of a student self-rating, and discuss individual profiles for program implications. (1273)

IPAD, THEREFORE, IAM: A QUALITATIVE CASE STUDY EXPLORING IPAD USAGE AS ASSISTIVE TECHNOLOGY AND CLASSROOM LEARNING

Secondary Topic: Learning Disabilities
Format: Lecture

This study explores student learning with touch screen technology usage. A case study was conducted in a ninth-grade English and algebra classroom at a public school located in an urban Northeastern city. A grounded-theory approach was used to analyze audio recordings of class sessions, field notes, interviews, and artifacts. The results suggest the iPad can be utilized as a successful tool to enhance student learning and engagement in the classroom. Engagement Theory and Bruner’s Theory of Discovery Learning offer a theoretical framework to analyze how students utilize touch screen tablets to engage in learning experiences. (2023)

USING VISUALLY SUPPORTED INSTRUCTIONAL ACTIVITIES TO MEET COMMON CORE STANDARDS ALIGNED ACTIVITIES

Topic Area: Accessing the General Education Curriculum that is Aligned with State Standards

Secondary Topic: Instructional Design and Strategies

Format: Lecture

Participants will leave this session with effective tools that will enable them to overcome the challenge to provide effective instruction that addresses Common Core Standards. Learn how to confidently identify and demonstrate how to create, differentiate, and implement visually supported instructional activities easily and consistently for ALL students.

DUETS IN THE LIMELIGHT: STAGING CO-TEACHING FOR TEACHER CANDIDATES

Topic Area: Collaboration and Inclusive Practices

Secondary Topic: Teacher Education

Format: Poster Session

This session reports the findings of a study that examined the experience of college faculty assigned to co-teach a course devoted to educational collaborations. Faculty provided a visual model to examine and reflect upon, that paralleled co-teaching experiences. Implications for the field will be shared.

EFFECTIVE AND APPROPRIATE: MAKING READING INSTRUCTION MORE SOCIALLY APPROPRIATE DURING ADOLESCENCE

Topic Area: Instructional Design and Strategies

Secondary Topic: Teacher Education

Format: Poster Session

This session provides an examination of adolescent social changes and effective reading instructional practices to complement these changes. With this knowledge, educators will have a better understanding of developmental changes of their students which will allow them to improve the quality of their instruction.

EFFECTS OF A MULTIMODAL BILINGUAL LITERACY INTERVENTION ON VOCABULARY AND NARRATIVE SKILLS

Topic Area: Cultural and/or Linguistic Diversity

Secondary Topic: Research

Format: Poster Session

Mis LÍBROS is a bilingual authoring intervention that combines effective teaching strategies, home language support, and opportunities for cognitive engagement. Throughout the intervention students developed a relationship with print, had oral language experiences, and worked with the tools of literacy. This session will describe the results of the intervention with third-grade ELs. Implementation of the intervention in a classroom will also be discussed. Videos, data charts and examples of students’ books will be shared.

THE IMPACT OF PEER-TUTORING PROGRAMS IN POSTSECONDARY EDUCATION: AN ANALYTICAL LITERATURE REVIEW

Topic Area: Career Development/Transition

Secondary Topic: Cultural and/or Linguistic Diversity

Format: Poster Session

Although researchers claim that peer tutoring can have positive impacts on tutors and tutees, there is a lack in empirical research to conclusively demonstrate its effectiveness in meeting the academic needs of our diverse students. This session shares the findings of a study that reviewed, summarized, and reflected on the impact of peer-tutoring programs in postsecondary education. Presenters will discuss tutor training programs and how they can more effectively train tutors to meet the academic needs of their tutees. (2202)

ALL TOGETHER NOW: TEACHING COLLABORATION BY COLLABORATING IN HIGHER EDUCATION

Topic Area: Teacher Education
Secondary Topic: Collaboration and Inclusive Practices
Format: Lecture

In today’s classrooms, general and special educators must work together more than ever. However, teacher education programs have not adequately prepared candidates for this collaborative and co-teaching reality. In this session, special and secondary education faculty describe developing and co-teaching a course on effective instructional and collaborative strategies for diverse learners. (988)

AUTISM AND ART: A SUMMER ART CAMP ADVENTURE

Topic Area: Arts in Special Education
Secondary Topic: Autism Spectrum Disorder
Format: Lecture

The Dallas Museum of Art is dedicated to serving diverse audiences in the Dallas community, with a variety of Access Programs to meet the interests of visitors with special needs. DMA staff and a local autism specialist will address their collaborative approach to the camp, including integration of sensory elements and fostering social interaction among students. They will share how guests from the community, including a music therapist and storyteller, helped to lead the camp. Presenters will discuss best practices for incorporating visual picture schedules into a museum-based camp program, selecting themes, and choosing artworks that appeal to children with autism. IMPROVING READING FLUENCY THROUGH REPEATED READING AND VIDEO SELF-MODELING

Topic Area: Instructional Design and Strategies
Secondary Topic: Learning Disabilities
Format: Lecture

Reading fluency is central for successful comprehension of text. Repeated reading combined with video self-modeling may be used to increase fluency beyond effects of repeated reading alone. In this session, participants will learn how to create video self-models and implement the models within a repeated reading intervention. (1010)

MATH FOR ALL: IMPLEMENTING STANDARDS-BASED MATH CURRICULUM FOR DIVERSE LEARNERS

Topic Area: Accessing the General Education Curriculum that is Aligned with State Standards

Secondary Topic: Collaboration and Inclusive Practices

Format: Demonstration

Participants will engage in the Math for All approach to professional development. This approach prepares teachers to provide diverse learners access to standards-based mathematics curriculum. Video case-studies will be presented and discussed so that participants will have hands-on experiences to bring back to their classrooms, schools, or districts. (764)

SELECTING EVIDENCE-BASED TOOLS FOR IMPLEMENTING INTENSIVE INTERVENTION

Topic Area: Instructional Design and Strategies

Secondary Topic: Research

Format: Demonstration

In this session, staff from the National Center on Intensive Intervention will describe and give participants a chance to interact with its Tools Charts, which rate the technical adequacy of academic and behavioral interventions and progress monitoring tools, based on rigorous evidence standards developed by expert panels. The NCII publishes these Tools Charts to assist educators and families in becoming informed consumers who can select interventions and progress monitoring tools that best meet their students’ individual needs. RACIAL DISPARITY IN ADMINISTRATIVE AUTISM IDENTIFICATION ACROSS THE UNITED STATES FROM 2000 TO 2007

Topic Area: Autism Spectrum Disorder

Secondary Topic: Research

Format: Lecture

Disproportionate representation of racially diverse students in special education is a well-documented problem, yet few studies have systematically evaluated disproportionate representation of diverse students with autism. This session will share the results of an examination of administrative autism prevalence at the national and state levels from 2000 to 2007. Presenters will discuss implications for special education and related professionals; district, state, and federal policy makers; teacher educators; and researchers. Discussion also includes potential sources for disparity and directions for future studies. (416)

SELECTING THE RIGHT LENS: SEEING—AND ADDRESSING—ISSUES IMPACTING STUDENTS’ MENTAL HEALTH

Topic Area: Cultural and/or Linguistic Diversity

Secondary Topic: Parent/Family/School Partnerships

Format: Lecture

This session addresses issues impacting mental, social, and emotional health and wellness, particularly for culturally and linguistically diverse/exceptional students. Presenters will discuss the impact of financial need, family separation, acculturation, language acquisition, and other variables and will provide practical suggestions for teachers to support students facing such circumstances. THE TWIST TO THE TRADITION OF TRANSITION: SMOOTHING ROUGH ROADS

Topic Area: Administration/Supervision
Secondary Topic: Parent/Family/School Partnerships
Format: Lecture

This session will address the theory, principles and practices of transition and coordination of services for infants, toddlers, children, and youth with disabilities and their families. The key roles of school personnel and service providers in community agencies providing comprehensive services are discussed. In addition, techniques that build and facilitate effective transition, interagency collaboration, teamwork, and networking are delineated and integrated with the Star Model.

TEACHING ADDITION WITH AN EMPHASIS ON SYMBOLS AND EQUATIONS

Topic Area: Learning Disabilities
Secondary Topic: Instructional Design and Strategies
Format: Lecture

Students with mathematics difficulties received tutoring on the conceptual understanding of addition and the symbols of addition. Students practiced addition with standard or nonstandard equations. This session describes the tutoring program and discusses the benefits of instruction on symbols and nonstandard equations for addition fluency. (393)

THE IMPACT OF MULTIYEAR APPRENTICESHIPS FOR SPECIAL EDUCATION TEACHER CANDIDATES

Topic Area: Teacher Education
Secondary Topic: Strategies for Entry to the Special Education Career
Format: Lecture

For the past 12 years, one teacher training program housed at a university’s off-campus center for urban education has required teacher candidates to complete a 4-year, guided teacher apprenticeship experience working with diverse populations in a metropolitan area. Results of a study evaluating the special education teacher training program using this multiyear apprenticeship model will be presented. Features that contribute to the unique aspects of the 4-year apprenticeship experience will be discussed. Recommendations based on the results of the research will be presented and suggestions for special education teacher training programs will be shared. (1456)

THE NEXUS OF MTSS AND SPECIAL EDUCATION REFERRAL/ELIGIBILITY PROCESSES: COMPARING ACROSS STATES

Topic Area: Public Policy
Secondary Topic: Learning Disabilities
Format: Lecture

Response to intervention (RTI)/multi-tier systems of support (MTSS) models are prevalent across the United States. However, little scholarship addresses the nexus of RTI/MTSS and special education referral and eligibility processes. This session will examine the results of a qualitative analysis conducted across 12 states. (1597)

TOOTLING: USING POSITIVE PEER-REPORTING IN A HIGH SCHOOL INCLUSIVE PHYSICS CLASSROOM

Topic Area: Emotional and Behavioral Disorders
Secondary Topic: Instructional Design and Strategies
Format: Lecture

This session examines the efficacy of a classwide positive peer-reporting system known as Tootling. Results revealed that during classroom instruction in the tootling phases all of the students, including those with disabilities, reduced their number of disruptive behaviors and increased their prosocial skills. (705)

USING INTERVENTION DESIGN FRAMEWORKS TO SYSTEMATICALLY SELECT ACADEMIC INTERVENTIONS FOR STUDENTS WITH LEARNING DISABILITIES

Topic Area: Instructional Design and Strategies
Secondary Topic: Learning Disabilities
Format: Demonstration

Instruction that is individualized to struggling students’ specific skill deficits is important for systematically selecting academic interventions that enhance student outcomes. Intervention design frameworks can assist educators in systematically selecting individualized interventions. The intervention frameworks introduced in this session can be utilized for maximizing student outcomes, targeting appropriate skills, and selecting content of appropriate difficulty. (718)

Leader(s): Shawna Petersen-Brown, University of Minnesota, Minneapolis, MN

USING VERBAL PROTOCOLS TO DEVELOP A DIAGNOSTIC ASSESSMENT OF ALGEBRA READINESS

Topic Area: Assessment
Secondary Topic: Learning Disabilities
Format: Lecture

Verbal protocols provide evidence of the cognitive processes students engage in while completing tasks. In this study, we collected verbal protocol data from 22 students in Grades 5 to 8 to examine their thinking (including misconceptions and errors) when solving algebra-readiness items. Results will be shared which confirm the diagnostic potential of carefully constructed mathematics items. (1851)

EASTER SEALS PROJECT ACTION: ACCESSIBLE TRANSPORTATION INCLUSIVE-SERVICE LEARNING PROGRAM

Topic Area: Collaboration and Inclusive Practices
Secondary Topic: Career Development/Transition
Format: Poster Session

This Easter Seals Project ACTION session will highlight the work of school districts that participated in a pilot inclusive service-learning program around accessible transportation. Districts will describe the projects undertaken by students with and without disabilities, and how these projects affected student learning and use of accessible transportation. (1718)

OMG! WHAT? COMMUNICATING/CONNECTING WITH DIGITAL NATIVES IN TEACHER EDUCATION

Topic Area: Teacher Education
Secondary Topic: Research
Format: Poster Session

Research results are emerging that indicate the desire of some students to experience more personal communication (phone, face-to-face meetings) than that offered by the many digital options (e-mail, blogs, etc.) Is this really the case? Presenters will share the results of a student survey at the University of Alabama at Birmingham regarding student preferences for communication and instruction with peers and instructors. Research results include undergraduate students in the School of Education with comparative data to undergraduates in other majors who are experiencing traditional classroom settings, blended learning environments, and online learning environments. TEACHER CANDIDATES PERCEPTIONS OF INCLUDING STUDENTS WITH DISABILITIES: AN IMMERSION EXPERIENCE

Topic Area: Special Education Schools
Secondary Topic: Teacher Education
Format: Poster Session

This study compared the perceptions of general education teacher candidates on two dichotomous scales (hostility/receptivity and anxiety/calmness) before and after a 1-week immersion experience in a residential school for students with special needs. The importance of such high-impact field opportunities will be presented. (727)

TEACHING A YOUNG CHILD WITH NOONAN’S SYNDROME SENTENCE WRITING SKILLS

Topic Area: Instructional Design and Strategies
Secondary Topic: Research
Format: Poster Session

Children with NS have difficulty in the area of writing. However there are no published studies addressing how to help these children overcome their writing difficulties. This session will share the results of a study in which a child with Noonan’s Syndrome (NS) and writing disabilities was taught to compose sentences using several tasks (word study, sentence dictation, reading, reassembling, and copying). After the intervention the student produced written sentences that were grammatically correct, punctuated and capitalized accurately, and rated higher quality. (292)

USING THE REGRESSION-DISCONTINUITY DESIGN TO DETERMINE THE EFFECTIVENESS OF TIERED INTERVENTIONS

Topic Area: Research
Secondary Topic: Learning Disabilities
Format: Poster Session

Researchers will present a within study comparison of two research designs: randomized experiment and regression-discontinuity design. A side-by-side comparison of results will show similarities and/or differences in significance, magnitude, and direction of treatment effects. Presenters will discuss regression-discontinuity’s potential as an alternative to the randomized experiment. (2140)

INTERNATIONAL EXPERIENCES FOR PRESERVICE SPECIAL EDUCATORS

Topic Area: Strategies for Entry to the Special Education Career
Secondary Topic: International Programs/Services
Format: Poster Session

Special educators need to be engaged in developing relationships and building trust with immigrant and refugee students and their families to reduce barriers that limit effective special education service. Learn how engaging in international experiences is an alternative for creating experiences to work with a variety of cultural and ethnic groups. (2155)

UTILIZING TYPICALLY DEVELOPING PEERS AS CONVERSATION PARTNERS FOR EMERGING HIGH-TECH AAC DEVICE USERS

Topic Area: Technology and Media
Secondary Topic: Physical/Health/Multiple Disabilities
Format: Poster Session

Utilizing typically developing peers as conversation partners for students with multiple disabilities who are learning to use AAC devices to communicate can produce practice opportunities beyond teacher- or therapist-based instruction that are both highly motivating and meaningful to these students. Attendees will learn how to select appropriate conversation partners, how to train the conversation partners of a particular student, and how to identify naturally occurring environments and activities where this strategy can be best used. GET ACCOMPLISHED WITH CEC’s webinar program. CEC offers frequent webinars on critical issues affecting students with disabilities and their educators. Whether you are looking for professional development on evidence-based practice, effective techniques, administrative concerns, behavioral and learning issues affecting particular populations, updates on policy and advocacy... CEC offers webinars to help you improve your practice and earn CEUs. With the additional advantage of receiving your professional development from leaders in the field, well-known scholars and presenters you usually can hear only at annual conventions.

CEC webinars offer an easy, inexpensive way to participate in professional development – either on your own or with a group of colleagues or staff. Each low-cost registration is for a site, not just for an individual: all you need is a phone and an Internet connection, and you can train a whole roomful of people for one low price.

But suppose the time or day isn’t convenient, or suppose you want to review the material again later. No problem – because everyone who registers for a CEC webinar receives an electronic copy of the presentation – audio and web – afterward. You can download the file to your own computer and replay it as often as you like. Build your own professional multimedia library, or build a professional library for your school or district. If you are a teacher educator, build a library of presentations by key figures in the field that you can replay for your classes at any time.

Our upcoming webinars address a variety of critical topics for CEC members, including:

- Teaching Writing to Students With Learning Disabilities, in collaboration with DLD.
- Development of the Common Core Assessments: Implications for Students With Disabilities and Their Teachers.
- Federal Policy and Legislative Update.
- Functional Behavioral Assessment and Behavior Intervention Plans.
- And much more!

Keep an eye on us at www.cec.sped.org/webinars for the latest schedule and news.

As of February 2013

SAN ANTONIO, TEXAS
The Program Advisory Committee (PAC), headed by Chairperson Douglas Cheney, University of Washington, Seattle, reviewed over 1,600 proposals received as a result of the Convention’s Call for Presentations and Papers. The PAC reviews the proposals with multiple goals in mind including constructing a timely, comprehensive, and balanced program that appeals to the many varied interests of convention attendees while seeking to build, maintain, and energize this professional community. The Program Chair, members of the Committee, representatives from CEC’s Divisions and CEC leaders, represent all areas of expertise in the field and have worked hard to provide presentations of high quality and diversity to benefit you—our valued convention attendee.

Local Arrangements Committee

Carla Proctor, Local Arrangements Chairperson, the Lead Team, and Subcommittee Chairs collectively donated thousands of hours preparing for the convention and hundreds more during convention week. CEC relies heavily on volunteers for important tasks such as staffing registration, program hosts, the CEC Store, arranging the educational site visits, advance publicity, and attending to the myriad other details vital to the successful operation of the convention. It is because of their efforts and dedication that the annual CEC Convention and Expo remains a professional development activity of the highest quality.

CEC 2013 CONVENTION & EXPO
The challenge of working with exceptional students requires teachers with extraordinary gifts. If you’ve always thought about becoming a special education teacher, but your bachelor's degree is in a discipline other than Education, our Master of Arts in Education/Special Education (MAEd/SPE) can help you achieve your goal. This graduate degree program is intended for students with no prior teaching experience. The MAEd/SPE will introduce you to methods and strategies for classroom instruction while providing a deeper understanding of working with children who have special needs. Nationally recognized by the Council for Exceptional Children (CEC), the curriculum blends academic theory with relevant coursework, field experience and student teaching in cross-categorical setting, and includes all essential elements required to help you prepare for a career in special education. If you’re a current teacher seeking to find courses that focus on special education topics our Continuing Teacher Education/Special Education courses for teachers help provide you with a deeper understanding of students with special needs. Our Continuing Teacher Education/Special Education courses can help you meet certain criteria for potential recertification endorsements and professional development.
For nearly 50 years, the nonprofit Vocational Research Institute has been a leader in special needs assessment and career development. CareerScope®—the valid and reliable interest and aptitude assessment—is the choice of thousands of education and transition professionals across the country! Available online or on CD with accommodation options for individuals with special needs. Stop by to find out what’s new and why so many programs across the country are already using CareerScope.

West Virginia University offers online graduate degrees in Special Education. Delivery is through a combination of live, interactive virtual sessions and online assignments. Field and practicum experiences are arranged in a qualified public school in your home community with local supervision and online oversight. Classes may be used to achieve these educational goals:
- Master of Arts Degree
- Master’s Degree plus Initial Certification
- Initial Certification only
- Additional endorsement
